FREE SUGAR LOBBY SECRETS REVEALED

Lowry, Federal Refining Agent, Who Organized It, Tells of Four-Year Propaganda.

IN DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN

Wrote Free Sugar Screeds for Party Circulation—M. E. Stone Explains Policy of Associated Press.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The Senate Lobby Committee this afternoon turned its attention away from the beet sugar lobby and toward the free sugar lobby, after hearing an explanation from Melville E. Stone, General Manager of The Associated Press, concerning the extent of sugar publicity given through that institution. Mr. Stone made it clear to the committee that the policy of The Associated Press was to be fair and impartial in all matters and that the sugar controversy had been treated purely from a news standpoint.

Taking up the free sugar lobby, the committee heard the testimony of Frank C. Lowry, sales agent of the Federal Sugar Refining Company, and secretary and organizer of the "Committee of Wholesale Grocers." Senator Cummins acted as guide, while Senators Nelson and Walsh lent assistance.

The committee adjourned to-night subject to the call of the chair. The three Democratic members will be required to attend the Democratic caucus on the Tariff bill, which begins to-morrow, and Chairman Overman did not know when the hearings would be resumed. Robert S. Lovett, Chairman of the Union Pacific Board of Directors, had not been summoned to appear to-night, and his subpoena may not be served until the inquiry is taken up again.

Mr. Lowry's examination featured the closing session of the committee. He told of his attempts to accelerate public opinion and to persuade Congressmen and Senators, and spoke frankly of his efforts in the national campaign of last Fall. He said he furnished most of the sugar information which appeared in the Democratic campaign text book; that he prepared data on free sugar for a Democratic campaign document which the present Secretary of the Navy, Josephus Daniels, said would get a circulation of a million in pamphlet form, and that he had wired urging every member of the Resolutions Committee at the Baltimore Convention to put a free sugar plank in the Democratic platform.

The witness was on the stand for four hours, and when he left he promised to produce any correspondence in his files relating to the organization of the Grocers' Committee or his free sugar campaign. Many of the circulars sent out by him on the letterhead of that organization were read into the record by Senator Cummins.

Organized "Wholesale Grocers."

Mr. Lowry testified that he had conducted his fight solely for the Federal Company and that other refiners had not figured in it. He thought the expenses had amounted to about $25,000 in four years, exclusive of his salary and commissions as sales agent, amounting to about $68,000 in that period. He got nothing for his tariff work, he said.

After many questions by Senator Cummins, the witness agreed that, although all the sugar refiners did not seem to favor free sugar, they would benefit only in a less degree than the Federal by a reduction in duty. He said, however, that an official of the American Sugar Refining Company, the so-called trust, had told him that free sugar "would put us out of business."

Senator Nelson was especially interested in the Committee of Wholesale Grocers, and wanted to kjnow just how it was formed.

"There was no formal meeting," said Mr. Lowry. "I wrote to twenty-five or thirty wholesale grocers and suggested that we form such a committee."

"They were just dummies, then," suggested Senator Nelson.

"I don't think they were very dumb," replied Mr. Lowry.

"The whole proceeding was carried on by correspondence?"

"Yes, Sir."

"You appointed the Secretary and Chairman and organized the committee?"

"Yes, Sir."

Mr. Lowry told of efforts to break up the committee.

"The domestic sugar people sent out men," he said, "to try to break it up. They said: 'Lowry is a bad man; you will be subpoenaed before a Congressional committee in Washington.' But they stuck."

"What authority had you to select a committee for the wholesale grocers of the United States?" asked Senator Cummins.

"I didn't," said the witness. "I selected a committee for the people of the United States."

Senator Cummins read a telegram from Lowry to West Tubbs, Secretary of the American Society of Equity, Madison, Wis., saying:

> It is of the utmost importance that you immediately telegraph Oscar W. Underwood, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, or your Congressmen in Washington, impressing upon them the importance of taking immediate action toward a reduction in the duty on sugar. Secure the co-operation of as many others as possible in doing this. Immediate action necessary.

A circular letter from Lowry read in part:

> I wired you yesterday asking you to telegraph your representative in Washington to do everything in his power to break the deadlock existing in the Ways and Means Committee over sugar schedule. This is the kind of work that helps the cause.
> The beet suger men have been spending a large part of their time trying to confuse the issue. I was afraid they might be successful in their efforts, and therefore desired that the W. & M. Company [Ways and Means Committee?] be impressed with the fact that the country as a whole was watching their efforts and would call on them for an accounting if they failed to act.
> I am satisfied they received a great number of telegrams yesterday, and I privately learned last night that favorable action has been taken by the committee and that a bill will be favorably reported in the near future. To get the fight in the open will, of course, be a great satisfaction to us all.

Not a Lobby: Direct Primary.

"Don't you call that a lobby?" asked Senator Cummins.

"It is not a lobby at all—that is the direct primary idea," said Mr. Lowry.

"Did you have any matter sent out in 'plates'?" asked Mr. Cummins.

"I only fell for that once," said the witness. About three years ago, he said, a New York firm offered to get plate matter in papers and that afterward they got articles in "plate" in 125 papers. For this Lowry paid $500.

"There was nothing in the articles to show that they were coming from the Federal Sugar Refining Company?"

"No, Sir."

Charles B. Warren, President and general counsel of the Michigan Sugar Company, was the last witness tonight. Mr. Warren identified letters read into the record as part of the correspondence of C. C. Hamlin, the beet sugar man. Questioned by Senator Walsh about one letter regarding the purchase of bonds of the Chicago Inter-Ocean, Warren said that he had re-

COLLISION KILLS THIRTEEN.

30 Injured When Electric Trains Crash at Full Speed.

VALLEJO, Cal., June 19.—A confusion of orders brought death to thirteen persons to-day, when two electric trains met head-on near here while running at high speed. Ten were instantly killed, three died within a short time, and three of thirty or more injured are perhaps fatally hurt.

The conductor of one of the trains, who took orders by telephone from the dispatcher just before the accident, is among those probably fatally injured.

Nearly all the killed or injured were residents of Vallejo and the neighborhood.

It was not until the trains were within a few hundred feet of each other that the motormen realized the danger. Air brakes were applied, but the momentum was too great to avert a collision. There was a crash that escaped the two front coaches and hurled the other cars from the rails.

All of the fatalities occurred in the telescoped cars, and it required more than two hours' work to remove the dead and injured, many of whom were pinned down by heavy timbers. The other cars, tossed from the tracks, were piled one upon another.

Passengers who escaped serious injuries immediately went to the aid of the others, and the telephone was used to press into service all available physicians ,surgeons, and ambulances from Vallejo.

The train from Vallejo consisted of two cars crowded with passengers from the steamer Monticello from San Francisco. That from Napa of three cars carried passengers bound for another San Francisco boat. The crash came on a stretch of straight track. Which train had the right of way over the single track will be determined by the investigation ordered by the officials of the road.

LOST GEMS WORTH $19,000.

Husband Was Carrying Wife's Jewels to a Safe Deposit Vault.

A Brooklyn husband left home yesterday morning with $21,000 worth of jewelry belonging to his wife in his right-hand coat pocket, and came to New York by Subway, intending to place the valuables in a safe deposit box.

The jewelry was contained in a small sealed packet, and consisted of one pearl and diamond collarette, two diamond and pearl brooches, eleven diamond and pearl rings, five diamond and pearl pins, six pearl studs, eight uncut diamonds, and seven loose Oriental pearls.

The Subway car was crowded at the time, and he was not only forced to stand all the way to New York but was also rudely jostled by the rush-hour throng. On alighting at the Bowling Green Station he discovered that the packet was no longer in his pocket.

As a result there appears in the Lost and Found column of this morning's TIMES an advertisement offering $2,000 reward on delivery and no questions asked if the finder will kindly return the above articles of jewelry to Fox & Pier at 30 Liberty Street. According to the advertisement, the packet was lost between the Long Island Station at Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn, and the Bowling Green Station of the Subway in New York yesterday morning between 9:30 and 10 o'clock.

Cornelius F. Fox of Fox & Pier was found at the New York Yacht Club late last night. He was reluctant to say anything at all about the matter at first.

"The lost articles were worth either $19,000 or $21,000, I forget just which," he said, "and included a number of prized heirlooms. The losers are very quiet, unassuming people, who dread to see their names in the papers. They intend to sail for Europe on July 8, and the wife wanted her jewelry in safe keeping, so she gave it to her husband to put in a safe deposit vault."

JAPAN ENVOYS SEE WILSON.

Also Discuss California Trouble with Bryan at Luncheon.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—A call upon President Wilson, a luncheon with Secretary Bryan, and a visit to the headquarters of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States made this a busy day for the four commercial envoys from Japan here on a mission of peace.

In their brief visit to the White House Dr. Soyeda, who heads the delegation, unofficially gave the President his views of the California Alien Land act situation.

The delegation was accompanied by Viscount Chinda, the Japanese Ambassador, and expressed themselves as highly pleased with their audience. The President said the Japanese had spoken in a "most friendly and cordial way;" and that the visit was entirely unofficial.

At the luncheon with Secretary Bryan the visitors were said to have also talked freely regarding the California difficulty, and told of the general feeling in Japan over the passage of the Land act.

Two members of the party, Messrs. Shima and Abeko, left to-day for New York, and from there will return to their homes on the Pacific Coast. Dr. Soyeda and Mr. Kamiya will remain in Washington for several days before going to New York. They have not announced the date of their return to Tokio.

ALL CHICAGO BUILDING ENDS

Almost 25,000 Men Locked Out as Retaliatory Measure.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 19.—Almost 25,000 workmen, members of various building trades, were locked out this morning, and unless overtures looking to an adjustment of the difficulty succeed it is thought fully 35,000 will be thrown out of work before the end of the week. The lockout was ordered by the Building Construction Employers' Association, following an ultimatum sent on Monday to the Chicago Building Trades Council announcing that if the striking employes on the new Continental and Commercial National Bank Building did not return to work in forty-eight hours the building operations of all members of the association would cease.

The trouble arose among marble workers employed by the Thompson-Starrett Company, who objected to the employment of independent marble workers by the Alabama Marble Company, which had the contract for the interior marble work of the Field Museum, the general contract for which was held by the Thompson-Starrett Company. The marble workers on the Continental Bank Building walked out, and last Thursday the Building Trades Council ordered a general sympathetic strike.

All building activities in Chicago have beeen suspended. Construction work involving more than $20,000,000 is at a standstill. The contractors asserted tonight the unions were anxious to arbitrate.

"The Asbury Park Flyer" of the New Jersey Central goes into service June 23. Leaves West 23d St. 4:20; Liberty St., 4:30 P. M. week days, except Sats. North Asbury Park first stop. Similar fast service from the shore. Full Summer schedule All Rail and Sandy Hook Routes takes effect June 29.—Adv.

HYDE IS SET FREE, MAYOR HITS AT GOFF

Gaynor Denounces Justice for Rulings in Ex-City Chamberlain's Trial.

THINK CASE IS CLOSED

Whitman Will Appeal, but Hyde's Lawyers Say Court Won't Entertain It.

Ex-City Chamberlain Charles H. Hyde, who was convicted by a jury and sentenced to Sing Sing by Justice Goff on a charge of bribery growing out of his relations with the defunct Northern Bank and the Carnegie Trust Company, was released yesterday from all criminal charges by an order of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. By the unanimous vote of the Justices, the conviction was set aside and the indictment against him dismissed.

The order is so worded that the District Attorney may appeal on questions of law, and Mr. Whitman announced after he was served with it that he would take this action at once. The Court of Appeals adjourns to-day and will not reconvene until October. It was said that as the Hyde case was a criminal one it would have precedence over civil actions and might, therefore, come before the Court of Appeals early in November.

Gaynor Denounces the Trial.

Mayor Gaynor, just before departing for his home yesterday, made a veiled attack on Justice Goff for his rulings in the Hyde trial. He also attacked Joseph G. Robin, the chief accuser of Mr. Hyde, who the ex-City Chamberlain was alleged to have forced to make a loan to the Carnegie Trust Company before its failure under threats of withdrawing city deposits from Robin's bank. Public clamor, the Mayor said, was responsible for the conviction. He lamented, he said, that even the courts were no longer harbors of safety for the innocent in times of public clamor, and expressed his surprise that the judiciary of the country had not taken notice of the case. He said it was "worse than the case of the criminal Brandt."

The conviction of the ex-City Chamberlain was set aside by the Appellate Division on May 16. The order returned yesterday was merely a formal certification of that decision. All of the Justices concurred in every part of the order whereas three opinions were included in the original decision. Justices Clarke, McLaughlin and Scott held in that decision that Mr. Hyde should have a new trial. Justice Laughlin held that he should be discharged and that his bail should be released. Presiding Justice Ingraham asserted that the conviction was warranted by the evidence, but that the errors made by Justice Goff necessitated a new trial. Justice Laughlin's view prevailed in the order, and this was said to be due to the fact that the District Attorney, in his argument before the court, admitted that no further evidence could be produced against Mr. Hyde if he was tried again.

This admission on the part of the District Attorney was referred to in the preamble to the order, which then said:

> Ordered that the said judgment be and the same hereby is reversed, the indictment dismissed, and the defendant discharged, and said judgment is not reversed in the exercise of the court's discretionary power, but solely from erroneous ruling on the trial in the admission and exclusion of evidence, and upon the ground that the facts proved upon the trial were insufficient as a matter of law to constitute a crime, and reverses the judgment on the ground that the instructions given by the trial court were erroneous in point of law, and that the facts proved upon the trial do not as a matter of law constitute a crime.

As interpreted yesterday by lawyers, it was the inclusion of the clause "said judgment is not reversed in the exercise of the court's discretionary power" that left the way open for an appeal by the District Attorney. It was conceded in the order, it was pointed out, that the State had proved its case against Mr. Hyde, but the Appellate Division held that the facts proved did not constitute bribery. It is on this point that the case will be argued before the Court of Appeals.

Don't Expect an Appeal.

Both John B. Stanchfield, who argued the case for Mr. Hyde before the Appellate Division, and Charles H. Tuttle, who prepared the Hyde brief, admitted that an appeal might be taken on a question of law. Both said, though, that it was very doubtful whether such an appeal would be entertained. Mr. Stanchfield asserted that he thought the order of the Appellate Division would end the case.

"This is a complete and unqualified vindication of Mr. Hyde," said Mr. Tuttle. "It is significant that the order, unlike the opinion, is unanimous, so that all five Justices have concurred on the main points at issue. There is nothing to show that these five Justices considered Mr. Hyde guilty of any offense whatever. They even went to the point of saying that there were errors prejudicial to Mr. Hyde's case. I don't see how a man could receive a more thorough vindication."

If the Court of Appeals affirms the finding of the Appellate Division, the case will end with Mr. Hyde in the same status he enjoyed before he was indicted. If the Court of Appeals should uphold the lower court, on the other hand, Mr. Hyde would have to go to Sing Sing to serve the sentence of from two to three and a half years imposed by Justice Goff after his conviction on Nov. 29.

Mr. Hyde was not in his office at 2 Rector Street yesterday. His secretary asserted that so far as she knew he had not heard that the order in his case had been returned, as he was out of town. There was much speculation yesterday as to whether Mr. Hyde would resume the practice of law. His conviction on a felony charge automatically disbarred him, but now, it was said, he could ask the Appellate Division to readmit him to the bar.

Mayor Gaynor, who appointed Mr. Hyde City Chamberlain, heard that the Appellate Division's order had been returned early in the afternoon. On the way to his automobile to depart for his home he was asked what he thought of the vindication of his former Chamberlain. He turned on his heel and went back to his office, where he dictated a statement in which he said:

> Everybody can see now what an infamous piece of business this was. The decision of the court is what every Judge and lawyer knew it would be. It was perfectly known by the bar and the bench that the indictment stated no offense whatever. It was just as well known that there was not a particle of evidence of any criminal offense at the trial. In response to the clamor of a few corrupt newspapers the Grand Jury was induced to father the indictment by a bare majority, and it took a long time to get this majority. And then it was found that of the thirty or forty Judges of the upper courts hereabouts only one among them all could be found to stand for a trial under the indictment. That one was found after much diligence. And when he got through convicting the defendant he coolly said that he was in grave doubt whether there was any offense stated or shown. Then he just as coolly locked the defendant up in a cell for ten days before he granted the certificate of doubt which the law required him to grant.

PERKINS GETS ANGRY IN HARVESTER SUIT

Resents Government Regarding Him as Trust Witness Seeking to Obtain Immunity.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 19.—George W. Perkins, former partner in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., displayed much anger this afternoon when called to the witness stand in the dissolution suit of the Government against the International Harvester Company under the Sherman anti-trust law, when he was informed that the reason why he, of all the 1,200 witnesses in the litigation, had been served with a subpoena requiring his presence and testimony, was because the Government wished to make it clear, no matter how he testified, he could not claim immunity from prosecution. Mr. Perkins during his examination showed resentment at what he termed the "discourteous attitude of the Government" toward him.

Mr. Perkins assumed full responsibility for the formation of the International Harvester Company, said that the so-called trust was the creation of his own brain, and that in forming it he had the full sympathy of the late J. P. Morgan. He absolved Cyrus H. McCormick and all the members of the McCormick family from using any means, ulterior or otherwise, to coerce other manufacturers of agricultural instruments to enter the combination, and when questioned about an advance of $100,000 made by Cyrus H. McCormick to obtain an option on the Milwaukee Harvester Company said it represented a personal loan by Mr. McCormick to Mr. Morgan for the purpose of obtaining control of the Milwaukee concern.

On taking the witness stand as a witness for the company Mr. Perkins was informed by Assistant District Attorney Grosvenor that his testimony, from the Government's viewpoint, would be regarded as given of his own volition.

"You are subpoenaed here by Edgar A. Bancroft, attorney, and the International Harvester Company, were you not?" questioned Mr. Grosvenor. Mr. Perkins said he was.

"Both this attorney and the corporation are defendants in this suit," continued the prosecutor. "Of 1,200 witnesses you are the first to have been subpoenaed. In view of this state of affairs I wish to inform you that your testimony here does not given you immunity from prosecution."

Mr. Perkins Flusters.

Mr. Perkins flushed under this statement and warmly replied:

"I will say that I am very much surprised that the Government did not subpoena me of its own volition."

"But you recognize that your testimony here is of your own volition, and gives you no immunity?" persisted Mr. Grosvenor.

"I recognize that the Government has been very discourteous to me so far," said Mr. Perkins hotly.

The statement of Mr. Grosvenor is the first intimation that the Government contemplates including Mr. Perkins among the number of persons to be prosecuted for the alleged organization of the Harvester corporation in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

From the outset of his testimony under direct examination by Attorney McHugh for the Harvester Company until his cross-examination by the Government's attorney was concluded for the day, Mr. Perkins adhered to what is believed will be the primary defense of the company—that it was organized primarily and solely for the purpose of acquiring the harvester trade of the world outside of the United States.

"It was the opportunity for the immense sale of harvesting machinery outside of this country that led to the organization of the International Harvester Company," said Mr. Perkins under cross-examination. "Here the use of harvester machinery was already widespread. In foreign countries, for the most part, harvesting was done in the old crude methods of centuries ago. It was in those fields that we saw our opportunity. But that field could only be reached with an immense capital. The only way the required capital could be raised was through the organization of the largest of the then existing companies."

Mr. Perkins asserted that the International Harvester Company was organized on a strictly cash basis.

"There was no watered stock in it," he said emphatically. "Everything was dollar for dollar on actual values. There was no syndicate in connection with the organization."

Mr. McHugh questioned him relative to the purchase of the Milwaukee Harvester Company.

"Who was back of this purchase?" he was asked.

Morgan Behind Purchase.

"J. P. Morgan was back of this purchase, and he alone," answered the witness.

"Neither Cyrus H. McCormick nor any of the McCormicks had anything to do with the purchase of the Milwaukee firm except to advance as a temporary loan to Mr. Morgan the $100,000 which was used in the purchase of the option on the sale of the company. Mr. McCormick had absolutely nothing to do with this purchase beyond what I have said."

"Who named the International Harvester Company?" asked Mr. McHugh.

"I did," replied Mr. Perkins

"I wish you would tell why this name was chosen?" continued the attorney.

"This name was a direct outgrowth of our intention of developing the international business," Mr. Perkins answered. "My experience with the New York Life Insurance Company had been that our agents abroad had found that if able to call their firm an 'international life insurance company' the 'international' carried more weight than 'New York.' This determined our choice of the name 'International' for the Harvester Company."

"Did you confer with Mr. Morgan on this name?"

"Yes, and he proposed that it be called the 'United States International Harvester Company.' Other persons proposed the 'American Harvester Company,' but this was rejected in favor of the word 'International.'"

"Why was a provision for three Voting Trustees made?" asked Mr. McHugh.

"To make certain I could carry out my plan of things that I had in mind. The Directors of the company were chosen by myself with the same end in view."

"Why did you acquire the Osborne plant, and who bought it?" he was asked.

"I did personally," Mr. Perkins said. "It was so located as to make a good point for distribution to foreign markets."

"Were you in close relations with Mr. Morgan?"

"Yes, I was in close touch with him

STREETS FLOODED BY BROKEN MAIN

Cellars Filled and Residents for Several Blocks About 82d and Amsterdam Get a Scare.

Residents of the upper west side in the neighborhood of Eighty-second Street and Amsterdam Avenue, were in some apprehension yesterday afternoon of a flood, which filled the cellars of stores and apartment houses for several blocks. The water came from a burst water main at Eighty-second Street and Amsterdam Avenue.

A blast to dislodge a rock obstructing the digging of a trench for a fire alarm conduit broke the water main and sent up a column of water forty feet high. At Eighty-second Street and Amsterdam Avenue there is a decided slope southward on the avenue, and a torrent of water rushed several inches deep over the asphalt street to Eighty-first Street.

At the West Side Synagogue, 162 to 168 West Eighty-second Street, the water rose to a depth of one foot in the cellar. Adjoining the synogogue are two brown stone residences, 170 and 172, respectively. The cellars were flooded. From 174 to 186 West Eighty-second Street is a row of apartment houses, the basements of which are occupied by janitors and their families. Twenty minutes after the accident had occurred the chairs and lighter articles of furniture in these basement households were afloat in a foot of water.

In the basement quarters occupied by the colored janitor of 174 West Eighty-second Street, a kitten and a canary bird were drowned.

The waters poured down Amsterdam Avenue and flooded the cellars of the row of stores between Eighty-second and Eighty-first Streets, and backed up into the cellar of the apartment house at 178 West Eighty-first Street, on the northeast corner of Amsterdam Avenue.

Near the southeast corner of Eighty-first Street and Broadway an excavation for a new apartment house acted as a temporary reservoir for the water. The water was diverted into sewers, into which it flowed until 6:56 P. M., when repairmen from the Water Department shut off the water. The work of repairing the break continued all night.

WED ON THE MAJESTIC.

Captain Attends the Service and Purser Gives Bride in Marriage.

When the White Star liner Majestic arrived yesterday from Southampton Purser Evans reported to the immigration officials that two second cabin passengers, Thomas Kennett and Miss P. Joyce Long, both from Sussex, England, were married on Wednesday night by the Rev. Edward Lyons, an American clergyman, who was returning from the Philippines.

The ceremony was held in the second cabin at 10:30 o'clock and Capt. John B. Kelk and Dr. H. Danvers of the ship attended the wedding with 156 second cabin passengers. Miss Ellen Lyons, daughter of the officiating clergyman, was bridesmaid and the purser gave the bride in marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Kennett had intended to wait until they arrived on this side before they were married, but friends advised them to wed on the ship so that they could start for the West at once.

In the days of slow sailing vessels marriages were frequent on shipboard and the Captain read the service in most cases.

ERIE TELEGRAPHERS WIN.

General Leveling Up of Wages——Strike Order Recalled.

The committee representing the Erie Railroad Company telegraphers reached an agreement late yesterday afternoon with the company over the demands of the telegraphers for higher wages. There is a general readjustment of the wages on the entire railroad system. The settlement was reached after conferences lasting for several weeks between the committee and J. C. Stuart and A. J. Stone, Vice President and General Manager, respectively, of the Erie.

Under the agreement wages are increased where the lowest wages were paid, and a general leveling up to a certain standard as far as possible was made. The agreement, which was retroactive, taking effect on May 1, was signed by J. C. Stuart and A. J. Stone, on behalf of the company, and by W. H. Husted, Chairman of the General Committee of the Erie telegraphers. The strike order, which was held in abeyance after the telegraphers had voted in favor of a strike, was recalled last night.

200 STORM DEAD REPORTED.

Fishermen Tell of Heavy Loss of Life on Florida Keys.

Special to The New York Times.

TALLAHASSEE, June 19.—Fears that great loss of life resulted from the storm that hit this section last night seemingly were confirmed this afternoon when messages came in from fishermen who said 200 persons perished on the Florida Keys. The death list in this immediate vicinity is believed to be twenty, although there are only two known fatalities, both the victims being negroes. Other negroes in this section are known to have suffered severely.

The message telling of the death toll on the keys came from fishermen and others on the mainland who did not pretend to be accurate, their estimate being based merely upon their knowledge of conditions. It was stated that a great swell passed over the low islands, and that a large quantity of wreckage had drifted to the coast. Boats were unable to put out until this afternoon. It may be several days before they return.

The inhabitants of the keys are a mixed breed, largely Spanish-Manila men and a cross breed between the West Indian natives and the poorer whites, who settled that section more than a century ago.

VINDICATE ACCUSED BRITISH MINISTERS

Commons Pass, by 346 to 268, Substitute Liberal Motion in Regard to Marconi Affair.

SOME LIBERALS ABSTAIN

Asquith and Balfour Make Powerful Speeches—Bonar Law's Attack on the Share Transactions Bitter.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, June 20.—The Marconi debate in the House of Commons ended last night in the vindication of the two accused Ministers. By a vote of 346 to 268 a Liberal amendment to Mr. Cave's motion of Wednesday was carried. A few Liberals and Laborites abstained from voting.

The outstanding feature of yesterday's debate was the duel between Premier Asquith and ex-Premier Balfour. Mr. Asquith has never spoken with more earnestness or more power, and Mr. Balfour has seldom produced by a single speech so profound an effect. He brushed aside with a gesture of contempt the charges of corruption, but held that there had been breaches of propriety, and finally suggested that a fusion of the Government amendment and the Opposition motion would meet the facts of the case. The outcome of this was the withdrawal of Mr. Buckmaster's amendment and the substitution of an amendment moved by Sir W. Ryland Adkins, a Liberal, as follows:

> This House, after hearing the statements of the Attorney General and the Chancellor of the Exchequer in reference to their purchases of shares in the Marconi Company of America, accepts their expressions of regret that such purchases were made and that they were not mentioned in the debate of Oct. 11 last, and acquits them of acting otherwise than in good faith, and reprobates the charges of corruption against the Ministers, which have been proved to be absolutely false.

The Premier's Speech.

Mr. Asquith manifestly spoke with an overwhelming sense of responsibility. Mr. Cave's motion, he said, was not only inadequate but in the highest degree ungenerous. It contained no reference to the scandalous charges, proved utterly baseless, that had been leveled against the Ministers.

While acknowledging the dignity and moderation of the leading Unionist journals, Mr. Asquith spoke with severity of that section of the press which fanned the flames of calumny. A reference to anti-Semitism—"the disgraceful appeals that have been made to racial and religious animosities"—was greeted with loud applause.

If the House was to place on record its considered judgment of the Ministers, he continued, then, as day followed night, there should be placed in the very forefront reprobation of these charges and satisfaction at their refutation. The House ought to be unanimous in saying that the Ministers had been foully traduced.

As for Mr. Cave's motion, said the Premier, it was in effect a vote of censure. An explanation was due from the Ministers to the House, but was there ever a franker or more manly explanation than was given by the Chancellor of the Exchequer and the Attorney General on Wednesday?

Mr. Asquith then confided to the House all that he knewof the Marconi transactions. He was told last August by the Master of Elibank (now Lord Murray) that three Ministers had bought American Marconi shares and that there was no connection between the English and American companies. The Premier obviously then placed no importance to the purchases, but he said that now that he knew all the facts he thought the Ministers ought to have stated these facts to the House in the debate last October.

A jeering reference from a member to Lord Murray of Elibank drew from Mr. Asquith a fervid tribute to his old chief whip. He extolled his "loyal, assiduous, and faithful service during anxious years" and did homage to "the soundness of his judgment and the integrity of his character."

The Audience Absorbed.

These personal passages were listened to with profound attention by an audience so absorbed that not a sound was heard except the Prime Minister's voice.

Mr. Asquith proceeded to lay down certain maxims which should govern the conduct of Ministers in regard to their investments. He said that none of those rules of positive obligation had been violated by Ministers in this case, but there was also a rule of prudence specially applicable to Ministers and to persons in positions of official responsibility. "In such matters these persons should carefully avoid all transactions which can give countenance to a belief that they are doing anything which the rules of obligation forbid." That rule had not been fully observed by the Ministers, though there was complete innocence of intention.

In his closing remarks Mr. Asquith urged the House to remember that in this case there had been no failure to observe the rules of honesty and public duty. The two Ministers had expressed regret for an error of judgment. "Cannot the House accept their statement?" he said. "I am not appealing to its generosity."

The Premier said he scorned the idea of an "ad misericordium" ap-

Only 400 Attend a Meeting in Tokio—Speeches Mild.

TOKIO, June 19.—An anti-American mass meeting held here to-night was attended by not more than 400 persons. These were chiefly workingmen, idlers, and agitators.

The speeches were of a comparatively mild order.

THIRD SON TO KING ALFONSO

Born Last Night — Infant is the King's Sixth Child.

MADRID, June 19.—Queen Victoria of Spain gave birth to a son to-night.

This is the sixth child born to the King and Queen of Spain. The fourth was still-born. All the others, two sons and two daughters, are living.

King Alfonso and Princess Victoria Ena of Battenberg were married on May 31, 1906.

BOY TURNED INTO A TORCH.

Says Playmate Lighted Him Instead of a Bonfire.

Clayton Spencer, five years old, of 141 Parker Street, taken to the City Hospital in Newark, with the upper part of his body badly burned, told the hospital physicians that a playmate had set his clothing afire while they were getting ready to start a bonfire.

The boy said that his playmate told him that if he would shut his eyes he would "show him something." When he opened his eyes the front of his coat was on fire. An investigation of the boy's story is being made by the police.

PACIFIC GUNS' HIGH SCORE.

Fifteen of 20 Shots Hit Mark Five and a Half Miles at Sea in Dark.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—Fifteen of the twenty shots fired from one of San Francisco's mortar battery defenses last night struck a target five and a half miles out at sea. For night practice this is regarded as an unusual score.

The target, which was in the glare of five powerful searchlights from the shore, was not visible to the gunners who fired from a pit behind a hill. The range was telephoned to them from stations overlooking the entrance of the harbor.

McADOO WANTS $8,000,000.

Government Hard Up to Meet Deficiencies, He Tells Congress.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Government departments urgently need $8,000,000 and Secretary McAdoo to-day asked Congress to appropriate money to meet the deficiencies and emergencies covered by that sum. The Interstates Commerce Commission needs $1,500,000 for the physical valuation of railroads, $1,000,000 must be forthcoming to repay the Mississippi River flood relief expenses of the War and Navy Departments, $250,000 is needed to begin the Arlington National Cemetery memorial amphitheatre, $100,000 for the new Industrial Relations Commission, $162,000 for the new Department of Labor, $8,000 for the Atlantic iceberg patrol, $100,000 for the production cost investigation of the Bureau of Domestic and Foreign Commerce, $1,000,000 for replacing stores destroyed in the Benecia Arsenal, California; $500,000 for various public building projects, and $39,000 for the Civil Service Commission's examination of all fourth-class Postmasters.

GIRL GRADUATE CAN THROW.

Tosses a League Baseball 150 Feet in the Air with Apparent Ease.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, June 19.—With an audience of over 1,000, including priests and sisters, as well as parents of the graduates, Elsa Mathilda Umla of Brooklyn, a member of the graduating class of St. Joseph's Seminary, a select school threw a league baseball over the school building of four stories with all the ease and abandon of a big leaguer. The ball landed on the other side of the school, after having shot into the air a distance of 150 feet.

The girl is not the kind of robust and masculine type that one might associate with such a feat. Slight of build, she is, however, exceedinly supple, and has always practiced throwing boy-fashion rather than girl-fashion.

No, she is not a suffragette, and you had better not suggest that she take to hurling bricks in behalf of the militants.

O'BRIEN MADE AN INSPECTOR

Tappen, Once Dismissed, Put in Charge of Traffic Squad B.

Police Commissioner Waldo promoted Capt. John O'Brien, who has been in command of Traffic Squad B, to an Inspectorship yesterday. Capt. John F. Tappen was transferred from the Greenwich Street Station to take Inspector O'Brien's place. Capt. Patrick Corcoran, who was also a Captain in Traffic Squad B, was put in command of the Greenwich Station.

Capt. Tappen was dismissed from the force by Commissioner Cropsey for making a false statement to the Commissioner. He was reinstated by Commissioner Waldo. Last April a taxpayer's suit was begun to prevent the payment of his salary. Capt. Corcoran's name was brought into the limelight by Mrs. Mary Goode before the Curran Committee. It was said that Corcoran permitted Policeman John Skelly to do plain clothes duty contrary to regulations. Skelly is under indictment for extortion, and is awaiting trial.

100 GIRLS IN A FREE FIGHT.

Police Called In to Quell General Row in the Magdalene Home.

Mrs. Harris, Superintendent of the Magdalene Home for Wayward Girls, at Dyckman Street and River Road, heard warlike sounds coming from the dormitories on the first floor of the home last night, and on investigation found about 100 girl inmates fighting tooth and nail among themselves.

Summoning William Hartigan, a special policeman atached to the home, Mrs. Harris, with two other attendants, tried to break up the free-for-all fight, but they were helpless, and the scratching, kicking, hairpulling, and biting went on until Hartigan ran into the street and fetched Mounted Policeman Holmes and Patrolman Washburn, who, after a hard struggle, stopped the fight and arrested six of the wayward ones, who, from their damaged condition, appeared to have been the ringleaders.

They were Helen Conly, Reba Miller, Jennie Goldberg, Mary Reilly, May Klondine, and Elsie Smith, and all six when arraigned later in the Women's Night Court were held in $1,000 for examination to-night by Magistrate McQuade. The police theory of the fight is that it was all a put up job.

RESERVE BOARD CUT IN CURRENCY BILL

Down to Seven Members Now, with Bankers Not Naming Representatives.

BOND PROVISIONS CHANGED

Bill May Be Introduced To-day or Wait Until Wilson Reads His Message on Monday.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Representative Carter Glass of Virginia, Chairman of the House Committee on Banking and Currency, gave out to-night the text of the bill revising the banking and currency laws, which was prepared as an Administration measure after many conferences between President Wilson, Secretary McAdoo, Senator Owen of Oklahoma, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency, and Mr. Glass.

It had not been the intention of those connected with the preparation of this important measure to make public its contents until next Monday, when it was to have been introduced in the House by Mr. Glass and in the Senate by Senator Owen. The publication of the text of the bill in THE NEW YORK TIMES this morning caused that plan to be changed, however. The bill as given out to-night is practically the same as printed in THE TIMES, except in the matter of a few changes, which were made after the draft was received from the Government printing office on Tuesday. These changes were the result of conferences held at the White House on Tuesday night and last night.

These changes involve only two points, which will be considered at a conference to be held at the White House to-morrow night between President Wilson, Secretary McAdoo, and the Democratic members of the House Committee on Banking and Currency. President Wilson has indicated to Democratic members of the Senate Committee on Currency that he will go to the Capitol to consult with them at various dates in the future.

The present plan is to have the bill introduced in the House of Representatives to-morrow, but this may be changed in consequence of the fact that President Wilson will go to the Capitol on Monday to read to Congress his message urging immediate revision of the banking and currency laws.

The introduction of the bill may be deferred until after the President has read his message. Immediately after the bill has been introduced the House Committee on Banking and Currency will meet to consider its provisions, and it is the hope of Chairman Glass that the committee will complete this consideration at a very early date. The committee will hold no public hearing on the bill.

Representative Underwood, Democratic leader of the House of Representatives, arranged to-day for a joint session of the Senate and the House on Monday to listen to President Wilson's currency message. The joint session will be held in the chamber of the House.

Board of Seven Members.

The two changes in the bill provide that the Federal Reserve Board, which will carry out the provisions of the act, shall consist of seven members, instead of nine, as provided in the draft of the bill published in THE TIMES this morning, and striking from the bill the three sections which related to the retirement of national bank circulating notes, and the refunding of the Government 2 per cent. bonds, which furnish the security for their circulation.

The elimination of the three sections—18, 19, and 20, in the draft of the bill printed in THE TIMES—was due to a vigorous protest from Senator Owen. He insisted that the matter of retiring bonds secured circulating medium, and the exchanging the 2 per cent. bonds for 3's should be left to future consideration and separate legislation. He virtually demanded that this should be done and ultimately had his way.

It is expected, however, that this change will cause great dissatisfaction with some of the Democratic members of both committees on banking and currency, and that a strong effort will be made to replace the deleted sections.

Representative Glass insisted that the Democratic Party was pledged by the platforms of 1896, 1900, and 1908 to retire the national bank circulating notes. He urged such a provision, which would, of course, have to carry with it some provision for the refunding of the 2 per cent. bonds in order to protect the latter. Senator Owen insisted upon postponing consideration of changing the status of the national bank notes until the next regular session of Congress.

The three sections, numbered 18, 19, and 20, as published in THE TIMES this morning, represented a compromise, but during the past two days other influences in the Senate were brought to bear against these three sections, and finally it was decided to eliminate them.

Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, a member of the Banking and Currency Committee of the Senate, who saw President Wilson yesterday, was opposed to any change in the status of the national bank circulating notes and so told the President.

Mr. Glass said to-day that he believed provision should have been made for the retirement of the national bank notes and the refunding of the Government 2 per cents. Under the change made in the number of the members and the composition of the Federal Reserve Board the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of Agriculture, and the Controller of the Currency, will remain as members ex-officio, but the four additional members will be chosen by the President of the United States by and with the advice and consent of the Senate.

Gives Government Control.

This gives the Federal Government absolute control over the new Federal reserve banking system to be established by the bill, and is in conformity with the insistence of prominent Democrats that the banks should have no share in the control of the new organization of which they will form a part. Prior to this change it was provided that the Federal Reserve Board should consist of nine members, including the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of Agriculture, and the Controller of the Currency and three others should be named by the President of the United States, and the remaining three elected by the reserve banking associations created by the act.

While this original provision gave to the Federal Government six of the nine members of the Federal Reserve Board, it also gave the banks a minority representation. The plan now embodied in the bill entirely eliminates the banks from any say in the new Federal reserve system with which they will be associated.

The four members af the Federal board, chosen by the President, are to receive a salary of $10,000, and the Controller of the Currency, as a member of the board, is to receive a salary of $5,000 in addition to his present salary of the same amount. It is required that one of the persons to be appointed by the President shall be experienced in banking, and that the four members shall serve for eight years each, but that one shall retire every two years for the first eight years.

With the copies of the Currency bill which he gave to the press Representative Glass furnished a memorandum explaining the provisions of the measure which he will introduce in the House as Chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency. The memorandum follows:

Memorandum on the Bill.

The bill prepared by Representative Glass of Virginia and to be introduced in the House as a basis of legislative action will be gone over in detail for such alterations as a majority of the Banking and Currency Committee may care to make. The purpose of the bill is to be a comprehensive revision of the currency system of the country so as to obtain these principal objects:

(1.) Provision of a means for rediscounting commercial paper of specified types.

(2.) Provision of a basis for elastic note issues properly safeguarded.

(3.) Provision of machinery for doing foreign banking business.

In order to accomplish these purposes fully, it is necessary to repeal certain portions of existing laws to rectify various conditions in the present national banking system which are in some cases only indirectly connected with the objects sought; to furnish a new class of institutions for the performance of some functions which cannot well be intrusted to existing banks, or at all events can better be performed by others and to alter the present reserve system to a very material degree.

The scope of the bill can best be understood by an analytical review of its contents.

Present Situation.

The present banking system in the United States rests upon the National Bank act proper, as slightly modified from time to time, and upon the so-called Aldrich-Vreeland act of May 30, 1908. Of these acts the latter is completely superseded on the ground that it has never become operative, probably will not become operative except under stress, and was never satisfactory.

The National Bank act itself is modified in numerous essential particulars. In a separate measure a general revision of the administrative provisions of the National Bank act will be provided.

New Class of Banks.

Fundamental to the idea of the bill is the creation of a new class of banks, to be known as Federal Reserve Banks, the chief points about which are as follows:

1. The number is to be twelve, with possible increase later as provided.

2. The ownership is to be in the hands of the stockholding banks of the twelve districts in which the reserve banks are situated. The national banks are compelled to be members and State banks and trust companies are permitted to be members.

3. The capitalization is to be 20 per cent. of the capital of the stockholding banks, one-half paid in and one-half subject to call.

4. The business of these Federal Reserve Banks is to be as follows:

(a)—Rediscounting of paper presented by stockholding banks under specified conditions, provided such paper grows out of actual agricultural, commercial, or industrial transactions and does not run more than a specified number of days.

(b)—Buying and selling Government securities, gold and silver bullion, and foreign coin, foreign exchange, and open-market bills of given maturity.

(c)—Government fiscal operations.

Issue of Notes.

"Every national bank is allowed to continue its note issue exactly as at present and, in addition, Federal reserve treasury notes are authorized to be issued to an amount not exceeding $500,000,000. These notes will, upon application, be issued to the Federal reserve banks upon prime short-time commercial paper and other liquid collateral. While the notes will, on their faces, purport to be obligations of the United States, they are required to be secured by a gold reserve of 33 1-3 per cent. provided by the Federal reserve bank, and are a first and paramount lien on all the assets of these banks and are redeemable in gold on demand at the Treasury Department in the City of Washington or at any Federal reserve bank. Stringent provisions are made against counting any of these notes as a part of bank reserves, and the system is guarded against inflation by lodging power with the Federal Reserve Board to exact an interest charge upon Treasury notes in order to insure their prompt redemption. The notes are not made legal tender, but are receivable by the Government and every bank of the system at par without exchange. No change is made in the elements of protection afforded existing banknotes.

Government Control.

Overseeing the whole system is created a Federal Reserve Board, consisting of seven members, including the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of Agriculture, and the Controller of the Currency as members ex officio. Four other members are chosen by the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, for a term of six years each. One of the members thus appointed by the President is to be Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, one Vice Governor, and one Secretary.

Their term of office is for eight years except that of those first appointed, one is to serve two years, one four, one six, and one eight years. At least one of the members appointed by the President is to be a person of banking experience. Thus it will be noted that the Government will have absolute control of the system. The salary of each member of the board except the two Cabinet officers, who are ex officio members, is fixed at $10,000, the Controller of the Currency to receive $5,000 in addition to the salary which he receives under existing law.

The powers of the Federal Reserve Board are as follows:

(a) To examine at its discretion the accounts and books of each Federal reserve bank, and to require such statements and reports as it deems necessary.

(b) To require, or on application to permit, a Federal reserve bank to rediscount the paper of any other Federal reserve bank.

(c) To establish each week, or as much oftener as required, a rate of discount which shall be mandatory upon each Federal reserve bank and for each class of paper, provided that said rate of discount need not be uniform for all Federal reserve banks, but shall be made with a view to accommodating the commerce of the country and promoting a stable price level.

(d) To suspend for a period not exceeding thirty days (and to renew such suspension for periods not to exceed fifteen days) any and every reserve requirement specified in this act.

(e) To supervise and regulate the issue of treasury notes to Federal reserve banks.

(f) To add to the number of cities classified as reserve and central reserve cities under existing law in which national banking associations are subject to the reserve requirements set forth in the act; or to reclassify existing reserve and central reserve cities and to designate the banks therein situated as country banks at its discretion.

(g) To require the removal of officials of Federal reserve banks for incompetency, dereliction of duty, fraud, or deceit.

(h) To require the writing off of doubtful or worthless assets upon the books and balance sheets of Federal reserve banks.

(i) To suspend the further operations of any Federal reserve bank and appoint a receiver therefor.

(j) To perform the duties, functions, or services specified or implied in the act.

Federal Reserve Banks.

The bill is based on the belief that no one should participate in the control of the system unless he is financially interested himself, or chosen by those who are, except in so far as the Government steps in and asserts the authority of the whole community. With this in mind, the system has been devised so as to provide for the continuation of existing national banks with their organization, powers, and function unchanged. In addition there is established a system of Federal reserve banks, which are incorporated institutions holding Federal charters, and in all respects managed like national banks, except as to the election of directors.

As stated, there are twelve of these Federal reserve banks, each managed by a board of nine Directors, three of whom will be expert bankers selected by the banks, three will be members selected in the same way, but required to represent the commercial, industrial, or agricultural interests of the district, and subject to removal by the Federal Reserve Board in case they do not fairly represent these interests. The remaining three Directors are to be chosen by the Federal Reserve Board, and one of them is to be designated by said board as Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Federal reserve bank of the district to which he is appointed and is to be the agent of the Federal Reserve Board.

The national banks are compelled to be stockholding members of the Federal reserve bank of their respective districts, and State banks and trust com-banks and the Government, except that it may purchase bankers' bills and bills of exchange in the open market from individuals, as well as from domestic or foreign banks.

Division of Business.

The object of the bill is to effect a moderate division and classification of banking business along indicated lines, the net result, presumably, being summed up as follows:

1. National reserve banks will be strictly limited to rediscounting actual commercial and industrial transactions evidenced by very short term paper and on rare occasions, under carefully prescribed conditions to financial operations protected by collateral. They will also be able to engage in foreign exchange operations, sales of Government securities, &c., as already explained.

2. National banks will be subjected to precisely the same restrictions as at present with a relaxation in favor of a moderate amount of real estate loans by country banks under carefully guarded conditions.

3. By a revision of the administrative features of the National Banking act, provision will be made for close oversight of national institutions with a view to holding them strictly up to tht requirements of a legitimate banking business.

4. In order to possess themselves of the kind of paper entitling them to rediscounts, national banks will find themselves obliged to keep a reasonable proportion of their assets in the form of paper eligible for rediscounting, and this will mean very considerable emphasis upon the strictly commercial aspects of the business done by national institutions.

Relations with Treasury.

It is believed that the present Sub-Treasury system is unsatisfactory, clumsy, injurious to business, and difficult to manage in times of stress. The bill therefore provides for:

1. The placing of all current funds of the Treasury in Federal reserve banks and the payment of Government creditors by check thereon.

2. The equalization of the public funds between the different reserve banks by direction of the Secretary of the Treasury and subject to a rate of interest to be fixed by the Federal Reserve Board.

3. The trust funds of the Treasury are to be held as at present in the vaults of the Treasury.

Division of Earnings.

Under the terms of the bill the Federal reserve banks, after the payment of all expenses and taxes, are entitled to pay an annual cumulative dividend of 5 per cent. on paid-in capital to their stockholding members. One-half the net earnings of the bank must be paid into the surplus fund until said fund shall amount to 20 per cent. of the paid-in capital of the bank. The remaining one-half of the bank's earnings shall be paid to the United States, and whenever and so long as the surplus fund of each Federal reserve bank amounts to 20 per cent. of the paid-in capital, the shareholders having received their permissible dividend of 5 per cent., all excess earnings shall be paid to the United States. Every Federal reserve bank is exempt from Federal, State, and local taxation, except in respect to taxes upon real estate.

Reserves.

In the belief that the present reserve system is antiquated and unsatisfactory, that to the massing of funds in New York and other financial centres, of which so much has been said in recent years, is largely due to the present reserve requirements of national banks, and that in order to get the real benefit from the system of rediscount, which has been proposed as a remedy for many existing evils, it is necessary to base such system upon an actual control of reserves, provision has been made for recasting the present bank reserve system. The plan includes:

1. Transfer of reserves from existing national banks in reserve and central reserve cities to national reserve banks.

2. Spreading out of this process of transfer over a period of thirty-eight months in order to give as little shock as possible to market conditions.

3. Ultimately the establishment of a reserve system at the end of the transition period in which (1) country banks will have 15 per cent. of reserve—i. e., 15 per cent. of total demand liabilities—such 15 per cent. to be held 5 per cent. in the banks' vaults, 5 per cent. with the national reserve bank, and 5 per cent. either at home or with the reserve bank; while (2) reserve and central reserve city banks will have reserves of 20 per cent. of demand liabilities, of which 10 per cent. will be at home, 5 per cent. with the reserve bank of the district, and 5 per cent. either at home or with the reserve bank.

4. The presumed effect of this plan will be to end the placing of reserves with central reserve city banks for use in stock market operations, to keep reserve in some measure at home, and to require speculators to get the funds they need in their operations, either by directly borrowing them from persons who hold them and want to lend the cash for that purpose, or else by borrowing from the banks in the places where the operations are to be carried on.

Foreign Banking.

In order to meet the view so often expressed in commercial circles, to the effect that the prosecution of American business in foreign countries would be greatly helped by improved banking facilities, the bill authorizes any national banking association with a minimum capital of $1,000,000 to establish branches in foreign countries for the furtherance of foreign commerce of the United States and to act as fiscal agents of the United States abroad. The Federal Reserve Board is required to pass upon all applications of national banks to establish such banks abroad.

FAMOUS DONATELLO SOLD.

Italian Government Pays $80,000 for "The Child St. John."

FLORENCE, June 19.—The Government to-day purchased from the Martelli family, whose gallery is one of the richest in art treasures in Florence, the famous Donatello statue "The Child St. John," for $80,000.

Eight years ago this statue was offered, together with other works of the same period, to the late J. Pierpont Morgan. The price then asked for the collection was $1,400,000.

The Martelli family have owned the Palazzo Martelli, in the Via Zannetti, ever since Donatello's time, and Ruberto Martelli was one of the principal patrons of the artist.

A large number of Donatello's works were preserved in the house, among them a fine coat-of-arms of the family, a large bronze patera decorated with bacchanalian scenes, now in the Victoria and Albert Museum, London, and two representations of Donatello's favorite subject, John the Baptist—a bust and a statue.

The statue represents John as a youthful ascetic. It was executed in the artist's second period, the decade of 1433—1443.

NONE BUT WHITMAN SUITS REPUBLICANS

"A PLATFORM IN HIMSELF"

Col. Roosevelt Is Non-Committal, but Senator Elsberg Is for Whitman and Helps Open Headquarters.

In a meeting that boiled over with enthusiasm the Republican County Committee went on record last night at the Murray Hill Lyceum as unanimously in favor of District Attorney Charles S. Whitman as a candidate for Mayor. It was the largest meeting the committee had held in years, about 500 of the 600 members being present.

While the committee pledged itself to co-operate with the Fusionists against Tammany Hall this Fall, it presented Mr. Whitman's name as the one upon which all parties could unite with the surest prospect of winning. There were only three speakers, but every time the District Attorney's name was mentioned the applause was loud and long. Each speaker extolled Mr. Whitman as being a courageous and fearless District Attorney and just the kind of a man that was needed in the City Hall.

This was the Republican County Committee's reply to the request of the Citizens' Committee of One Hundred and Seven that it submit the name of a candidate who would be acceptable to the Republicans. The following resolution, proposed by Frederick C. Tanner, Republican leader of Mr. Whitman's own district, the Twenty-fifth Assembly, was passed with shouts of approval:

> The Republican County Committee recognizes the supreme importance in the coming municipal campaign of uniting all parties, civic bodies, and citizens who are opposed to Tammany influence in the government of the city, and pledges itself to co-operate with those using their best endeavors to accomplish this result.
> We also reaffirm the principle that municipal campaigns should be non-partisan and without reference to State or national issues, having in mind only the qualifications of candidates for the respective offices without regard to their political affiliations.
> Because of his recognized ability, his unparalleled record in office, and his unswerving fidelity to the public interest, we respectfully urge all parties, civic bodies, and citizens who are endeavoring to recommend a ticket to the voters in opposition to Tammany Hall at the coming campaign, to place thereon the name of Charles S. Whitman for Mayor.

"Whitman His Own Platform."

"This resolution," said Mr. Tanner, "means just what it says, no more and no less. We are going to co-operate with any bona fide fusion committee, but we are also going to ask Mr. Whitman's nomination solely upon the record he has made. We believe that he doesn't belong to any one party, but to the people regardless of political affiliations. We cannot afford to approach this question in any spirit of partisanship. The movement is simply one in which all good citizens can join to stop the brigandage and piracy that has been going on in this town."

Lloyd Strycker, former Deputy Assistant District Attorney, who was one of counsel for former Police Lieut. Becker, said that Mr. Whitman was bigger than any party and that he had dared to do his duty as a fearless and courageous public prosecutor. William D. Hayward, leader of the Seventeenth Assembly District, was the only other speaker. The District Attorney, he said, was the only logical Mayoralty candidate in sight for the fusionists.

Roosevelt Non-Commital.

Neither Col. Roosevelt nor District Attorney Whitman would comment yesterday upon Mr. Whitman's visit to Oyster Bay on Wednesday. The Colonel was at the Outlook office, and when he was asked if there was any special significance attached to the visit he replied:

"No; it had no special significance."

When Col. Roosevelt was told that a prominent Progressive had quoted him as taking the position that the choosing of the Progressive candidate should be left to the members of the party at the primaries, he said:

"Certainly, I am in favor of settling the question of candidates at the primaries."

Mr. Whitman's friends decided not to wait any longer about starting his boom. Lucien L. Bonheur, until recently Progressive leader of Nassau County; former State Senator Nathaniel A. Elsberg, and several other enthusiastic Whitman men yesterday established headquarters for their candidate in the Longacre Building, at Forty-second Street and Broadway. Mr. Bonheur will be in charge, and associated with him will be Justice Franklin Hoyt of Special Sessions, who went to Oyster Bay with Mr. Whitman; A. E. Stilger, and Francis J. Lantry.

"As a result of the Whitman-Roosevelt conference we are opening headquarters to-day," said Mr. Bonheur. "I have no quarrel with Chairman Bird, but I think that Mr. Whitman should be Mayor, and we are sending out circulars in his behalf to the 100,000 unenrolled voters in this city."

The Whitman boomers also decided yesterday that things had progressed far enough to take up the question of a candidate for District Attorney and they put their sanction on the boom of Assistant District Attorney Frank Moss for that position. Mr. Moss, it was said, would accept the nomination.

Mr. Elsberg, who will taken an active part in the Whitman boom from now on, said:

"Speaking only for myself, as an enrolled member of the Progressive Party in New York County, I greatly regret that without any expression from the party's enrolled voters it should be presnted as being opposed to District Attorney Whitman as the Fusion candidate for Mayor.

"We are committed to direct primaries, to the selection of all candidates by the enrolled members of the party. Let the name of Mr. Whitman—indeed, the names of all those who are suggested as fit candidates for the Fusion Mayoralty nomination and who receive the requisite support to place them on the primary ballot—be submitted to the enrolled members of the Progressive Party and then, when they have decided, let their views be given effect by the representatives of the Progressive organization."

Mr. Elsberg, it was said, made his statement with the sanction of Col. Roosevelt, and that the Colonel's view are the same.

The Nominating Committee of the Fusionists did not hold a meeting yesterday, but it was said that when it reports to the Executive Committee it will make it very plain that the opinion of the majority of those who have appeared before them, Republicans, Progressives, and Democrats alike, is that Mr. Whitman should be the candidate of the Citizens' Municipal Conference.

Controller Prendergast said yesterday that he had not changed his views on the Mayoralty selection since last year.

"Last November," he said, "I said that if the leaders in charge of the fusion movement decided on the nomination of Mr. McAneny, a Democrat, for Mayor, I would support him cheerfully, and if they decided upon Mr. Whitman, a Republican, I would cheerfully support him."

GRAND JURY FINDS SING SING ALL BAD

Air Spaces for Prisoners Inadequate, Treatment Inhuman, and Disease Invited.

VICE ALLOWED TO GO ON

Well Mannered and Vicious Together—Presentment for Legislature—New Prison Demanded.

The abandonment of Sing Sing Prison and the erection of a new one on a site of from 500 to 1,000 acres of fertile land are recommended to the State Legislature in special session by the Grand Jury of Westchester County in the presentment made yesterday at White Plains, after an investigation of the charges made in the report of George W. Blake, the Governor's special investigator of prisons and reformatories. The administration of Warden John S. Kennedy is severely arraigned in several passages in the Grand Jury's findings. The Grand Jury did not mention the charges of Mr. Blake of trafficking in pardons and commutations, but in other particulars the language of the Grand Jury in describing the condition of the prison is quite as strong as that of the special investigator.

Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins, who received the presentment from the Grand Jury, directed that a copy of the findings be sent to the Governor. The charges of Mr. Blake which were not touched on in the presentment will be taken up by the Grand Jury to-day. It is said that probably four indictments will be returned. The presentment handed up yesterday was signed by all the Grand Jurors, by District Attorney Winslow, and by James W. Osborne, the special Deputy Attorney General appointed to assist in the investigation.

The cell house at Sing Sing, according to the presentment, was built in 1825, and has all the faults of that period of prison construction. Many of its windows face a sold wall, so that there are many cells into which sunlight never enters. The cell house is built directly on the ground adjacent to the Hudson River, and only a few feet above it. In consequence the cells are so damp that moisture stands in drops on the walls.

> There is an over-present predisposition to rheumatic disease, many of the inmates having contracted chronic rheumatism and have left the prison permanently crippled. With this rheumatic affliction there has developed, in many instances, an organic disease of the heart, directly attributable to rheumatism.
> The prisoners usually enter the prison in a run-down condition. They are physically below par, since the criminal class naturally comprises these individuals whose lives are irregular and who are drug or alcohol habitues. Their entire life has been out of a normal course, and their power of resistance is speedily lowered after a few weeks of prison life. This means that they are more than normally susceptible to disease.

The cells are described as 7 feet long, 3 feet 4 inches wide, and 6 feet 6 inches high, providing 168.67 cubic feet of air, less than half the air space that is required per person in a lodging house. Two prisoners are confined in many of the cells. The housing capacity of the prison is 1,200. As many as 2,000 prisoners have been lodged in the prison at one time during the last two years. The sanitary condition of the cells, as set forth in the presentment, are unspeakable.

"The confinement," says the Grand Jury, "of an average human being in a cell of those dimensions is terrific punishment, and if it does not lead to the contraction of some disease it results in the impairment of the nervous system.

"Cell life is particularly unfortunate for those prisoners for whom, nine times out of ten, the cell serves as an abiding place for from one to twenty years."

These are the physical conditions. The administrative conditions are thus described:

> The Warden and principal keeper select the inmates who are to occupy a common cell. We learn that frequently men are coupled who are repugnant and dangerous to each other, and this situation has not been changed even upon their request.
> The physicians of the prison are not called upon to examine men who are compelled to occupy the same cell. Consequently we find that all too frequently a man of diseased physique, mind, or habits is coupled with a clean-bodied, clean-minded, and clean-mannered man.
> We find that convicts in pronounced stages of tuberculosis are housed with men of perfect health.

"We find young boys condemned to room with habitual criminals; no effort being made to prevent the doubling up of a hardened or habitual criminal with a first offender."

The presentment is unsparing in its condemnation of the "cooler," the series of dark cells where prisoners are confined for infractions of discipline. Confinement here has driven prisoners insane and caused others to attempt suicide, while most men in a few days of such incarceration lose from twenty-five to thirty pounds. The prisoners are fed only once in twenty-four hours and they receive at this meal a ten-ounce slice of bread and eight ounces of water to the person. So desperate becomes their thirst that they have been known to drink the disinfectant from their cell buckets.

"This condition," the Grand Jury adds, "exists to-day and is approved by the present Warden."

The average man, the presentment says, requires at least fifty ounces of water a day, and the limitation to eight ounces causes torment in all cases and is likely to aggravate disease and in some cases cause death.

It is found that the doctors have never examined any of the men about to be confined in the "cooler," although required by law to do so.

The conditions under which food is prepared are found to be highly insanitary and dangerous. The laundry conditions are found to be responsible for the spread of disease, and "the laundry is totally unequipped for the needs of the prisoners."

The moral tone of the prison is found to be very bad. Instead of efforts to restrict vice, every opportunity is said to be provided for it, and it is taken for granted by the prison officials.

CUBA ACTS AGAINST PLAGUE

Orders Gunboat Patrol to Stop Haitians Trying to Slip In.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, June 19.—Owing to the practice of Haitians of landing in the small inlets of Cuba from little sailing vessels without passing the Cuban health authorities, thereby putting the island in danger of plague infection, the Cuban Government to-day ordered several gunboats to patrol constantly the coast of Oriente Province.

The purpose of the Government in taking that step was to apprehend clandestine immigrants from Haiti.

ceived such a letter from Hamlin, but that neither he nor the Michigan company had purchased such bonds.

Mr. Warren said that at one time he held stock in the Michigan company for the American Sugar Refining Company, but not now. He said that at one time the so-called trust had held more than 42 per cent. of the Michigan stock, but that enough of this stock had been sold to reduce the trust's holdings to about 33 per cent. This was done, he said, to prevent any complications under the Sherman law.

Mr. Stone on the Stand.

Melville E. Stone, General Manager of The Associated Press, explained fully to the committee the steps he had taken to secure fair and impartial treatment of the two sides of the sugar controversy. Letters found recently in the files of Clarence C. Hamlin of Colorado Springs had been interpreted as showing that Mr. Stone had promised assistance to the campaign for protected sugar. To-day Mr. Stone gave the committee the complete correspondence on the subject, which made it plain that Mr. Hamlin had protested against the publicity accorded by The Associated Press to statements favoring free sugar, and Mr. Stone had merely tried in fairness to present the other side.

Mr. Stone testified that on Oct. 12, 1911, John Arbuckle, a sugar refiner, when leaving for Europe, had given out an interview favoring free raw sugar. That interview was carried by The Associated Press, he said. On Oct. 15, a short interview given out by Clarence C. Hamlin at Colorado Springs, answering the Arbuckle interview, was carried by The Associated Press. The Arbuckle statement, he said, was about 1,000 words long; the Hamlin statement about 150 words.

Mr. Hamlin then wrote to Mr. Stone asking that the beet sugar interests be given as good treatment as the sugar refiners. Mr. Hamlin's letter was:

Speaks for the Industry.

> I am writing you as Chairman of the United States Beet Sugar Industry, an organization which includes practically all of the beet sugar interests of this country, and, if anything further is necessary to give that which I have to say credit, I would refer you to any of the papers in Denver, as well as to Senator Guggenheim and Senators Clark and Warren of Wyoming; also to Chester S. Morey of Denver, President of the Great Western Sugar Company, the largest beet sugar producer in the United States, with whom you are personally acquainted. I might add I am a member of the Associated Press, representing The Herald-Telegraph of this city.
> Publicity is the last thing I wish to seek personally, but, in justice to the great industry which I represent, I feel justified in taking up with you in person a matter which to us is of the gravest importance. On Oct. 12 John Arbuckle of Arbuckle Brothers gave out a statement which was printed in full in every Associated Press newspaper of the United States concerning the sugar situation. A copy of this statement is attached hereto. The matters contained in this statement were of such great importance and some of the misrepresentations so gross that I did not feel that these statements should go unchallenged.
> I took the matter up with the local representatives of the Associated Press, who followed it through the ordinary channels, and was assured that the Associated Press would handle 650 words representing the beet sugar men's position upon these questions. This statement I prepared and you will find a copy hereto attached. This is from The Denver Republican, the Colorado papers having handled it in full. The manner in which it was handled will be disclosed by the attached clipping from The Washington Post of Oct. 16.
> Your long experience in newspaper work will cause you to see immediately that we would have been much better satisfied if the Associated Press had refused to handle it entirely rather than to have it published in this abbreviated and wholly unsatisfactory manner.
> Of course, I understand the Associated Press is in no sense partisan and aims to be wholly fair to all of the great interests [illegible] to certain refiners in New York who are pushing the free sugar propaganda with the avowed purpose of at least putting a stop to the growth of the beet sugar industry.
> We certainly have no desire to burden the Associated Press with matter put out for the purpose of "boosting" our industry, but when attacked feel that we should be given as much publicity as is given to our opponents. At least we would like to know what our status is, so far as your association is concerned. Of course, there may be something in the character of the statement given out by me which would prevent its acceptance in full, and, if so, you will be doing me a distinct favor by advising me in what respect this is true. Trusting you will give this serious personal consideration, and thanking you in advance for anything you may be able to do in the direction of according justice to so large an industry, I am, very truly yours,
> C. C. HAMLIN.

In answer to Mr. Hamlin's letter, Mr. Stone wrote on Oct. 23, 1911:

Just and Impartial.

> I have your letter of Oct. 19, and note contents. I can well understand how you feel in respect to the matter. It is certainly my desire that the Associated Press shall be just and impartial in the treatment of every matter reported by it.
> The Arbuckle statement was carried, not because it was a statement of a sugar refiner, but because of its bearing on the general cost of living, which, as you know, has been the subject of keen interest in the United States. With the advance in the price of sugar, coffee, and other necessaries, there necessarily has been much feeling on the general subject.
> When your statement in answer to Mr. Arbuckle was presented it happened to be a very busy day and night. The President of the United States was at San Francisco, the plans for Justice Harlan's funeral were on, the McNamara trial was before the country, the world's series of baseball games was in progress, a critical situation in China extsted, and there was an acute political situation in Mexico. All of these things crowded our one wire running from Kansas City to San Francisco, and I suppose our Denver office was forced to abbreviate your statement. I am writing to the chief of our office there asking him for an explanation regarding the matter; but I can well anticipate that this is what he would say.
> I fancy the matter will come up before Congress, and then I trust we shall be able to give you as good a hearing as those who are contending on the other side. Sincerely yours,
> MELVILLE E. STONE.

"I did not know Mr. Hamlin," added Mr. Stone. "The statement that he was a member of The Associated Press is true, but in meeting the 800 members of The Associated Press I did not happen to remember him, and I have never met him but once in my life. I would not know him if he were in this room at this moment.

Correspondent's Authority.

"The statement in respect to the local correspondent of The Associated Press at Colorado Springs having agreed to handle for The Associated Press 650 words I should explain in this way: The local correspondent has no power whatever to commit The Associated Press to any policy or to any agreement of that sort. His entire duty and his entire responsibility and ability in respect to the matter was to send any dispatch he might have to our Denver office, something like forty or fifty miles away, and there it would fall into the hands of a salaried correspondent, and he would determine how much should be used.

"The local correspondent had no such authority. Indeed, though I do not know who he was, he may have been an employe of Mr. Hamlin's own paper."

Mr. Stone gave the committee a copy of the letter he wrote to C. D. Hagerty, in charge of the Denver office of The Associated Press, on Oct. 23. It asked for information as to the handling of the Hamlin statement, and concluded:

> Personaly, I am inclined to discourage carrying long statements of a controversial nature, but, inasmuch as we carried Mr. Arbuckle's statement rather fully, my judgment is that we might have handled a little more of Mr. Hamlin's provided it was prepared as briefly as our story here indicates.

A reply from Mr. Hagerty stated that 500 words of the Hamlin statement had come into the Denver office over the wire from Colorado Springs, but that owing to the crowded condition of The Associated Press wires only 200 had been sent East, and sixty-one words were cut out of the dispatch at relay points before it reached New York.

Chicago Sugar Meeting.

Mr. Hamlin then wrote Mr. Stone on Oct. 27, 1911:

> Permit me to thank you for your kind favor of the 23d inst., and to express my appreciation of your position in the matter. I can readily understand how the situation arose, and, of course, know The Associated Press desires to do full justice to all interests with entire impartiality. [illegible] for the present high prices of sugar. I trust it will be such a one as your association will be able to handle.

Mr. Stone's reply to that, dated Oct. 30, 1911, read:

> I have yours of Oct. 27. I am notifying our Chicago office that if the statement to be issued on Nov. 15 comes at all within the scope of our work to handle it.

Mr. Stone at the same time wrote to John P. Gavit, then Superintendent of the Central Division of The Associated Press at Chicago:

> There is to be a meeting of the beet sugar interests in Chicago on Nov. 15, at which time the statement probably will be issued concerning the industry and the reasons given for the present high prices of sugar. On Oct. 15 we carried from New York a statement from John Arbuckle on this subject, and I suppose that the one from Chicago will be in some sense an answer, which I think in justice we ought to carry. I personally did not know anything about carrying Mr. Arbuckle's statement, nor was I familiar with the contest between the beet interests and the cane sugar interests.
> Please use your judgment respecting the beet sugar statement and handle it upon its news merit.

Mr. Hamlin's reply to Mr. Stone's brief letter of Oct. 30 was dated Nov. 6, 1911, Mr. Hamlin wrote that he proposed to submit any statement prepared in Chicago to the Associated Press officials, and expressed the opinion that because much of it was in the nature of "expert evidence," it might be of a character that would not be admissible before the Hardwick Committee in Washington.

Copies of all the dispatches carried from Chicago by the Associated Press at the time of the conference of the beet sugar interests were furnished to the committee by Mr. Stone, with a letter from Mr. Hamlin, thanking him for the accuracy of the Associated Press reports.

Mr. Hamlin's letter of Nov. 6 was dated at Washington. Mr. Stone said his recollection was that Mr. Hamlin had called at the New York offices of the Associated Press just prior to that time and had been introduced.

"I saw him for a few moments," said Mr. Stone, "and my memory is very clear that I said to him: 'You will have an opportunity before Congress, and as we report all of these hearings before Congress any statement that you may desire to make will be reported there.'"

Mr. Stone testified that Mr. Hamlin's reference to the fact that the proposed statement might not be made before the Hardwick committee was evidently in reply to that suggestion.

The committee did not question Mr. Stone to-day, but Chairman Overman asked him to hold himself in readiness to appear before the committee later if it desired it.

"I am frequently more or less amused," Mr. Stone told the committee, "at the popular notion in respect to matters of this sort, and perhaps I may in fairness say that both as to the Associated Press and as to all press associations and as to newspapers, I am frequently impressed that injustice is done by the refusal to meet the wishes of applicants for publicity.

"Whenever a man comes into a newspaper office or into an Associated Press office and asks for publication of anything, he is met with a degree of suspicion. They all think he has some axe to grind, and he has a very poor show of securing justice. We have a rule in our service, that has been in existence for many years, that no publicity agent can give us anything. We will not accept anything from him. As an illustration of what I have said, a number of railroads have publicity agents, and the rule is absolute that the publicity agents cannot furnish us anything. We will not accept anything from them."

Mr. Stone agreed to furnish to the committee the rules and by-laws of the Associated Press and all information about the origin of the Arbuckle statement on sugar in 1911.

Before Mr. Stone testified, Senator Newlands took the witness chair to make a brief statement concerning references in one of Henry T. Oxnard's letters, made public yesterday, that Oxnard was trying to have Newlands put on the Senate Philippine Committee in 1907.

"I have observed with amazement," said Mr. Newlands, "the reference to my name and that of Senator Teller. I wish to state most emphatically that my application to go on the Philippine Committee in 1907 was not suggested or influenced by Mr. Oxnard. I had been in the Philippines with the Taft party in 1906, and came back with pronounced views regarding the Philippine policy. I urged that we should adopt immediately a policy which would enable us, with due regard to our moral obligation, to withdraw from the Philippines, and that it would be unwise to tie those islands to us by reciprocal and trade relations such as were contemplated regarding sugar and other commodities. A Democratic caucus placed me on the Philippines Committee in 1907, where I urged the above views.

"In this contention the refiners, including the sugar trust," said Senator Newlands, "the Spreckelses and the Arbuckles, are on one side, and the beet sugar factories are on the other. I condemn the methods and practices of both, as disclosed by the evidence, of which I had little realization until recently."

on most points of the business," was the reply.

"Did you ever know Cyrus H. McCormick or his attorney to visit Mr. Morgan"

"No, never. And if they had I would have known of it."

In the cross-examination by Mr. Grosvenor the Prosecutor demanded a reason for Mr. Perkins's failure to remember incidents he was asked about.

"Is it that you do not remember or don't want to remember?" demanded the Prosecutor.

"It is difficult to recall unimportant things ten years ago," replied the witness.

"Oh, I realize you are not my witness," said Mr. Grosvenor. "And I'm not trying to prove anything by you."

"True!" almost shouted Mr. Perkins, "and I'm not testifying for a hostile Government, although I'm a subject of it. By your line of questioning, because we bought up five companies, you are trying to make the record show that we set out to buy five companies. Oh, I know, my dear Mr. Grosvenor, what you are driving at just as well as you do. You are trying to make it appear that there was collusion between the McCormick's and myself in the organization of this new company. You have taken it for granted that the five companies we absorbed were taken in for nefarious purposes, but it absolutely not true."

"Do you recall a conversation between yourself, Stanley McCormick, and Cyrus Bentley, regarding the organization of this company, followed by an interview being dictated to a stenographer, and the status of the different firms in the consolidation given?"

"No, I do not," said the witness.

The Government's attorney then produced a stenographic record of this conversation, which he said came from the files of J. P. Morgan's office. It was dated June 27, 1902, and related to the alleged division of the control between the Deering Harvester Company and the McCormick Harvester Company, and the business policy that was to be pursued by the five companies composing the International Harvester Company. The McCormick percentage of control was placed at 53 and the Deering control at 47.

Mr. Perkins denied having been a party to this plan, and said he had no knowledge of the authenticity of the document.

"From July 1, 1902, isn't it a fact, that you were trying to secure the Deering, McCormick, Plano, and Champion Companies?" asked Mr. Grosvenor.

"No, Sir, I was trying to purchase two or three companies outright. I was not interested in their names."

"'You mean to say you were not interested in how much business was controlled by one company?"

"At last you have hit it exactly," said Mr. Perkins. "At last you seem to have grasped the situation. It was simply this—I wanted to get into the foreign field. Whether it was with one company or a dozen made no difference. The point was that we had to have an immense capital. We had to have capital to educate the people to use the machines before any of them were purchased. We had to have an immense capital to extend credit. The machines had to be sold with credit extending over one, two, and three years. It was not a proposition that could be entered on a small scale and money made at it. Nor on a small scale would it have been one in which I would have wasted my time. What the firms were that went into the combination or how much of the American field they controlled was not a matter of much interest.

"We wanted first the plants, and of equal importance was the financial backing. There were other firms we would like to have had with us that we did not get. There was the Harris Company at Toronto, for instance. They already had agencies in some foreign countries, and their use would have been our first step. But they would not join us, and we got along without them.

"In the time we've been in Europe we have borrowed $19,000,000 that we might extend credit to poor farmers who could not purchase machines outright. It is a step in civilization for them. Just to show the growth of our foreign trade, in 1902 the total foreign trade of the five companies was between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000. Last year we sold $50,000,000 there. Had it not been for the Government's hostile attitude toward us, it would have been nearer $100,000,000. Constant interference has prevented this, however."

"Do you think it right for the five biggest harvester companies in this country, controlling 85 per cent of the business, to combine just to get foreign trade" asked Mr. Grosvenor.

"We were not interested in getting control of the foreign trade," he replied. "We were simply interested in entering the foreign field and selling our goods there, and as much as we could."

Mr. Perkins will resume the witness stand to-morrow.

OFFERS EGAN VIENNA POST.

Wilson Asks Minister to Denmark to Accept Austrian Embassy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, June 19.—President Wilson has offered the American Ambassadorship at Vienna, to the present United States Minister to Denmark, Maurice Francis Egan, who has represented America here for the past seven years.

It is not yet known whether Mr. Egan has decided to accept the offer or not.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—President Wilson, it became known to-day, is expecting within a few days to receive from Dr. Egan acceptance of the appointment as Ambassador to Austria-Hungary. The appointment was tendered to Dr. Egan a short time ago. It has been understood that Dr. Egan would be among the diplomats asked to continue in the service.

Dr. Egan's promotion adds another to the list of literary men honored by President Wilson in the diplomatic service. Dr. Egan was Professor of English at the Catholic University, this city, when President Roosevelt in 1907 sent him to Copenhagen. At that time Dr. Egan was well known as a novelist, essayist, critic, and poet, and his works have continued to appear at intervals since.

Dr. Egan was born in Philadelphia, May 24, 1852. He received degrees from Notre Dame College, Georgetown University, the University of Ottawa, and others. From 1880 to 1888 he was editor and publisher of The Freeman's Journal. In 1906 he was decorated by the King of the Belgians, and in 1911 received the Laetare medal for poetry. Dr. Egan is a member of the National Institute of Arts and Letters.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 19.—Meredith Nicholson, the author, nominated yesterday by President Wilson as Minister to Portugal, said last night that he did not know whether he could accept the post. The author added that he was surprised he had been named for the place, but would be glad to have it.

"Will you accept the post?" a friend asked.

"Cannot tell yet," Mr. Nicholson replied laughing. "You see, Mrs. Nicholson is on her way to join our children at our cottage on the lakes. She is on a train or on a boat, and I will have to discuss it with her."

MADMAN RUSHES ON ASCOT TRACK

Repeats Miss Davison's Act by Throwing Belmont's Colt Tracery.

HE IS DYING IN HOSPITAL

Waved a Flag and Flourished a Revolver at Jockey, Who Was Not Seriously Hurt.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 19.—A sensational incident, even surpassing that which characterized the Derby, took place at Ascot this afternoon during the race for the Gold Cup. Just as Miss Davison rushed at the King's horse Anmer at Epsom, so a man ran on the course at Ascot. August Belmont's Tracery, the second favorite, was leading, and fell upon him as he stood, shouting wildly, with an old-fashioned six-shooter in one hand and a suffragette flag in the other.

The other horses miraculously cleared Tracery and his rider, Whalley, who was thrown clear of his mount, but the intruder was kicked on the head. The man was taken to the hospital, where he lay to-night in a critical condition.

His name is Harold Hewitt. He is the eldest son of the late Charles Archibald Hewitt, Justice of the Peace and Deputy Lieutenant of Herefordshire, who died two years ago.

The jockey was uninjured.

Documents found on Hewitt indicate that, beyond having been influenced by the manner of Miss Davison's death, his act was not connected with the women's movement. In his diary he had written just before the race: "If I fall in my intention to stop the Gold Cup I hope I shall not hurt any jockeys. Oh, the weariness of these races and the crowds they attract! They bring out all that is worst in humanity."

Hewitt apparently suffered from religious mania. He is described by the police as 40 years of age and of independent means.

The horses were a little short of entering the straight mile for home when Hewitt, was was well dressed in a gray suit, rushed on the course, brandishing a revolver, and called on the leading jockey to stop. Whalley, seeing the man in front, slightly turned his horse's head in an effort to avoid him, but it was too late. Tracery struck the man and dashed him to the earth. The horse also fell, throwing his rider, who turned a complete somersault.

The horse was soon on his feet again, and, riderless as he was, continued the race down the course. Whalley, too, was out of the way. It was impossible, however, for all the horses to avoid the prostrate man who caused the accident. Some sprang over him, but the hoofs of others struck him on the head, and he was picked up unconscious. Whalley was taken in a carriage to the royal inclosure, where he received every attention.

After Hewitt had been conveyed in an ambulance to a hospital, the operation of trepanning was performed. He recovered consciousness to-night, but there is slight hope of his recovery.

The King and Queen were present in the royal box, and the grand stand and other structures commanding a view of the course were crowded by a fashionable throng. Owing to some foliage and a bend in the course at the spot where Hewitt rushed on the course, their Majesties did not see what had happened.

For a time the name of the injured man was not known. Curious discoveries were made when his clothing was searched at the hospital. A Bible and a considerable quantity of writing were among his possessions. The flyleaves of the Bible were full of quotations. He had kept a diary to within an hour and a half of his deed. Besides the quotation already given, other entries spoke of life being no longer sweet to him. There was also a reference to the Klondike. One entry says: "Plenty of pretty girls, but none for me." The next speaks about giving his body to fight against "society convention." There was no reference among the papers to suffrage matters, but it appears that he was present at Miss Davison's funeral.

About $1,000 in English and Canadian money was found on him. He had evidently traveled a good deal, and is spoken of as a cultured man with a Harrow and Cambridge education. Lately, apparently, he had been attending the lectures of Mrs. Annie Besant, and had also been interested in the views of Miss Hageby, the antivivisectionist.

Whalley, who was able to walk about the paddock soon after the race, said he saw the man dash in front of him with both arms up. In one hand he had a flag, but what he held in the other he did not know. The man shouted something which sounded like "Stop, or I'll fire!" and made a grab at the horse's neck. "I was on top of him, however," said Whalley. "As he made a jump as if to catch the horse around the neck I caught him somewhere—but I don't know where—and I fell heavily. I am, indeed, out of luck, as this is my third fall this season."

Whalley added that he was feeling none the worse for his fall.

Another eye-witness says that after the incident there was a wild scene for a moment or two, the crowd hissing and hooting the author of the outrage. But for the fact that the man was so badly injured, he would have received very rough handling.

LONDON, June 19.—The Ascot Cup was won to-day by the five-year-old Prince Palatine, owned by T. Pilkington.

Tracery is a son of the famous English stallion Rock Sand, for which Mr. Belmont paid $125,000, while his dam is Topiary, a mare exported from England. The colt was bred at Mr. Belmont's nursery stud in Kentucky. He finished third in the Derby in 1912, won the Sussex Stakes at Goodwood in July of the same year, and the St. Leger Stakes in September, 1912.

PRINCESS IN A SCANDAL.

Suit in London Reveals Strange Life of Aristocratic Woman.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 19.—An extraordinary story of the relations between a Sicilian Princess and a man who, counsel said, was a bookmaker and gambling house keeper, was told to-day in Justice Darling's court.

Princess Jeannie Augustine Noel di Formosa claimed damages for slander and false imprisonment from George Granville Hope-Johnstone of Ryder Street, St. James's. Her complaint was that last Oct. 17 he gave her into the custody of a policeman, charging her with the theft of £6 ($30) from his chambers.

The defense was that what Hope-Johnstone said was true. In a counter-claim he charged the Princess with having blackmailed him.

The Princess had been married twice, said her counsel. Her first husband was a French Count, and there had been a divorce. She then married a Sicilian nobleman, Prince di Formosa. She herself was of a very good French family. Her father held a high position under the Empire. Making her acquaintance, Hope-Johnstone became infatuated with her, and persuaded her to go to Ceylon with him. They afterward lived together in Paris and London.

Counsel read extracts from remarkable letters from the defendant, in which affectionate passages were joined with violent abuse. He had, it was stated, also used personal violence against the Princess. The hearing was adjourned.

A RUBENS FOR 36 CENTS.

Purchaser Calls It an Old Master and Values It at $100,000.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MELBOURNE, Friday, June 20.—A picture believed to be entirely without value was recently purchased for 36 cents by an auctioneer at Brunswick. He put it up at auction last week, and the canvas changed hands for $250, the purchaser being Dr. Summers of Perth.

The doctor is convinced that he has a genuine Rubens, and sets a value of $100,000 on the picture. He will leave Australia for London next month, in order to submit the canvas to the President of the Royal Academy and other art experts.

FINED FOR AERIAL CRASH.

Dickson Must Pay Thomas $1,000 for Fouling His Aeroplane.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 19.—A verdict was delivered to-day in an action brought by two airmen, Capts. Dickson and Thomas, to determine who was responsible for an aviation accident in Milan in 1910, when two aeroplanes were in collision.

The Judge decided that Dickson was to blame and ordered him to pay $1,000 damages to Thomas and $2,000 damages to the makers of the Antonette aeroplanes, in one of which Thomas was flying at the time of the collision, in addition to paying eight-tenths of the costs of the litigation.

Thomas claimed $16,000 damages, while Dickson claimed $20,000 for injuries which he received as the result of the accident and the destruction of his Farman biplane.

GERMANS RESENT AMERICAN'S INQUIRY

Member of Agricultural Commission Asked if Graft Existed as in This Country.

DISTORTED BY THE PAPERS

Dr. Butterfield Explains in Public Speech That His Countryman Only Sought General Information.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 19.—"Is there grafting here such as there is in America?" is the suggestive inquiry that one of the members of the American Agricultural Commission now in Germany is said to have made yesterday at Halle following an address by Baron von Gustedt, manager of the local co-operative farming society.

The incident created such a painful impression that the Vice Chairman of the commission, Dr. Butterfield of Massachusetts, was constrained to-day at the beginning of the official reception in honor of the commission in the Prussian Upper House here to ask the privilege of making an explanation.

He said his countryman was merely seeking general information and simply wanted to know if similar things had come to pass in Germany as in the United States. Nothing was further from his mind than to commit a breach of tact or to utter a slander.

THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent is assured that the German press has given a wholly misleading account of the incident. What the inquirer in question was seeking to find out was something about the system of control by which irregularities are guarded against.

BORWICK DIVORCE SUIT UP.

Many People Prominent in Society to be Named in Pleadings.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 19.—The first of three actions which Mrs. Mary Mason Borwick, née Hasell, of New York has for hearing in the High Courts of Justice here will be taken up to-morrow. Her divorce suit against her husband takes precedence over all other business in the Divorce Court. It heads the list of defended actions, and the parties have applied for a special jury to try the case.

The court records indicate that many people prominent in society will be named in the Borwicks' matrimonial troubles. Some rather remarkable letters will be read in court.

Mrs. Borwick's second action will be heard in the King's Bench Division. She is suing her husband for detinue in respect of certain articles which he refused to hand over since they have been living apart. The third action that Mrs. Borwick figures in is the suit brought by Debenhams, Ltd., a millinery firm, which claims a big sum from Mr. Borwick for goods supplied his wife.

STOLEN GOYA A TEST CASE.

If Spain Wins Treasures Now in America May Be Claimed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 19.—The unusual action of the Spanish Government in causing through diplomatic channels the withdrawal from the de Nemes sale of a valuable picture by Goya is arousing a good deal of discussion here. The painting, one of the finest specimens of this master's art, is claimed by the Spanish Government as its property on the ground that it was stolen from the Prado Museum in 1869.

At the instance of the Spanish Ambassador here the Foreign Office transmitted the claim to the auctioneer, and the same morning a judicial injunction was obtained forbidding the sale of the picture, but calling on Spain to make good her title to possession within a month.

It is considered hardly possible that the claim can be upheld by the courts, as the law of prescription, nullifying claims on stolen property after a certain lapse of time, has been in action for a long period. The general legal opinion is that the article in the Code Napoleon excluding public or State property from the operation of this law cannot be applied in international cases.

Should Spain, however, gain the lawsuit which will be brought against the present owners of the Goya for its surrender, France, it is thought, would be justified in claiming innumerable objects, including pictures, books, manuscripts, and autographs, which have been sold in New York, Berlin, Rome, and, especially, London.

The Spanish action is thought the more curious because at two famous sales here, in 1897 and 1905, books were acquired by the Bibliothèque Nationale, which were stolen in 1884 from the great Seville Library, and no protest was made.

MAY SEND ZEPPELIN HERE.

Count Denies Planning Airship Trip, but May Come Himself.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 19.—In reply to a telegraphic inquiry from THE NEW YORK TIMES regarding the report that he intended to send a Zeppelin airship across the Atlantic, Count Zeppelin says: "I have at present no such intention."

It is admitted, however, by officers of the Zeppelin Airship Company, that a visit to America has been and still is under consideration.

Count Bernstorff, the German Ambassador to Washington, is quoted to-night in a Washington cablegram to The Tageblatt, to the effect that when he was recently in Berlin he suggested to the German Government that it should arrange to send a Zeppelin vessel to the San Francisco Exposition in 1915.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, June 19.—Count Zeppelin to-day declared that he was pledged not to accept any foreign orders for dirigible airships. His company, he said, would construct dirigibles only for the German Government or for use in Germany.

He denied a report published in Vienna that he had contracted to build six airships for the Austrian Army.

FLIES 117 MILES AN HOUR.

Prevost Beats His Recent Feat—Travels 217 Miles.

PARIS, June 19.—Maurice Prevost, the aviator, made an aeroplane flight today of 217 miles straight away at the rate of 117 miles an hour.

Around a circular course recently Prevost flew 80½ miles at an average speed of 111½ miles an hour.

OUR HORSES FEWER AT LONDON SHOW

But American Entries Stand the Heat Better Than European Rivals.

JUDGE MOORE HAS FORTY

Other Exhibitors Are E. B. McLean, J. S. Draper, A. G. Vanderbilt, and Walter Winans.

LONDON, June 19.—The tooting of a coaching horn in the great arena was the only ceremony signalizing the opening of the International Horse Show at Olympia to-day. Owing to its clashing with the big day at the Ascot races, the starting of the show found a very small attendance present. Even the stables were by no means full, except in the case of the American competitors, whose horses seemed to be in better fettle than those of the European exhibitors, the extreme heat of the past week appearing to have suited them.

In Class 38, the Russian Challenge Cup for four-in-hands, Judge Moore's team of grays was placed third.

The chief feature of this year's show, which has more than 4,000 entries and 111 classes, is the riding and jumping competition for the King Edward VII. Gold Cup for teams of three officers representing the armies of the various nations. The American Army is unrepresented on this occasion, but the keenest rivalry exists among the seven other entries—France, Great Britain, Canada, Belgium, Italy, Russia, and Sweden.

France has won the cup twice, and the French cavalry officers, it is known, will make a desperate effort to win it for the third time and take it with them across the Channel as their permanent property. Russia and Belgium have won it once each. England does not wish the $2,500 trophy to become the property of a foreign power, and 100 British cavalry officers have been training for its defense for several months.

The trophy is competed for by officers in uniform, riding Government horses in teams of three. They have to go twice round the course jumping obstacles of various sorts, ranging in height from 3 feet 6 inches to 5 feet 6 inches, and this year's competition promises to provide numerous thrills.

In the other competitions American horses are not quite so numerous as in former years. Judge W. H. Moore of Philadelphia is one of the largest exhibitors, with about forty carriage and coaching horses, while one of his closest rivals is Miss Mona Dunn, the 10-year-old daughter of a prominent member of the Canadian colony, who has entered a string of thirty-five horses.

A new American competitor is Edward B. McLean of Washington, with a stable of eight horses which have been insured for $100,000.

J. Sumner Draper of Boston is also a leading exhibitor, as are Alfred G. Vanderbilt and Walter Winans, the latter of whom lives here permanently.

Other exhibitors from across the Atlantic are the Hon. Adam Beck, the Hon. Clifton Sefton, and F. H. Loudon, from Canada.

Some valuable prizes have been offered by Americans, among them the Newport Cup, given by Alfred G. Vanderbilt, for the best single harness horse; the two cups given by Col. Lawrence Jones of Louisville, Ky., for the best harness horse exceeding fifteen hands, and for two hacks under fifteen hands; the National Horse Show Association's cup for tandem, and the Harkaway Hunt Club's cup for qualified hunters.

The total initial cost of the show is estimated at $250,000, $60,000 of which is devoted to prizes, and $50,000 spent on an elaborate scheme of decoration, including conservatories filled with rare and gorgeous flowers and plants. The arena is canopied with 20,000 yards of blue silk, representing a cloudless Summer sky.

BOOKS IN WOMEN'S SKIN.

Two Strange Volumes to be Sold by Auction Next Week in Paris.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 19.—Collectors are asking each other who was the woman in whose skin was bound a book which is to be sold next week at the second Cheramy Library auction.

The volume in question is quite modern, being by a still living writer, Emile Deschamel. It is entitled "The Good That Men Say of Woman." Inside the cover is the following inscription in Latin:

> In order that this book about women may be more agreeable to men, it is bound in the skin of a woman.
> Witnesses, E. Crozet, F. Raymond, A. Michard.

How this volume came into the late M. Cheramy's possession is not known, but he was apparently a connoisseur of such curiosities, as in the same sale will be offered a copy of Anacreon's poems on Japanese paper bound in the skin of a negress, as certified by the official catalogue. The latter book only has the back and corners of skin, however.

Mrs. Roosevelt at Lausanne.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, June 19.—A telegram from Lausanne states that Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, wife of the ex-President, arrived at the Hôtel Mirabeau this evening on a visit to her sister, Miss Carow, who is lying ill there. While passing through Paris Mrs. Roosevelt was met at the station by American Ambassador Herrick, who accompanied her to the Hôtel Lutetia.

Mrs. Johnson Becomes Mrs. Palmer.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 19.—Owing to the recent illness of the bride, the marriage to-day at the Church of St. Honoré d'Eylau of Mrs. Eno Ham Johnson to Eli Elliot Palmer was a very quiet ceremony compared with that which had been originally arranged. Among those present were the American Consul General Frank H. Mason, Charles G. Loeb, George Ham, and Miss Mary Antoinette Pike. Should the health of the bride permit the couple will spend their honeymoon in a motor tour of the château country.

Again Fail to Launch Battleship.

HAMBURG, June 19.—A third attempt was made to-day to launch the German battleship-criser Derfflinger, but without success. She was named last Saturday and refused to move from the stocks. A second attempt yesterday to launch her failed.

peal, but was it wise, was it just, to pass Mr. Cave's resolution?

In loud, ringing tones the Premier declared that the private and public honor of the Chancellor and the Attorney General was absolutely unstained, and that they retained the complete confidence of their colleagues. The end of the speech was greeted with prolonged applause.

"Wretched Subject," Says Balfour.

Mr. Balfour, in beginning his remarks, spoke with contempt of "this wretched subject." He astonished the Liberals by saying that he had never heard any charge of personal corruption brought against the Ministers. Perhaps, he said, he had been more fortunate than others in the company he kept. The charge of corruption was futile, absurd, and unworthy of consideration.

Mr. Balfour went on to say that he deplored the unfortunate reticence of the Ministers last October. The House had not been treated with anything like frankness, nor had the Prime Minister.

After blaming Sir Rufus Isaacs for investing in American Marconis without making a full inquiry, Mr. Balfour described as "ludicrous" the suggestion that Mr. Lloyd-George's first transaction was an investment, and asked, "Are we to pass over lightly the speculation of a Chancellor in a speculative investment?"

Whether an Attorney General should speculate, said the ex-Premier, he would leave to the casuists, but assuredly no flutter on the Stock Exchange was permissible to a Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Finally came Mr. Balfour's suggestion to unite the motion and the amendment: "We, the Opposition, entirely agree with the substance of the amendment. Do the honorable gentlemen opposite agree with the substance of our motion?"

Mr. Balfour disclaimed any desire to censure the Ministers, but said he wanted something on the record other than the report of the majority of the Parliamentary committee, adding: "The report of that committee does not only not express regret, but rejoices in the whole performance."

Mr. Bonar Law in his speech declared that the Opposition could not accept a new amendment moved from the Government side. He suggested an alternative form of words, which, while reprobating the charges of corruption, expressed regret at the want of frankness of the Ministers in not informing the House after buying American Marconi shares. This expression, had it been indorsed by the House, would have been equivalent to a vote of censure and would necessarily have entailed the resignation of the Ministers.

The Opposition leader did not spare the Ministers. He spoke with asperity of the share transactions. His reference to the Titanic disaster, which, he said, was used to fill the coffers of the persons who were floating the American company's shares, gave offense to the Liberal members.

Mr. Bonar Law's speech was very incisive, searching, and powerful, but it was one which placed the worst construction on every incident of this unhappy chapter of events. During the last ten minutes of his speech the House was in a highly inflammable condition.

Grey Deplores Calumnies.

Sir Edward Grey spoke next. He pointed out that the Opposition motion would, if carried, mean the resignation of the Ministers. More, it would mean that their political careers would be at an end forever. If, he said, there had been dishonorable or corrupt conduct on the part of the two Ministers they ought to go. If, on the other hand, their conduct had been free from any such taint the House ought not to pass on them a vote of censure.

Sir Edward spoke with seriousness of the gross calumnies that had been current—calumnies that were calculated to make public life intolerable. It was, he said, impossible to right all the wrong that had been done to the two Ministers. Addressing the Opposition, he asked:

"Are you quite sure that the charges have stopped? Let us beware lest men of upright character are driven out of public life by reckless calumny."

The House then divided on Sir William Adkins's amendment, the Government obtaining a majority of 78. The amendment was then put as a substantive motion and was carried, nem. con., without division, amid loud Liberal cheers.

This amendment will now be inscribed on the Journal of the House.

Papers Condemn Opposition.

Papers of different political camps this morning express regret that the Opposition persisted in making a party question of the Marconi affair and took it to a division instead of generously accepting the frank statements of Mr. Lloyd-George and Sir Rufus Isaacs and withdrawing a motion which amounted to a vote of censure.

The Daily News says the Marconi drama culminated in an episode which is hard to parallel in the records of party treachery. It points out that after the full, "almost fulsome" admission of the Opposition that there was no question of corruption or dishonor, it was expected that the motion would be withdrawn. That was the only course possible for men who made the motion simply through regard for the purity of public life. The paper adds:

"What excuse was there for persisting in the motion if there was no corruption, no dishonor, nothing but an ill-considered action for which the Ministers concerned expressed full and frank regret? Why was there not a generous withdrawal of the aspersions? The reason is simple. For months the Opposition lived upon the shameful hope that by destroying the character of two Ministers they could destroy the Government and with it Home Rule and all the present and prospective causes with which Liberalism is associated.

"What did it matter that the calumnies were known to be false? They could disown them in the House. They could at the same time cling to the suspicions which were the foul offspring of that slanderous, cowardly crusade. One thing they could not do. They could not behave like men. They did not want the regrets of the Ministers. They wanted their destruction."

The Times in an editorial article declares that a party division might and ought to have been avoided, adding:

"The Government and the Opposition came very near together in the course of the evening, and the public will probably agree that they ought to have composed their differences, which were not very great, at least in the eyes on non-political spectators."

The Daily Mail similarly deplores the facts that the House of Commons failed to rise above partisanship in the debate, and that it voted upon strict party lines. It asserts that this is not a satisfactory conclusion of the affair, and says the debate should have ended on the previous day, when Mr. Lloyd-George and Sir Rufus Isaacs walked out of the House after confessing their error.

anywhere else in the civilized world, except in the country from which this Judge emigrated when a young man. They had long used Judges like him over there to crucify people in political cases. Interviews were given out daily by press agents that it would be proved that the defendant took money from somebody to do what he did. At the trial there was not a pretense that any such thing happened. The prosecution did show that he and another had discounted a note in the trust company on ample security, and that it was paid on the day it became due. But this discounting of the note happened four months after the alleged offense was committed, so that it could have had nothing to do with the case. And yet the Judge received it in evidence. It makes sensible men pause when such things can occur. If the public prosecutors and Judges can rig up a case like this and send a man to States prison who is absolutely innocent of anything wrong, who is safe in the community in times of clamor?

Every public official ought to be man enough to stand up like a rock against clamor, especially public prosecutors and Judges. Clamor is no better now than when it sent Jesus to the cross. This same Judge convicted a series of others in time of clamor, and their cases were all reversed and thrown out of court. This community certainly has not forgotten that. And this infamous character Robin, who tried to accuse others in order to save himself, for his crimes has almost succeeded. When first arrested for robbing the bank he pretended he was insane, and almost got off on that plea. But when he was found out in that, he began to try them. But the very things that he told amounted to nothing. Finally, when all was over, he was brought before Justice Seabury and sent to the penitentiary for twelve months. On the very same day a writ of habeas corpus was obtained to prevent his being kept in the penitentiary.

The writ was argued before a Judge who dismissed it and remanded him back to prison. But nevertheless he has been ever since, now for several months, in the Tombs Prison, and has served no time whatever in the penitentiary, all by means of this juggling with a writ of habeas corpus. The astonishing thing to me is that the judiciary of this country does not take notice of this whole case. This man Robin is to be seen around town here with a keeper nearly every day in restaurants dining and wining. Now that the clamor is over we had better take note of what has been going on. The case is even worse than the case of the criminal Brandt, whom they actually took out of State prison and had him nearly discharged on a writ of habeas corpus until the Appellate Division interposed and put a stop to the abuse, the whole thing being also in response to public clamor.

It is an awful thing if our prosecuting officers and our courts are to listen to and respond to clamor. In ancient times when clamor and the hue and cry were raised against an accused man there were certain sanctuaries or places of refuge to which he could run, and be safe from the mob. Nobody could touch him while he remained there. We all thought that in our time the place of refuge for an accused man in time of clamor was our courts, and that he would be safe from clamor when he got there. But we all know that that is certainly not true here in this County of New York. And it has not been true for twenty years. It is high time that this thing be taken up by our intelligent newspapers. If we cannot have a fair administration of justice then the rights and liberties of nobody are safe.

The Hyde appeal was taken on Dec. 11 after Justice Goff had refused to direct a new trial. Mr. Hyde was credited with managing by himself the preparation of the appeal.

UNIONS ATTACKED IN WRECK INQUIRY

New Haven Manager Complains He Can't Pick Men for Runs.

SAYS COERCION MUST STOP

Engineers' Chairman Agrees Public's Safety Requires Change in Rules—Federal Hearings End.

Special to The New York Times.

BRIDGEPORT, June 19.—What was described as the growing menace of the unions through their power to enforce working conditions on their employers became the feature of the closing hours this afternoon of the Interstate Commerce Commission's investigation into the causes of the Stamford wreck of the Boston Express on the New Haven Railroad a week ago, in which six persons met death. The attack on the unions was launched by C. L. Bardo, General Manager of the road. He had listened to condemnation by experts from the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Lackawanna road, and the Westinghouse Air Brake Company of railroad methods enforced under his personal supervision.

When Mr. Bardo had ended his attack and had expressed a hope that the wreck at Stamford would teach the unions to let railroad managers run the roads, a defender of the unions arose. This man was Fred S. Evans, General Chairman of the Union of Locomotive Engineers employed on the New Haven line. He had conducted on the part of the men the negotiations with Mr. Bardo representing the company.

Spare Board the Main Issue.

The chief point at issue between the union and the road was the spare board, by which the railway executives were forced to accept for any given run the man whose name in rotation reached the top of the board. That, it was asserted, gave the executives no choice as to their engineers, except the right of picking men to be promoted into the engineering service from the supply of experienced firemen.

Mr. Bardo argued that the union had used force and a threat to strike to have the spare board system installed. He held that he gave in against his judgment for fear of a general tie-up of the lines if he offended the engineers. Mr. Evans stated that never before had trouble come up that could be blamed to the process of picking engineers in order of the seniority of their names on the spare board. He added that the rule was adopted with the full consent of both sides, and that no threat was used in obtaining it.

Both the union leader and the railroad's general manager seemed to realize the necessity of changing the rule. Mr. Bardo demanded a change in the interests of safety. Mr. Evans intimated the union would have no objection. It was made clear that the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers had nothing to do with the spare board system. That system, it was agreed, was installed as a New Haven plan, and never was extended beyond the New Haven lines, except to those of the Boston & Maine. Formerly there was not even a one-year probation rule. Engineers were picked for any run as soon as they had passed their examinations, the theory being that the company must treat all alike, after giving them credentials as locomotive drivers.

Year Rule Bardo's Idea.

It was at Mr. Bardo's instance that the present system of requiring a year's experience in the freight service to become eligible for passenger engineering was installed. Mr. Bardo now believes the year should be extended to three or even five years. He explained that conviction in an ardent address to the Board of Inquiry of the Commerce Commission, which covered thirty minutes.

"When was this agreement with the engineers entered into?" said Mr. Spock to Mr. Bardo, when the general manager was on the witness stand.

"On May 14, 1910. The spare board rule has been in effect a long time," Mr. Bardo replied. "It practically was the arrangement that was in effect before any agreement was entered into. It has been in effect all the time Mr. Mellen has been with the company.

"The rule was here when I became general manager, and an order had been issued making the apprenticeship time on freight engines two years. That order was protested by the engineers when it went out. It was brought up to me at the first meeting I attended. The engineers argued there never had been a case where a young engineer had caused an accident. They submitted a month later an amendment making the apprenticeship one year. That was as far as they would go, and since we were just getting our service on its feet and it was a step in the right direction, I accepted it.

"Ninety per cent. of the men do right. Ten per cent. contribute all the undesirable things that take place.

Criticism and Disloyalty.

"The criticism this road has had for the last year and a half has been enough to break down the spirit and discipline of any organization that ever lived. You can't expect the criticism not to reach into the ranks, if you are going to criticise as this railroad has been criticised. It is going to result in disloyalty. The public must take a hand in this matter, for when a man sees the man he works for is being criticised he is going to grind his own axe from that situation. The men who handle the signals must understand they are working for the public.

Vital Value of Wreck Inquiry.

Interstate Commerce Commissioner McChord, who presided at the hearing, and the Public Utilities Commissioners of Connecticut, who participated in the investigation, made no secret of the fact that they considered their inquiry vitally important. It was held that the New Haven Company's railroading methods for the first time had been turned inside out and held up to the public gaze, while also, for the first time, the opinions of experts from other great railway systems as to those methods had been expressed officially.

Commissioner McChord said the report on the Boston express wreck would not contain recommendations that the New Haven Road be ordered to make operating changes, as the Commerce Commission had no authority to compel such changes. He explained that any recommendation along that line would have to be made by the commission to Congress in the form of a request for legislation enlarging its power.

Until to-day it was insisted that Dougherty probably could have prevented engine 1,338 from drilling through the old wooden Pullman car Skylark at the end of the first section of the Boston Express, in which six persons were killed and a score wounded, if he had been able to throw his engine into the reverse as well as to jam the air brake down to the emergency. Dougherty attributed the cause of the wreck to the fact that his lame back prevented him from reversing the lever. He asserted the lever was working so stiffly that the strength of two men was required to shift its position. Much testimony was taken by Coroner Phelan and the Board of Inquiry to determine how much the stiffness of the lever had to do with Dougherty's failure to reverse his engine.

Lever's Stiffness Called Lucky.

Air-brake experts testified to-day that it was fortunate for the passengers in the section which 1,338 struck that Dougherty failed to throw the lever into the reverse, since that action, with the brakes applied, would have increased the speed at which the Skylark was struck.

Patrick J. Langan, air brake expert of the Lackawanna Road, was recalled to tell the exact effect of throwing the engine into the reverse after applying the air brakes. He was questioned by Mr. Bardo.

"After making a service application of the air can you help any by throwing the brake into the full emergency?" asked the New Haven's General Manager.

"No," Mr. Langan replied. "That is, if you make the full service application. A full service application equalizes the pressure in the auxiliary and brake cylinder, and you cannot, after that, increase this pressure."

Reverse Would Lock Wheels.

Q.—What would you say about the proper procedure for handling an engine with the air brakes applied—should the reverse lever be thrown? A.—No, it should not. The reverse should never be thrown with the air brakes on, because that would create pressure on the piston, and that in turn would cause the wheels to lock and the distance which the train would run would be prolonged.

Q.—Then if Dougherty had succeeded in reversing his engine he would have hindered instead of helping the braking power? A.—Exactly.

Charles W. Martin, air brake expert of the Pennsylvania, added his testimony to that of the Lackawanna's expert against the New Haven operating methods. Mr. Bardo was anxious to know what Mr. Martin thought of the brakes and general condition of Engine 1,388 and the cars attached to it. He obtained an indorsement of the braking equipment as the best to be had and of its general condition as good. H. W. Belnap, Chief Engineer of the Commerce Commission, interrupted.

"Would you have let Dougherty's train go out as the Pennsylvania Limited over your road?" he asked.

"I don't believe I should on the Pennsylvania Limited—no, Sir," Mr. Martin replied.

Q.—Would you have permitted that train to go out as any express train of the Pennsylvania service? A.—No, I would not.

John F. Carroll, road foreman of engines, told of the instructions he gave Dougherty on taking out 1,338 about exercising great care. Dougherty himself, on taking the stand to submit to cross-examination by railroad lawyers, insisted he had received no instructions and had never been taken over the road by a traveling engineer. He said a few casual remarks to the effect that the General Manager was "raising a general ruction" over lax discipline were all the coaching he ever received.

Dougherty's record was called for by Commissioner McChord. It showed that Dougherty had worked 158 days as a switching engineer, 79 as a freight engineer, ten as an engineer on fast freight trains, and 18 on passenger engines.

BALL SIGNALS MUST GO.

Railroad Board Blames Them for Boston & Maine Collision.

BOSTON, June 19.—The system of ball signals governing the movement of railroad trains must be replaced by July 1, 1914, by a more dependable one wherever the former method is in use in this State. This is the order of the Massachusetts Board of Railroad Commissioners, issued to-day.

Stated broadly, the ball signal system relies more on the human element than does the interlocking arrangement, whereby switches and signals work together automatically.

In a memorandum accompanying the order the Commissioners state that ball signals were responsible for the collision of trains on the Boston & Maine Road at South Lawrence on June 3, and the company is directed to install at South Lawrence an interlocking signal system that shall be approved by the Commissioners.

YALE SENIOR ARRESTED.

Texan Held After His Auto Injures Woman on Graduation Day.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 19.—Theodore P. Davis of Austin, Texas, who was graduated from the Academic Department of Yale yesterday, was arrested last night by direction of the Coroner after his automobile had struck and seriously injured Miss Mary Reardon.

He is held under a bond of $1,000 pending the outcome of Miss Reardon's injuries. Both her legs were broken and her head and body cut and bruised.

GOV. SULZER LOSES PRIMARY SUPPORT

Brooklyn Young Republican Club Has Rival Measure Introduced.

CONDEMNS GOVERNOR'S BILL

Urges Retention of Party Designating Committees—Sulzer Invites Legislators to Hearing.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 19.—Gov. Sulzer today lost the support of the Young Republican Club of Brooklyn for his Direct Nominations bill. Senator Elon R. Brown of Watertown, leader of the Republican minority in the Senate, introduced a rival Direct Primary bill which embodies the views of that organization.

The bill sent up by the Young Republican Club is drafted along the lines of the old Hinman-Green bill, which was advocated by Charles E. Hughes when, as Governor, he began the fight for direct nominations in this State. It differs from the Governor's bill in one essential. It provides for the retention of the party designating committee as a medium for selecting the party candidates for nominations and assigning them to a place on the primary ballot.

The abolition of the party designating committees and the State Convention is the central feature of the Governor's bill. Mr. Sulzer and his friends have maintained that the selection of candidates for party nominations by such committees would tend to perpetuate the sway of the boss over the nominating machinery and through such control his grip upon the lawmaking and administrative machinery of the State and smaller political sub-divisions. The same argument is being advanced by the Governor and his friends in support of their proposition to do away with the State Convention.

There is great difference of opinion among the supporters of the direct primaries principle who have aided the Governor in the present fight with regard to the wisdom of the particular plan he advocates. Such men as Seth Low and District Attorney Whitman, while they have spoken at meetings in support of direct nominations, have never subscribed to the Governor's idea that the State convention should be abolished.

Shortt Urges Amendments.

To-day William Allaire Shortt, a lawyer of high standing, who made for himself an enviable record for independence during the two years he served in the Assembly as Representative of Richmond, sent a letter to Gov. Sulzer in which he urged amendments to the bill, to do away with the grouping of candidates for nominations under office titles, and substituting the grouping under party titles, if not under party emblems.

The Young Republican Club has gone so far as to characterize the system proposed in the Sulzer Direct Nominations bill as even worse than the provisions of the present law, which owes its origin to a Tammany-controlled Legislature, and in the framing of which every effort was made to render it unworkable and ridiculous in the eyes of the voters. The condemnation from this source comes with so much the greater force as the President of the club, Darwin R. James, Jr., is a member of the Governor's so-called "war board," and the club itself was the first organization to advocate direct primary legislation in this State.

Pro-Sulzer Demonstration Planned

Despite the fact that the Legislative leaders have declined to arrange hearings before the Judiciary Committees, as demanded by Chester C. Platt, the Governor's Secretary, the Sulzer "war board" has decided that a demonstration must be made at the Capitol in favor of the Governor's measure before it is brought up for consideration in the Legislature. This demonstration has been fixed for Monday afternoon. Letters of invitation were sent out this evening to all the lawmakers, urging them to attend. It is planned to fill the Assembly Chamber with direct-nominations enthusiasts in an effort to impress the members of that branch of the Legislature.

Gov. Sulzer himself said to-day that the action of the leaders who declared against the hearing, on the ground that the merits of the bill had been fully discussed and debated at the regular session, stood unprecedented in the annals of the lawmaking body.

"Of course, the Legislature should grant a hearing on the Direct Primary bill," said the Governor. "Not to do so would be unprecedented and contravene the ordinary proprieties of legislative procedure. Besides, it would accentuate what is generally believed—that the political bosses have again marked for slaughter this meritorious measure for direct nominations."

Several other new bills having to do with elections were introduced in the Senate to-day by Senator Elon R. Brown, leader of the minority. Nearly all of these have already been voted down at the regular session. They embrace the principles advocated in the Republican platform of 1912 in relation to election reform.

The Direct Primary bill provides for the abolition of the party Nominating Committee, the party column, and the party emblem. It is virtually the same as the Sulzer bill, except that the State Convention is retained. The measures also included a proposed amendment to the Constitution providing for a short ballot and limiting the elective State officials to Governor, Lieutenant Governor, and Controller. Another bill provides for party State Committees of 150 each, one member from each Assembly District, with voting power in proportion to the vote in the various districts.

Senator Robert F. Wagner, Speaker A. E. Smith, and other Tammany leaders left Albany for New York to-day. They announced that on Monday night or Tuesday morning a conference of Democratic legislators would be held to decide upon a plan of procedure when the Governor's bills for direct primaries and the submission of the question of a Constitutional Convention to the voters next Fall shall come up for action.

It is the general belief that the Primary bill urged by the Governor will be defeated by a decisive vote, and that the Constitutional Convention bill will be passed.

CINCINNATI ALMOST ICELESS

Engineers and Firemen Out—Strikers Will Deliver to the Sick.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, June 19.—More than 500,000 citizens of Cincinnati and its suburbs are facing a real ice famine. This stage of affairs in the ice employes' strike, which was begun yesterday, was reached early this evening, when a general order for a strike of all engineers and firemen in ice-manufacturing plants brought out all the employes except those in two factories in which the demands of the men have been met. Only these two plants will be in operation to-morrow, one with a capacity of 300 tons daily and the other making much less ice. Supplies from these two places will be delivered to hospitals and to the needy poor and the sick free of charge by the striking ice wagon drivers and helpers.

The ice manufacturers refused to treat with representatives of the union men to-day. This is said to have brought about the strike of the engine-room employes.

ORDERS POLICE TRIALS.

Mayor Acts on Complaint of Boy Arrested While Playing Ball.

Mayor Gaynor yesterday ordered Commissioner Waldo to place on trial Patrolman Harry J. Farley and Lieut. Charles H. Washburn, both of the Prospect Park station, Brooklyn, as the result of a letter to him from Hyman Albert, 17 years old, of 850 Myrtle Avenue, who was arrested by Farley and brought before the Lieutenant on June 1 for playing ball in the park.

According to the police the records show that Farley arrested the youth after he had refused to stop playing when the patrolman pointed out that there were little children in danger of being hit by the ball. They say that he abused the policeman, used profane language to Lieut. Washburn in the police station, and, after being fined $5 by Magistrate Reynolds, was profane toward him, and was rearrested in court on a charge of disorderly conduct, on which he was fined an additional $10. Having paid the fine and been released Albert wrote to the Mayor.

In connection with the case Commissioner Waldo had Inspector Hughes of Brooklyn and Capt. Cullen of the Prospect Street Station before him yesterday. It is understood the Commissioner heard that Albert was not inclined to appear at the trial against the two policemen.

SULZER RIDICULES PERJURY CHARGE

Will Not Dignify "Baseless, Vicious, and Unjust" Attacks with a Reply.

SAYS MURPHY IS THE ISSUE

Governor's Statement Merely Announces His Determination to Prosecute Primary Fight.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 19.—To-day's contribution to the exchange of pleasantries between Gov. Sulzer and Senate Clerk Patrick E. McCabe, which has furnished spicy reading since the extraordinary session of the Legislature began, came from the Governor himself. Mr. Sulzer handed out a typewritten interview based upon the latest statement of McCabe which was printed this morning. The Governor, however, failed to make any specific reply to Mr. McCabe's allegation that he held secret midnight conferences with Charles F. Murphy, and tried, privately, to sell out William R. Hearst and the independents who were agitating for direct primaries, while in public he denounced the Tammany boss and made bids for the support of Mr. Hearst and those same independents. Nor would Gov. Sulzer say anything with reference to the allusion made in McCabe's latest outburst to perjury charges in Vermont.

"For the present," said Gov. Sulzer in his typewritten statement, "I shall treat that vile and villainous matter with the contempt it deserves."

"Is here anything you care to say with reference to the allusion made by McCabe to perjury charges?" the Governor was asked.

"It is ridiculous," the Governor replied.

"Is that all you care to say?"

"It is ridiculous—that's all."

The Governor made the assertion that Mr. Murphy was behind the attacks made upon him by the Senate clerk and said that he would not in the future stoop to dignifying with a reply every baseless, vicious, and unjust attack made upon him.

Here is the Governor's counterblast to the McCabe statement:

"Most of it, like the previous emanation from the same source, is a tissue of falsehoods made out of whole cloth. No one knows this better than McCabe and the political conspirators behind him. Everybody knows that 'Packey' and the unprincipled men who tell him what to do and what to say are trying to discredit me to break the force of my honest struggle to carry out in good faith the platform pledges of my party for direct nominations.

"Ever since these men found out they couldn't use me to their own personal and political advantage they have been threatening me and hounding me and telling me they would destroy me and wreck my administration. But their attempts to place me in an unenviable light before the people of the State will be as abortive as their methods and motives are transparent.

"Suffice it to say I have taken my stand for good government and political righteousness, and all the mud and all the slime and all the filth they now hurl against me will not deter me in the performance of my duty as I see the right and God gives me the light. I cannot be intimidated, and I have no fear of political or personal consequences. Let every one understand that.

"When some one responsible makes some specific charge against me affecting my personal honor or my political character I shall promptly reply and take such other action in the premises as I deem proper.

"The people of the State understand pretty well why these vicious and bitter attacks are being made upon me by the political bosses and their servile creatures. It is to annoy me, frighten me, to prevent me from doing my duty fearlessly, and to distract the attention of the voters of the State while the bosses slaughter the Direct Nominations bill in the extraordinary session of the Legislature. I shall not permit these men to evade the issue, or to dodge the responsibility. I told them I would fight, and I have only begun.

"The whole thing is as plain as the noonday sun. The people, however, will not be deceived by these distorted statements and cruel insinuations, any more than I will be deterred from going on with the fight, and to that end I shall not stoop in the future to dignify every baseless and vicious and unjust attack. If I did, I would have nothing else to do. Let these galled jades wince and squeal. I fear not. My withers are unwrung.

"The only thing the people of the State want to know is wether Mr. Murphy is again going to defeat the bill for direct primaries. As he is the man who defeated it in the regular session of the Legislature, the question as to what he is going to do about it in the extraordinary session seems to be pertinent. Mr. Murphy should stop counselling his sub-bosses what to say about me and tell the people what he is going to advise the Legislature to do about direct nominations."

Mr. McCabe kept in seclusion most of the day. It was hinted that he was composing a new outburst against Gov. Sulzer.

PAINTER FALLS 7 STORIES.

Rope of Scaffold Breaks Under Workmen on the Schuyler Arms.

Isidore Sackman, a painter of 535 Fifth Street, was killed yesterday by falling seven floors from a scaffold on the side of the Schuyler Arms apartments, at 307 West Ninety-eighth Street, when a rope holding the scaffold broke. He fell into a courtyard between the apartment house and a private school.

William Brosnan of 8 West 115th Street, who was working on the scaffold with him, saved himself by clinging to one of the ropes and lowering himself to the fifth floor, where he swung through an open window to safety. Sackman was at the north end of the platform and it was at his end that the rope broke. He tried to grasp the dangling strands, but missed them.

Miles-Stallo Suit Off Until June 25.

Supreme Court Justice Newburger adjourned yesterday until June 25 the trial of a $15,000 suit brought by George J. Miles, Jr., against Edmund K. Stallo to recover the value of a note signed by Stallo and his father-in-law, the late Alexander McDonald.

PUT NAIL CONCERN INTO BANKRUPTCY

Charge That President Enell Gave Wife $11,900 of Its Funds.

HE DIED AFTER ARREST

Was Accused of Fraud by Treasurer of Company, Who Consented to Receiver's Appointment.

The Kendall Nail and Supply Company, wholesalers of wire nails, at 949 Broadway, was thrown into bankruptcy yesterday when a petition was filed in the United States District Court by three creditors, with claims aggregating $176,680. It was alleged in the petition that on May 31, while he was ill at the Waldorf-Astoria, Mr. Enell caused checks to be drawn to his order on the company's account in the Second National Bank aggregating $11,900 and that the cash was turned over to Mrs. Enell, who deposited the money in a safe deposit box in the Mercantile Safe Deposit Company at 115 Broadway under her maiden name, Gabrielle Wechsler. No consideration was received by the company for this money, it was alleged.

Mr. Enell died at St. Luke's Hospital on June 10, the cause of his death being given as bronchial pneumonia. On June 5 he had been placed under arrest at the hospital by Detective Markey of the Mercer Street Station on a warrant issued by Magistrate House in the Jefferson Market Court. Roy L. Brower, the complainant and Treasurer of the company, alleged that Enell had since June 1 wilfully and with intent to cheat and defraud him, destroyed certain books of account and record of the company. No further information could be obtained at the hospital.

The petitioning creditors and their claims were the Second National Bank of the City of New York, $35,000, for money loaned from Feb. 14 to May 14; the J. C. Pearson Company of Boston, $141,414 for merchandise delivered since Jan. 1, 1913, and the United States Realty and Improvement Company, $266 for rent. Halstead H. Frost, Jr., represented the creditors. He said that the company was insolvent; that it had admitted in writing its inability to pay its debts and had made preferential payments to the Motor Delivery Company of $114, the Goodyear Rubber Tire Company, $87, and J. G. Hilliard, $37, on May 20. Treasurer Brower of the company signed the consent of the concern to the bankruptcy proceedings. The receivers were appointed on the application of Frank C. Ayres, Vice President of the J. C. Pearson Company, who made a long statement to the court concerning the affairs of the bankrupt concern.

DEFENDS NEW YORK TO COLLEGE MEN

Abram I. Elkus Tells City College Graduates Stories of Crime Are Magnified.

POINTS TO OHIO SCANDAL

Greatest Abuse of Electorate Franchise, He Says, Committed by 2,000 Native-Born Americans.

Commencement exercises were held at the City College yesterday. Fifty degrees were conferred in the arts and thirty-five in the science course. The exercises took place in the Great Hall. The academic procession entered to the music of Lemaigre's "Marche Solemnelle," played on the organ by Prof. Baldwin. The graduates went through the ceremony of taking the Ephoebic oath of loyalty to the city, which was administered by Justice H. Putnam of the Supreme Court. The commencement address was delivered by Abram I. Elkus. He said in part:

"It is the fashion nowadays to decry the great cities of the country, particularly this, the greatest city. The crimes which may be committed here are magnified, the unwholesome method of industry, the crowding and congestion, are pointed to to-day with horror and warning. Yet it has come to my personal knowledge in a part of my own work that conditions of municipal government in many of the smaller cities of this State are far worse than here.

"When these critics speak of the crimes committed in New York City by the ignorant and the foreigners, it is well to remember that perhaps the greatest crime of this decade committed against electorate franchise was committed in Bucks County, Ohio, by 2,000 native-born American citizens, who boasted of their native American ancestry; and when the ignorance of the great east side is referred to, as is so often done, it is well to remember that the most illiterate school district in the United States is the one where the percentage of the foreign born is the smallest.

"Many of the children who attend the public schools do not graduate, and of those who do, a large percentage are unable, for economic reasons, to continue their education in our high schools and colleges. For this great number of boys and girls nothing seems to have been done; they drift aimlessly from one haphazard occupation to another. For them there is but litle progress and advancement; they simply swell the great army of unskilled workers and contribute to making the problem of the living wage the most difficult one confronting us to-day.

"Make real use of the education you have received in this, the city's house of learning. Help actively to make the city a great city, not alone in commerce and industry, but in the moral and intellectual prominence of its people."

After this address the usual senior essays were read. The degrees were then conferred on the graduates by President Finley. Prof. Werner recommended the men for the arts degree and Prof. Baskerville for the science.

President Finley then read the list of prize winners and the names of the honor men of the class. Morton Gottschall got his degree summa cum laude. He also received the Pell medal for highest rank in all the studies of the year and the Ward medal for moral philosophy and history. He obtained the Prager memorial prize and the Ketchum prize for proficiency in moral philosophy. In history he also gained the Gen. Tremain prize, in political science the James Gordon Bennett, and in art the Steers prize. Louis J. Mutterperl also gained a degree summa cum laude. KOHLER LEFT $5,000,000.

Piano Manufacturer Gives Annuities to His Wife and Daughters.

The will of Charles Kohler, a piano manufacturer and owner of racing stables in the United States, England, and France, who died on June 4 in Paris, was filed for probate yesterday in the Surrogates' Court. There was no accompanying petition showing the size of the estate, but from the internal evidences of the will the assets appeared to be about $5,000,000.

The charitable bequests amounted to $31,000. The testator left $5,000 each to St. John's Guild and the Floating and Seaside Hospital for Children and $10,000 each to the Association for the Aid of Crippled Children and the Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association. Legacies ranging from $10,000 to $2,500 were left to a brother and three half-sisters and legacies of $2,000 and of $1,000 to personal servants here and abroad. Mr. Kohler directed his executors to pay $500 each to employes of fifteen years' standing of Kohler & Campbell, piano manufacturers, and of the Autopiano Company, of both of which he was founder.

A stock farm at Hohokus, N. J., and all its machinery and stock, except his high-bred horses, Mr. Kohler bequeathed to his wife, Veronica M. Kohler, in addition to an annual income of $25,000 from his residuary estate. The horses, some of which are among the most noted in the world, he directed should form part of his residuary estate and be disposed of as his executors should see fit.

From the residuary estate Mr. Kohler directed that each of his daughters, Olga V., Vera M., and Ritta M. Kohler, should receive the income of $25,000 a year. Each is to receive $100,000 from the principal upon reaching the age of 25 years, a like sum at the age of 35, and $100,000 more at the age of 45 years. After each payment of $100,000 the annuity in each case is reduced in proportion. After they have reached the age of 45 the daughters will continue to receive the income from the remainder of the principal. Upon the death of the daughters the remainder of the principal sum is divided among their issue. Upon the death of the widow the principal sum from the income of which she received an annuity of $25,000 becomes part of the residuary estate and passes to the surviving daughters or their issue in equal shares.

In disposing of his interests in various piano manufacturing firms Mr. Kohler enjoined his executors to act in such a way as not to disturb business. He left them free either to close out his interests or allow his capital to continue in the same enterprises. The executors are his wife, Veronica M. Kohler, William B. Ellison, and Richard W. Lawrence, President of the Autopiano Company. The will was made on July 15, 1912.

FURTHER BAR ON ASIATICS.

New Immigration Rule Excludes Undesirables from Insular Ports.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—A far reaching amendment to the immigration regulations in order to check further complication of Pacific Coast problems by unrestrained admission of Hindus and the Malay races to continental United States from the American insular possessions, was made to-day by Secretary of Labor Wilson, on the recommendation of Commissioner General of Immigration Caminetti.

The modification authorizes immigration officials at mainland ports "to reject aliens coming from the insular possessions unless it should appear that at the time of entry thereto they were not members of the excluded classes or likely to become public charges."

This action was the outcome of the cases of three Hindus—Sohan Singh, Bashan Singh and Singh who arrived at San Francisco from the Philippines and were detained on the ground that they might become public charges. The circumstances in this case, however, caused Secretary Wilson to order the admission of the Hindus to-day.

Several thousand Hindus are in the Philippines and a large number in Hawaii. It has been the practice to open the doors of the United States proper to these races upon the presentation of certificates showing they were examined and passed at an American insular port of entry.

Commissioner General Caminetti explained to-day that the regulations were amended to empower immigration authorities on the mainland to pass upon the eligibility of Hindus coming from the insular possessions because there was an obvious difference between an alien supporting himself in the Philippines, for instance, and supporting himself in the United States.

As the law does not specifically differentiate between entries in the United States and the insular possessions, officials anticipate litigation over the amended regulations unless Congress confirms them by statute.

TO AID WIDOWED MOTHERS.

Gov. Sulzer Appoints Seven Members of New Commission.

ALBANY, June 19.—Gov. Sulzer to-day appointed Mrs. William Einstein, William Hardy, Sophie Irene Loeb, Dr. William Sirovich, and John D. Lindsay of New York, Ansley Wilcox of Buffalo, and E. Frank Brewster of Rochester, members of a commission to inquire into the practicability of providing for pensions or other relief for widowed mothers.

In addition to the Governor's appointees the commission is to consist of three Senators and five Assemblymen, to be appointed by the President pro tem of the Senate and the Speaker of the Assembly. The commission was authorized by a law passed this year.

MERCHANTS WANT WHITMAN

Business Men's Progressive Association Offers Him Its Support.

The Executive Committee of the Business Men's Progressive Association, which represents 1,500 voters in New York, visited District Attorney Whitman yesterday and read resolutions to him in which they offered their support, provided he would be a candidate for Mayor.

The resolutions also said that the association would do all in its power to bring about his nomination. Mr. Whitman, in replying, expressed his thanks to the committee and promised that if elected his administration would be non-partisan.

The Business Men's Progressive Association was incorporated four months ago, and has offices at 501 Fifth Avenue.

WARNS GRADUATES NOT TO BE 'CATTISH'

T. W. Churchill Delivers the Commencement Address at Normal College.

BOOKS NOT EVERYTHING

Head of Board of Education Says to Prospective Teachers "Don't Let the Curriculum Strangle You."

The Normal College graduated 196 students and 19 kindergartners in the June class.

"It is the largest class ever graduated," said President George Samler Davis yesterday morning at the exercises in the assembly hall of the college as he conferred the degrees of Bachelor of Arts. The class graduated in January numbered 192. There are more than 1,300 students in the college, almost triple the number of five years ago. At that time they were practically all from Manhattan and the Bronx. Now there are students from Queens and Richmond. It means a great deal for girls to come from Staten Island every day for three and one-half years, over four hours a day travel.

"All our honor students in the past were prepared in the Normal College High School but to-day for the first time the other high schools of the city have broken into this close corporation. Thirteen of the girls are from the Normal High, two from the Washington Irving, one from the Wadleigh High, one from the Curtis High School, Staten Island, and two are from outside the city. It has been a record class for ability."

Prof. Carl F. Kayser presented the diplomas and prizes awarded by Edgerton L. Winthrop, Jr.

Josephine Warschauer told the class that they as well as the men who graduated from the college had civic duties to perform, that they must instill in the children they taught a civic sense which would interest them to co-operate with the forces working to keep the city clean and beautiful, and that loyalty to school would develop into loyalty to the city.

Amy Flashner, valedictorian, referred to the new college building, saying that the younger sisters of the school would have a more commodious building, but would miss many associations of the old.

President of the Board of Education Thomas W. Churchill, called for a tribute to President Emeritus Hunter before beginning his address to the class.

He told the girls that their education was wasted if they left college with "cattish" feelings in their hearts, told them to take an oath of fidelity to help bring the millennium.

"To those of you who are going to be married, I have nothing to say. You can take care of yourselves, but to those of you who are going to teach I would say there is not everything in books and don't let the curriculum strangle you even if you risk your job—the spirit is the thing."

There was music by the orchestra. The girls sang their graduation song, "The Good Ship Alma Mater," and "America," and after the benediction by the Rev. Dr. James M. Farrer, the faculty and students filed out while the audience remained seated. The prize winners were:

HARVARD HONORS MULLER.

Visiting Brazilian Made a Doctor of Laws at Commencement.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 19.—Dr Lauro Seviriano Muller, the Brazilian Minister of Foreign Affairs, who is in this country on an official visit of courtesy, was a notable figure at the commencement of Harvard University today, sharing honors with J. P. Morgan, Senator Lodge, George Von L. Meyer, ex-Secretary of the Navy; Gov. Foss, ex-Gov. John D. Long, Dr. C. W. Eliot, President Emeritus of Harvard; Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, Major Higginson, and other distinguished men.

The commencement exercises were held in Sanders Theatre. Among the degrees conferred was the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws upon Dr. Muller. In conferring this honor President Lowell designated Dr. Muller thus:

> Maker of harbors and of railroads; beautifier of a beautiful city; a statesman who has waged war against slavery and disease; a soldier who stands for peace and for that friendly spirit which, pervading the Americans, will promote the welfare of the Western World.

The university conferred 977 degrees, as follows: Bachelors of Art, 418; Bachelors of Science, 37; Masters of Arts, 127; Doctors of Philosophy, 48; Doctors of Medicine, 101; Bachelors of Law, 175, and miscellaneous, 51.

Members of the Board of Overseers were elected to-day for a term of six years as follows: Langdon P. Marvin, New York; George H. Palmer and William R. Thayer, both of Cambridge; Frederick C. Shattuck, Boston; Harlan P. Amen, Exeter, N. H., and Frederick P. Fish, Brookline.

DIES BY DEAD HUSBAND.

Inseparable for 30 Years and Inseparable at the End.

After spending Wednesday night weeping in the apartment of a married daughter at 264 West 122d Street, Mrs. Mary Jennings, 59 years old, asked yesterday morning that she be allowed to go to her own apartments in the same house and look at the body of her husband, who had died early Wednesday evening. She was assisted there. After gazing at the body intently for several moments, Mrs. Jennings uttered a cry and fell forward. The same doctor who had attended her husband the night before was called, but despite his efforts she could not be resuscitated, and died in a short time. The physician said that grief and shock were responsible for her death.

The husband, John Jennings, a ticket agent at one of the Subway stations, was 58 years old, and the pair, who have three grown children, had been inseparable for thirty years. And they will remain so, for it was a double funeral that the Jennings children were arranging yesterday.

$246 a Year for ex-Mayor Whitney.

Appraisal of the estate of Mrs. Henrietta T. Whitney, wife of Daniel D. Whitney, one-time reform Mayor of the old City of Brooklyn, was filed yesterday in the Surrogate's office. Mrs. Whitney died Dec. 26, 1912, leaving a life interest in her estate estimated in value at $17,129 to her husband, who is now 94 years old. According to the appraisal, Mr. Whitney's share in the estate is $246. At his death a sister of the testator receives the life interest.

ZBOROWSKI ESTATE WORTH $3,091,281

William Astor's Granddaughter Had Nearly All Her Fortune Here—It Goes to Last Son.

TWO CHILDREN CUT OFF

These Were Son and Daughter by Her First Marriage to de Stuers—A Settlement Reported.

The appraisal of the estate of the Countess Margaret Laura Zborowski, widow of Count Elliott Zborowski, the crack polo player, and a granddaughter of William Astor, was filed yesterday in the Surrogates' Office, showing gross assets valued on the day of her death, July 9, 1911, at $3,091,281. The estate taxable in New York, where the Countess had her legal residence, was $2,655,558, after the deductions of $285,723 for debts and administration expenses, and of $150,000 as the value of her realty in England.

During the last ten years Countess Zborowski resided in England, at either 15 South Audley Street, London, or in Canterbury. Her husband was killed in an automobile accident on April 1, 1903. For the disposition of her property here and abroad she left two wills, the one to cover American property only, and the other all outside the country. Under neither of these wills did she recognize her two children by a former marriage, that with Chevalier Alphonse de Stuers, the Ambassador of Holland to the United States.

At the time of her first marriage, her grandfather, William Astor, "in consideration of his love for her and on account of her marriage," set aside $50,000 in 6 per cent. bonds, the income to be paid her free of her husband's control, and the principal to fall into her estate on her death. In yesterday's appraisal this fund was valued at $51,961. She divorced the Chevalier de Stuers on March 5, 1892, and the following day married Zborowski. She cut off the two children of her first marriage, Countess Marguerite Victorine Oberndorff and Hubert de Stuers, on the ground that they had never shown her filial affection.

These two began a contest of the will, but later announced that they had reached an agreement out of court. What this consisted of was not disclosed in the appraisal, as there was no deduction made for such a settlement. The bulk of her estate she left under both wills to her son by her second marriage, Louis Zborowski, 14 years old. This, amounting in all to $2,522,755, was placed in trust with the executors, Henry Lewis Morris and Daniel B. Ogden, to be paid upon his becoming of age.

Besides legacies of $25,000 to Henry Lewis Morris and Robert du Luart, and various sums to her servants, there were gifts contingent upon the death of her son before his majority and without leaving issue. In this contingency the bulk of her estate was left to Comtesse de Montsaulnin, the sister of her husband.

Directing that her son should be educated in England, according to her husband's wish, she enjoined her executors under the American will to pay Arthur Lewin Enthoven and Alice Enthoven an annual sum of $15,000, or what they might consider reasonable for the maintenance of a suitable home for the son until he should come into his property. As a country seat for her son she left Higham, an estate of 224 acres near Canterbury. At the time of her death she was making extensive improvements on this place, and in her will she directed that these should be carried on to the extent of $250,000. This realty, all she owned outright in England, was appraised at $150,000, and the art objects in her residences at an equal sum.

The estate taxable in New York contained bank acounts $356,131, the most of which was physically situated in London. The New York realty amounted to $1,237,250, of which the largest item was 335 Fifth Avenue, appraised at $1,006,250. The remainder consisted of securities.

LAFAYETTE TROUBLE GRAVE

Warfield-Mecklin Controversy One of Religious Ethics.

Special to The New York Times.

EASTON, Penn., June 19.—The situation created at Lafayette College, a Presbyterian institution, by the resignation of Dr. J. M. Mecklin, Professor of Mental and Moral Philosophy, is declared to be grave, involving the loyalty of many alumni and other friends of the institution. Friends of Dr. Mecklin are saying that his course is due to the attitude of President E. D. Warfield, and that the prestige of Dr. Warfield has been so impaired by this incident that the college cannot prosper under him. Even some of those lined up with Dr. Warfield in the Mecklin controversy say that there should be a new President.

The assertion is made on behalf of Dr. Mecklin that the only charge against him is that he taught from text books on ethics and psychology and on the psychology of religion written from the evolutionary point of view, held to be subversive of the religious traditions of the college. In answer to this it is said that these text books are used in colleges all over the country, including many other Presbyterian colleges. It is asserted that the instructions of Dr. Mecklin were bringing opinions to the students not in accord with Lafayette ideas. Friends of Dr. Warfield say that Dr. Mecklin did not pursue the same line of instruction year after year, but took up new ideas, dropping those of a year or two before.

The students and Faculty are in strong sympathy with Dr. Mecklin. Dr. Warfield suffers from the culmination of opposition which has been increasing for years.

SAYS MARCONI IDEAS MADE WIRELESS

Expert Witness Testifies That the Inventor Established a Utility.

HE DESCRIBES THE PATENTS

Defendants Say That If Contentions Are Sustained Monopoly Will Be Established.

Expert testimony, reviewing the history of wireless telegraphy from the time of the experiments of Sir Oliver Lodge of England, Hertz, the German scientist, and Prof. Popoff of Russia, offered with the idea of showing the achievements accomplished by William Marconi, was introduced yesterday before Judge Veeder in the United States District Court, Brooklyn, at the trial of an injunction and damage suit brought by the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company of America against the National Electric Signaling Company of Pittsburgh, Penn.

Marconi, the inventor, who says that his patent rights are infringed by the defendants, sat near his attractive-looking young wife. Both listened attentively to every word spoken by Frank L. Waterman, an expert in patents and regarded as an authority on matters relating to wireless telegraphy. According to the witness, Marconi's improvements on the theories of Hertz and the other scientists in wireless telegraphy are new. The inventor, according to the witness, not only made wireless practicable, but through his inventions it became a commercial utility.

Waterman was the first witness called by the attorneys for Marconi in behalf of the inventor. His testimony took up the entire session yesterday afternoon. The court and spectators were interested in an account of the experiments of Sir Oliver Lodge, who demonstrated the fact that electricity could be sent across space as well as stored. The testimony of what Lodge and his contemporaries have accomplished was offered to show that it had something to do with the wireless achievements of to-day.

The witness in his account of the development in wireless communication got down to the time of the first patents filed by Marconi, in 1896. This part of the testimony was of a technical nature. He described the inventions of Marconi covered by the patents of 1896, such as the transmitting station having an upright vertical insulated wire, the device for detecting the Hertzian waves with grounding connections, and the receiving station with its upright vertical insulated wire connected with an apparatus to render the signaling intelligible.

This part of the testimony is the beginning of an account of the Marconi patents, based on improvements by this modern inventor which have caused millions of dollars to be invested in commercialized wireless communication. That Marconi's ideas alone made wireless practicable and a utility was the opinion of the witness. He had reached the stage of the first patents of the inventor when court was adjourned for the day. His testimony will be resumed when the trial is continued at 10 o'clock this morning.

Marconi told his life story on the witness stand on Wednesday—how he developed wireless from a mere toy when he sent messages a few feet across a table on his father's estate in Italy, to the imense distances he has achieved at the present time. ILn support of his claim to the sole use of his patent rights experts are ready to testify for him.

When he was asked what he had to say concerning an author whose work contradicted him in some ways, he said: "If I followed the formula of a man, and repeated experiments showed results were not satisfactory to me, I would differ with him on that particular point, no matter how eminent an authority he might be."

So absorbed was Marconi in catching every word of testimony and everything said by lawyers and the court at the trial that he was eager to get to his seat beside Mrs. Marconi when court reconvened, after a few minutes' adjournment during the afternoon session. In the brief time he met the reporters he was asked if he was working on new inventions.

"I am always working," he replied, with a smile, as he caught the announcement from the Court Clerk that recess was over, and walked to the front of the court room.

Not the least important person in the court room was Mrs. Marconi. During the trial of the case in the last few days she has been an attentive listener. Especially interested in her husband's story of his achievements, she expressed confidence in the outcome of the trial in his favor.

"I think he will win," she said, "and he ought to. I believe that a man who obtains a patent on his ideas is the man who deserves all the credit for what those ideas have accomplished rather than a person who improves on the patent."

Marconi did not testify yesterday. He may be called to the witness stand again on Monday.

From present indications, the trial will continue for several days. In support of the contentions of the defendants that they have the right to improve on Marconi's ideas just as he improved on the ideas of the scientists from whom he derived his inspirations, they will call witnesses to testify in their behalf. It is not denied by them that they have profited by the Marconi inventions, but they say that their wireless expert, R. A. Fessenden should be entitled to the same privilege as Marconi had of improving on the ideas and theories of others.

It is alleged by the defendants that a decision of the court in favor of the plaintiffs would confer a complete monopoly of wireless telegraphy. Such a decision, they say, would affect wireless plants in every part of the country, including the government plant at Arlington.

SALOMAN'S BEQUEST WAS JUST A DREAM

Mr. Kieley, Very Much Alive, Wonders What Inspired Elevator Man's Romance.

HIS LIFE NOW A BURDEN

Friends Have Telephoned from as Far as Chicago Since Former Employe Announced His Death.

Timothy Kieley, very much alive and unquestionably angry, denied yesterday that he had passed away and left $20,000 and property worth $100,000 to Milton Saloman, an elevator runner who lived in a three-story frame apartment house at 200 Nunda Avenue, Jersey City Heights. Mr. Kieley received the newspaper reporters in his office at 34 West Thirteenth Street, a six-story building occupied by Kieley & Mueller, manufacturers of steam specialties. Each time he repeated that he was feeling in the best of health his anger increased.

Mr. Kieley's troubles started when stories appeared in the newspapers that Salomon, who worked for him at one time as an elevator man at 30 Greenwich Avenue, had fallen heir to riches. Salomon was reported to have said that he expected to get some $120,000 in money and property. He had heard of the bequest through Mr. Kieley's lawyers, the elevator man was alleged to have asserted. Then he was said to have announced that as he did not like some of the tenants in the house where he lived he was going to buy the house and put them out. Salomon was reported to have explained that the bequest was left to him because once while he was in the employ of Mr. Kieley he saved his life. An Italian who had been discharged by the firm had attempted to stab Mr. Kieley, the report set forth, and Salomon had knocked him out with a broom.

"It is all a lie, just as much a lie as that statement that I am dead," asserted Mr. Kieley yesterday. "The only part of it all that is true is that I know Salomon, and he formerly worked for me. He never saved my life, and how he came to tell all these stories I don't know. I thought we were friends, and only three months ago we had a talk, and when we said good-bye we were on the best of terms. I sent word to him to come and tell me all about this, but he has not replied."

Mr. Kieley then said he had known Salomon for fifteen years, and that three years ago Salomon had worked for him as an elevator man in the Greenwich Avenue building. Then Salomon quit to take a better job, he said.

"My business is a big one, and now friends from all over the country are telephoning and telegraphing to me," continued Mr. Kieley. "There have been several calls from Chicago and messages from San Francisco. The news of my death seems to have spread everywhere, and it is doing me a lot of harm. But what can I do but sit here and say I am not dead."

Looking for Mr. Salomon was like hunting for a needle in a haystack yesterday. At his hime, Mrs. Salomon said he had departed early in the afternoon and would not be back until late at night. She thought he had gone to New York. She opened her eyes wide when the reporter told her that Mr. Kieley was alive and had turned over none of his money to her husband.

"Can that be true?" she said. "It is the first I had heard of it. My husband was so sure of the money. It is true he gave up his place as an elevator man in Hoboken when he heard he was going to be rich. Now I suppose he can look for another job, can't he?"

Mrs. Salomon, who is young and attractive in appearance, had her two weeks' old baby Alva in her arms, and she swung the baby slowly, apparently more interested in the youngster than in talk about money.

"We did have trouble with some of the neighbors," she said, in answer to another question. "My husband was going to put them out, she said. "They didn't like us, and we didn't like them. I don't know so much about this money as I might. I understood my husband to say that he saw in the newspapers that he had fallen heir to money, and he was overjoyed. I don't know about a letter from a lawyer; I have seen none. That is all I can tell you."

But the neighbors were more communicative. For a quarter of a mile in every direction the news of Salomon's good fortune had spread. Until a reporter appeared in the afternoon none of them had heard that Mr. Kieley was not dead. The news was received with the greatest joy in the house in which Saloman lived. The Aldertons, who live in one of the flats, received the information with broad smiles, and departed at once to tell Mrs. Peters on another floor. It was apparent that Salomon had not exaggerated his unpopularity. One of the tenants who had an apartment adjoining Salomon's said that he had been preparing to move.

"Now," he said, "I guess I'll wait a while. I want to see Salomon. I wouldn't like to be in his boots."

Abbott-Detroit 44-50 Limousine, $3,150 f. o. b. N. Y., complete

"Palace on Wheels"

One car out of every three seen at the recent polo matches on Long Island was a limousine or other closed car type.

"Limousines for Summer tours?" you ask. OF COURSE.

They afford perfect protection from the heat; from dusty roads; from sudden showers; from the dust of other cars.

They protect the dainty frocks of women passengers, and make possible a degree of luxury not possible in an open car.

It is the ideal car for use 12 months a year.

The price has been a drawback to many possible purchasers. For four quick-acting men we can remove this drawback.

At the end of a wonderful Spring selling record we find ourselves with just four limousines left. "Palaces on Wheels," one man called them yesterday. When you see them we think you'll agree he was not far off.

These limousines are a combination of the elegance and beauty seen only in the costly foreign cars, with the comfort-giving ingenuity of which the American designer is capable.

From the rich hand-buffed leather of the driver's compartment to the detailed and elegant appointments of the luxuriously upholstered passengers' compartment, it is only the final word in dignified elegance and smart good taste.

Furthermore, we are prepared to furnish touring bodies, with top and windshield to be fitted to same chassis, that could be used in place of limousine body during the summer.

To make a clean sweep and close out these four limousines, we will sell them at a radical price reduction. In justice to other buyers no reservations can be made by 'phone or wire.

Not Yellow, It's Read

(George French in The Independent, June 5.)

PEOPLE who do not arrive at their conclusions through premises created in a month or a year are noting that the masses of people who are to be classified as "readers" are returning to sanity in their patronage of periodicals. The day of the newspaper or magazine that seeks chiefly to cater to mercurial and diseased tastes has passed—at least, the meridian of that day. A canvass recently made by The New York Times of a number of newsdealers, located in city and suburbs, gives such confirmation of that fact as cannot be gainsaid. It is important to note the results of this canvass, and so I give the figures:

Twenty dealers, located in New York City, Brooklyn, Mount Vernon, and Montclair, N. J., were taken as representative of the whole circulation. These dealers handle 14,498 copies of eight morning New York newspapers. Of this total The Times has 5,545 copies, or 38 per cent. of the total. Of the total, 10,628 are delivered at homes, and The Times gets 4,467 of these, or 42 per cent. There are 7,658 copies delivered to houses where but one paper is taken, and of these there are 3,318 copies of The Times, or 43 per cent.

But it is because The Times prints all the expurgated news that it is in the lead in circulation in the homes. It is in the lead in the offices and in the cars. But where do the papers with the big and inflated circulations go? Who reads them? Where do they go? I read The Times before breakfast, and leave it on the living-room table. It is read by the ladies of the household—read, mind you. They see more in it than I do, as I find to my cost upon returning to dinner, as I am unable to discuss much that they saw and I did not.

There are several newspapers in New York that have greater circulations than The Times, but it is apparent that there is none that is better read in the homes of people who are able to purchase the necessities and luxuries, and that makes it evident that The Times is a better advertising medium than those papers that, while they may print more copies, are read in the cars and at odd moments in offices, on street corners, and park benches, and then cast aside and forgotten. And it is as evident that those periodicals that place quality ahead of erotic titillation, or the playing up to passing moods of fashions, are immeasurably the better advertising mediums.

LEDEN STARTS NORTH TO STUDY ESKIMOS

Hopes at the Same Time to Learn the Fate of Andree.

MAY STAY FOR TWO YEARS

Prepared to Identify Any of Andree's Equipment—Seeks to Prove Racial Theories.

Christian Leden, the young Swedish explorer, who spent six months in the latter part of 1911 in studying the Indian tribes of Northwest Canada, and heard from Eskimos the fate of Prof. S. A. Andrée, who, in 1897, started for the north pole in a balloon, left last night for Montreal on a journey to the northern coast of Canada, where he will spend a year and a half or two years in exploration.

Mr. Leden's expedition will represent the University of Norway at Christiania and will be under the auspices of the Norwegian Government. While his main object is to make a scientific study of the Eskimo tribes of the extreme north coast of Canada, Mr. Leden hopes to bring back the full story of what happened to Prof. Andrée and his party sixteen years ago.

Mr. Leden's expedition is planned with the idea of making a scientific survey of the country and people on the northeast coast of Canada, similar to that which Stefansson's party made on the northwest coast. In reference to the blonde Eskimos discovered by Stefansson, Mr. Leden said:

"My own belief is that the white Eskimos discovered by Stefansson in Victoria Land have the blood of some of the members of Sir John Franklin's party in their veins. Franklin and his party of 160 men were lost about 1847, the year when Franklin died. They have since been traced to near the place where the blonde Eskimos were found.

"This theory accounts for their white blood more satisfactorily, it seems to me, than by supposing that they crossed from Greenland. At any rate, it is certain that they are not aborigines, and that their white blood comes from Europeans."

To Study Eskimo Tribes.

The Eskimo tribes which Mr. Leden will study have not been visited by white men, with the possible exception of Prof. Andrée, since the explorations of Sir John Franklin more than sixty years ago. Franklin and older explorers who passed through their country did litle more than mention them, so that these people are in a scientific sense, quite unknown.

The four tribes which he will visit are the Iglukiks, near Fury and Hecla Straits; the Kinipetus, between Chesterfield Inlet and Great Fish River; the Netchiliks, near Boothia, in the vicinity of the magnetic pole, and the Eivisliks, near the Wayer River.

It was the Eskimos in the neighborhood of Reindeer Lake who told of white men coming down from the sky in a flying house. They had the story from other Eskimos living further north. This story was first brought back to civilization in 1910 by Father Turquetil, the missionary in charge of the missions in Northern Saskatchewan and the Mackenzie River district. Eskimo Indians at Reindeer Lake took a great interest in Father Turquetil's revolver and told him it looked like the thing carried by the men who came from the "white house" which fell from the sky. They said that Eskimos had used the ropes from the balloon and were still using them in repairing their tents and in paddling their canoes. They always became silent when asked about the fate of the party, and this led Father Turquetil to believe that the natives had killed them.

When Mr. Leden was studying the Indians of Western Canada in 1911, he heard the same story. It was to the effect that fifteen years ago a large bubble fell from the sky containing two people thought to be devils who could send out smoke and thunder from instruments they held in their hands. The Eskimos attacked them and brought one down with arrows. The other white man showed by signs that their purpose was friendly, but the Eskimos fled and left them. They never found any further trace of him.

Mr. Leden said that the Indians and Eskimos always told this story in the same way. He said that these people never lied.

"They never make up stories," he said.

"You can always rely on the truth of what they say, and so I feel certain that it will be possible to prove this story as the Indians and Eskimos tell it."

Inquiry Into Andree's Fate.

Mr. Leden feels so confident that he will clear up the history of Andrée's balloon flight for the pole that he provided himself before leaving Norway with a large volume describing in detail every article which Andrée took with him in his balloon.

Mr. Leden's equipment includes both a moving-picture machine and a phonographic outfit for taking records of the life, customs, and amusements of these tribes for the purposes of comparison. The phonograph is to preserve their language, but more particularly their songs. Mr. Leden is one of the pioneers among anthropologists to use the music of a race or tribe to establish its relations in the human family.

Legends, customs, the manufacture of tools and weapons may be learned by one tribe from another, according to Mr. Leden, and on that account are not perfect guides in establishing kinship. The two surest tests of the ties of blood between two races, he said, are their grammar and the structure of music. The words themselves, he said, rapidly become obsolete and are superseded by new ones, especially among tribes like the Eskimos, but the grammatical construction of their languages remains unchanged. Mr. Leden said he had studied tribes living within a few miles of each other who had no words at all in common, but whose syntax was identical, showing that they had had a common origin.

In the same manner songs are adapted or grow old and out of date among the Eskimos, so that two related tribes might have songs totally different in words and meaning. Their common blood would be betrayed, however, according to Mr. Leden, by the identity of the structure of the music and of the manner of delivery.

It is chiefly through grammar and music that Mr. Leden hopes to be able to prove to the scientific world that the Eskimos of North America are related by blood to the Indians, but not to the Asiatic Eskimos.

Mr. Leden is only 30 years old, but this is his fifth trip of exploration. He has penetrated three times into unknown parts of Greenland for the purpose of studying the Eskimos where their life has been the least affected by European civilization. His other exploration was made into Northwest Canada in the interests of the Canadian Government.

Mr. Leden will make this exploration alone, except for the Eskimos whom he will employ. His euipment has been sent by boat to Fort Churchill in Hudson Bay, where he will arrive in August.

ROBIN HAS A SAY.

Willing to Rot in Jail, but Will Make Some Men Disgorge.

Joseph G. Robin, the ex-financier, was brought yesterday from the Tombs to the Federal Building to examine James T. Wood, who was President of the Bankers' Realty and Security Company and Vice President of the Washington Savings Bank. The hearing was to have been before Commissioner Gilchrist in connection with the affairs of the bankrupt Railway Traction and Construction Company, but when Robin arrived he found that Judge Mayer had vacated the subpoena for Wood, so that he was not present.

To explain matters Robin issued a statement in which he criticised Judge Mayer for vacating the subpoena, because the court was informed that it had been served illegally on Wood as he was leaving the Federal Building after an examination before Referee Willis..

Robin said he was quite willing to "rot in jail" if in so doing he could get back some of the money to the people who had been robbed, but if justice is better served by my use of whatever little ability I may have to get these influential and wealthy persons to disgorge, I take it that the campaign of villification that has been instituted will not affect the court much.

AID PATROLMEN'S FAMILIES.

Department's Fund Given to Mrs. Heaney, Mrs. Teare, and Mrs. Burns

Mrs. Mary Heaney, widow of Patrolman William J. Heaney, and Mrs. Annie J. Teare, mother of Patrolman Charles J. Teare, who were killed in attempting to stop the fight on the night of May 3 in which John Rizzo, a gangster, lost his life, and Mrs. Mary Burns, widow of Patrolman Eugene Burns, who was killed by an automobile on May 5, received equal shares of a fund of $11,611 collected by Chaplain Sullivan from members of the department, at Police Headquarters yesterday.

The checks were presented by Police Commissioner Waldo, who paid a tribute to the three dead patrolmen. Mrs. Heaney received $1,000 from the Riot Relief Fund, a Police Department indemnity, after her husband's death, and Mrs. Teare obtained $500 from the same source.

Oresto Shillitoni, a young Italian, was arrested last week, after a search lasting more than a month, charged with the murder of Heaney, Teare, and Rizzo.

$3,000 FOR AUTO DEATH.

Woman, Married Again, Had Sued for Loss of Her First Husband.

Instead of continuing a suit to recover $100,000 damages for the loss of her first husband, Mrs. Isabella Wildersinn-Jung of Smithville, L. I., yesterday agreed to accept $3,000 as a compromise from Harrison P. Wallis of 23 Pierrepont Street, Brooklyn, who was named as a defendant in the suit. The trial of the action was heard before Justice Morchauser in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn. When a compromise was announced the suit was dropped.

Ernest H. Wildersinn, the first husband of the plaintiff, died on May 24, 1911, from injuries he received in a collision between an automobile in which he was riding and a machine owned by Mr. Wallis. He was the guest of his wife's second husband at the time of the accident.

WIFE SHOOTER SURRENDERS

Cincinnati Lawyer Pleads Accident —Risks Arrest to See His Boy.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, June 19.—George B. Mundy, an attorney of this city, who shot and fatally wounded his wife last Saturday, after it was said he had trailed her from New York City, where she was visiting relatives, surrendered to the police at daybreak this morning.

"I drew a revolver and pointed it at my head," he said. 'My wife believed that I was going to shoot myself, and she jumped from her chair and caught hold of the pistol. She struggled with me for it, and suddenly there were two shots. My wife sank back and I saw she was bleeding from two wounds. I screamed and ran out of the house, intending to go for a doctor. The shooting was accidental."

Since the day of the shooting, Mundy says, he repeatedly passed the Central Police Station on his way to the Children's Home, where he hoped to see his little son, Harold. He dared not go there, he said, and for that reason stood about outside, hoping to catch a glimpse of the boy, but in vain.

Lockwood Loses Close Match.

WOLLASTON, Mass., June 19.—Two rounds of match play in the Massachusetts State golf championship at the Wollaston Golf Club to-day eliminated all but eight of the sixty-two starters in yesterday's qualifying round. The matches were fairly close and several went beyond the home hole for a decision. The only upset of the day was the defeat of former Champion Lockwood in the second round by P. Tewksbury of Woodland in a close match. Two former champions were left in the running at the close of the play.

AMERICAN GOLFERS WIN IN ENGLAND

McDermott Qualifies for British Open Championship Rounds—Others Compete To-morrow.

HOLYAKE, England, June 19.—Five American players took part in the qualifying rounds of the British open golf championship, which started to-day on the Holyake links in execrable weather. There was a steady downpour of rain during the early rounds and the first scores returned were mediocre. At the end of the second round John J. McDermott of Atlantic City was the only American player who qualified to compete in the championship round on June 23 and 24. Three other Americans play in the qualifying rounds on Saturday. The best score of the day was L. B. Aytun's, 152. McDermott's score was 159. The scores of the other Americans were: Stewart Maiden of Atlanta, Ga., 161; Alec Smith of Wykagyl Country Club, New Rochelle, N. Y., 161; Michael J. Brady of Wollaston, Mass., 162, and Alec Campbell of Brookline, Mass., 167.

Stewart Maiden was among the early starters and could do no better than 80 for the first round. The weather improved as the championship progressed, and Maiden turned in a card of 79 for the second round.

The second American to finish the first round was Alec Smith, with 79 strokes, which score, however, already had been beaten by several British players. The best card up to that time was that of C. H. Mayo of Burnhill, England, with 76 strokes. Smith fell off on his second round and turned in a card of 82. Smith's score of 161 makes him eligible for the qualifying rounds on Saturday.

Michael J. Brady returned the same card, 81, for both rounds, which will place him in the qualifying rounds with Smith and Maiden. Alec Campbell made a poor start, with 88, from which he failed to recover, although he completed the second round with 79 strokes.

Alec Smith is the Captain of the United States Golf Association team now in England, and which will oppose a French team of four at La Boulie in the latter part of June.

There was an entry of 269 players for the championship. This constitutes a record. Among them are twenty-one amateurs. The preliminaries of the competition occupied to-day, and will continue to-morrow and Saturday, the twenty lowest scorers each day qualifying for the championship rounds on June 23 and 24.

The totals of the American contingent who played to-day were:

	First Round.	Second Round.	Total.
John J. MDermott	79	80	159
Stewart Maiden	82	79	161
Alec. Smith	79	82	161
Michael J. Brady	81	81	162
Alec. Campbell	88	79	167

Advertising Men at Fox Hills.

Fox Hills, with its ups and downs, had few terrors for the members of the Metropolitan Advertising Golf Association yesterday when the organization held one of its eventful tournaments there. The morning was devoted to four-ball foursomes, in which J. J. Hazen and Don M. Parker were the winners, with a best ball of 75, 4—71. In addition to foursomes again in the afternoon, combined scores and handicaps counting, there was a medal play handicap in three classes. There was a tie in the foursomes involving W. M. Ostrander and L. B. De Veau with 204, 47—157, and D. L. Hedges and W. S. Bird with 194, 36—157. Ostrander and De Veau won the toss. W. Eugene Conklyn, of Dunwoodie, won Class A of the handicap, with 82, 3—79, while W. S. Bird took the second division prize with 94, 20—74. Another tie resulted in the third class between Walter W. Manning and W. M. Ostrander, each with 87, 22—75, Manning winning the toss.

TRAVERS LEADS FIELD.

National Champion Wins Qualifying Medal at Apawamis Golf.

Jerome D. Travers of Upper Montclair, the national amateur golf champion, won the medal in the thirty-six hole qualifying round of the annual invitation tournament of the Apawamis Club yesterday at Rye, with a total of 148, accomplished by two good rounds of 74. An unusually large field of 120 golfers, including some of the best in this section of the country, started. Second on the list was T. V. Bermingham of Wykagyl, with 153, while Fred Herreshoff of Westbrook, winner of the recent Oakland tournament, returned 154 for third place.

Max R. Marston of Baltusrol, the interscholastic champion, after an 80 in the early circuit, came back with 76 for a 156 total, good for fourth. William L. Hicks of Nassau handed in a 74 in the morning, equaling Travers's mark, but the veteran could not keep up the pace. His 157 was fifth.

Consistent golf on the part of Travers permitted him to lead the field by a margin of five strokes. In the early round he started with a missed putt, but atoned for that at the short eleventh where he ran down an eight-foot putt for a 2. Returning he missed one more putt at the tenth, but cut under par at the long seventeenth, where he had a 4. Par for the course is 73. In the last try, Travers ran along smoothly, until the eleventh where he encountered trouble. His par 5 at the seventeenth was accomplished in remarkable fashion. He topped his tee shot and his second got into a bunker. He played out over a tree onto the green, and with two putts got his five. The scores:

Corkran Makes New Golf Record.

WILMINGTON, Del., June 19.—B. Warren Corkran of Baltimore made a new record for the course to-day, when he completed the preliminary round of the invitation golf tournament of the Wilmington Country Club with a card of 70. This is three strokes less than the former record established by Jerome Travers in the tournament of two years ago, and is two below par for the course. Walter J. Travis of Garden City, the winner of the cup in the tournament last year, did the course to-day in 78.

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, JUNE 20, 1913.

BANKING UNDER FEDERAL CONTROL.

The McAdoo-Owen-Glass Banking and Currency bill has many and obvious merits that will command general approval. Its enactment would effect a great advance and improvement upon our national bank system and our banking practice. These provisions of the bill, which we may describe as highly meritorious, are already familiar to the public, for they have been taken in structure and substance, oftentimes in their very words, from the Monetary Commission's bill, embodying what was called the Aldrich plan. Details will naturally call for the closest scrutiny, but the general principles, which have been borrowed from the commission plan, have already been approved among bankers. In judging the bill, therefore, it is most important now to consider those features in respect to which it is radically at variance with the Monetary Commission bill. First of all, it is vitally necessary that bankers and the public should understand that the new measure commits the banking business and the currency system of the country into the hands of the Federal Government, with a power of control so nearly absolute that it may properly be called a Government or political system of banking.

At the basis of the structure are the Federal Reserve Banks, created in reserve districts not less than twelve in number, embracing the Continental territory of the United States. Each Federal Reserve Bank is to be a body corporate with a board of nine Directors. First, three members of the board will be chosen by the banks holding stock in the Federal Reserve Bank; second, there will be three members, also elected by these stockholding banks, who shall represent the business interests of the reserve districts and shall in no way be connected with the banking business; third, three members will be designated by the Federal Reserve Board. It would thus appear that the Federal representation would be one-third of the board only. This proportion is only apparent, for the Federal Reserve Board, which is the central authority in control of the district reserve banks, may in its discretion remove any Director of the second class, that is a Director representing the business interests of the district. It will be seen, therefore, that the Federal Reserve Board will control not one-third, but two-thirds of each of the boards of Directors of the Reserve Banks. Moreover, one of the district Directors designated by the Federal Reserve Board is to act as Chairman of the district board and is to be the Federal reserve agent, with a salary. And it is provided both in Section 4 and in Section 12 that the Federal Reserve Board may have the power to remove not only this Chairman, but all officers of Federal Reserve Banks. The political power, therefore, will hold in the hollow of its hand the Federal Reserve Banks in the twelve districts.

The Federal Reserve Board, the central authority, is to have seven Directors. Three would be ex officio, the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of Agriculture, and the Controller of the Currency. Four other members would be named directly by the President of the United States, with the consent of the Senate, and one of these three would be the Governor, another the Vice Governor, and a third the Secretary of the Federal Board.

Not only in its organization, but in its enumerated powers, the Federal Reserve Board would be in a position to control practically all the details of the country's banking business. It will have authority to compel national banks to subscribe to the capital stock of the Federal Reserve Banks, without other option, apparently, than that of ceasing to be a national bank and taking out a State charter. It will have power to conduct examinations of the Federal Reserve Banks, to require them to rediscount the paper of other reserve banks, to establish rates of discount mandatory upon each reserve bank, to suspend reserve requirements, to reclassify existing reserve and central reserve cities, to remove, as we have said, the officers of reserve banks, to require the writing off of doubtful or worthless assets, and to close reserve banks and appoint receivers therefor. Moreover, the Federal Reserve Board would have entire discretion in the issue of new notes to an amount not exceeding $500,000,000. And these new notes are to be not bank notes, but United States notes, and on their faces are to be described as "obligations of the United States."

It is to be counted among the merits of the bill that a currency secured by gold and by assets would be substituted for a bond-secured currency, that a system of bank acceptances would be established, and that is in a high degree important, for it would give us the advantage enjoyed by Germany by this banking practice, and would furnish an investment market like that which the business of the London note brokers supplies in that capital. This would be a welcome substitute for the Stock Exchange call loan market, which is the one elastic feature in our present system. The regulation of discounts and the power to deal in foreign exchange and in gold would supply means for protecting the public credit and for controlling the gold supply. These excellent features of the bill are taken bodily from the commission plan. It is in its departures from that plan that this bill gives cause for criticism, for grave apprehension. The promised advantages, and they are many, are to be secured by surrendering the banking business of the country, not to the regulation, but to the absolute control of the Government. Banking and politics would be one. All experience forbids us to assume with any degree of confidence that appointments made by the President and confirmed by the Senate would be made with that careful attention to the need of securing fit and experienced men which the great importance of the banking business and its delicate and easily disturbed relation to the industries of the country so urgently require. We know that our Government is one of the least efficient, most wasteful and loosely conducted of the great business institutions of the country. And into such incompetent hands it is proposed to intrust the control of banking, upon which all other business is so intimately dependent. Loans upon the security of farming lands are provided for. Does anybody suppose that the policy of the Federal Reserve Banks or of the Federal Reserve Board would in this particular be determined with entire indifference to the farmer vote? Or that in Congressional or Presidential campaign years the regulation of the discount rate or the determination of banking policy in general would be decided on by minds taking no thought of political ends to be gained? The germinal principle of the bill appears to be distrust of banks and of bankers. We may assume that not only financiers and bankers, but business men generally, will take sober thought concerning the centralizing features of the bill and the spirit and the policy which have inspired it.

OXNARD AND THE SUGAR DUTY.

No man of common morality and a just mind would wish to restrain the glee of the Democrats at Washington over their exposure of the epistolary and other activities of Mr. OXNARD's beet sugar lobbyists. The Democrats have many times stormed the citadel of protection and the Republicans have always defended it, and in just this Oxnard way. The protected interests have lobbied insistently, and by their lobbying they have repeatedly foiled Democratic attempts to secure lower duties. What wonder, then, that the Senate should push its advantage to the utmost? It has caught the beet sugar lobbyists red-handed, and naturally it shows them no mercy.

Mr. OXNARD, like any other protected manufacturer, was attempting to safeguard his interests against assault. He is just as bad as the others, and no worse. By open, public and above-board statements of his case he would have been quite within his right in battling against a reduction of the sugar duties, which, he insists, will ruin the beet sugar business. Nor does the exposure of his ill-directed activities in any degree serve to establish the wisdom of the Democratic policy in throwing away the revenue yielded by the duty on sugar. No tax is more easily collected, there is none of which the burden is so widely distributed. It is a tax the consumer does not feel, and cannot measure, save by a process of ciphering in cents and fractions of cents. This article of universal consumption is a perfectly proper subject for the fiscal impost.

It is exceedingly doubtful, moreover, whether, after the Government has thrown away more than fifty millions of revenue three years hence, when the bill makes sugar free of duty, the consumer will pay any less than he now pays. The Oxnard exposure in no way affects the merits of the question, and in the minds of men who have no interest whatever in beet sugar production the belief still exists that the Underwood bill makes an improvident sacrifice without correlative gain to anybody in throwing away the sugar revenue.

THE COURT HOUSE SITE.

There is not the slightest reason for any delay in the proceedings relating to the site of the new County Court House. The refusal of the Supreme Court Justices to accept the design for the building of Mr. GUY LOWELL, already accepted by the Committee of Award, and favored by the Court House Board, whose experts have examined all its details, does not affect the choice of the site. That is settled. Plans for clearing it of surface car tracks have been completed, and arrangements have already been made for new routes for the cars that pass through Centre Street. The actual designation of the site must be made by the Board of Estimate at its meeting next Tuesday, so that the buildings which now incumber it may be removed and the work of boring and sounding begun. Much labor which will occupy many months must be done before the actual building of the huge foundations can be begun.

It is important, therefore, that all this work should be attended to as quickly as possible. Before the Summer recess of the Board of Estimate the whole site should be given over to the wreckers, surveyors, and engineers. The dispute about the design of the building may go on all Summer. Doubtless Mr. LOWELL can so modify his plans as to suit the Justices. It is desirable, of course, that the accepted design should have their approval.

EXONERATION, NOT CENSURE.

The debate on the resolution of censure in the House of Commons has clearly indicated that the Opposition, before the matter was formally brought up, had abandoned any idea of securing from it further political advantage than has already been gained. That, we fancy, will turn out to be very small. How far the course of the Unionist minority was affected by the reported design of the Ministry to bring to light a long list of scandals affecting the Government in the period of Conservative ascendency may only be inferred. These matters were all aired at the time, but the huge Government majority in the Salisbury and Balfour Ministries made Parliamentary inquiry impossible. It is improbable that there was any actual fraud in the sale to the State of ground on Salisbury Plain for army manoeuvres, and there was never a vestige of proof that the Chamberlain family or any other associated with the Ministry profited from the sale of arms or from any connection with firms holding Government contracts. But those cases were quite as serious as the transactions in American Marconi stock of which the scandal-mongers, with the support of the Opposition, have made so much.

The fact of the transactions and what their accusers call the lack of frankness on the part of Sir RUFUS ISAACS and Mr. LLOYD-GEORGE was all that remained as the basis of the modified vote of censure when the debate began. In the opening speech it was freely admitted that there was no trace of corruption. Both the Attorney General and the Chancellor of the Exchequer bravely admitted their fault, and also expressed their regret for their reticence when the matter was brought up in the House of Commons last October. But the statement of Mr. LLOYD-GEORGE that "it "was a mistake of judgment, not a "lack of candor," is not now to be seriously disputed. Lord ROBERT CECIL's utterances are rarely taken seriously in Parliament, even by members of his own party. The manly acceptance of all responsibility for the unfortunate purchase of shares in the American Marconi Company by Sir RUFUS ISAACS can only increase the esteem in which he is held. There are no two opinions as to the unwisdom of all transactions in securities by men holding public offices of trust, whether or not the transactions are likely to involve them in relation with persons holding Government contracts.

At the close of the debate last night a substitute for the modified motion of censure was adopted, and 346 members of the House placed themselves on record as accepting the expressions of regret of the Attorney General and the Chancellor of the Exchequer that they had purchased the shares and not mentioned the fact in the debate of last October, as acquitting the two Ministers of acting otherwise than in good faith, and as reprobating the charges of corruption, "which have been proved absolutely false." Thus the great "sensation" ended in a fizzle.

The most deplorable aspect of the whole matter is the cruel association in the popular mind of Mr. MARCONI and his wireless telegraph with a political scandal. No slightest hint of calumny, of course, has ever been directed toward the inventor. The development of his invention has not only served to bring the nations of the world into closer bonds through the wireless itself, but it has saved the expenditure of many millions of dollars by its direct influence upon the cable tolls, and incidentally has greatly increased the revenues of the cable companies. The reduction of cable rates has tremendously increased the volume of cabled matter. Yet without the active competition of the Marconi wireless the rates would not have been reduced, and telegraphic communication between the countries would have remained so expensive that the cables would have been only used for the most urgent business.

The influence of the wireless has also stirred up that once hopelessly conservative institution, the British Post Office, induced it to revise its land telegraph charges, and aroused it to a sense of the world's need of improved facilities of communication. The wireless service is the greatest boon secured by mankind in recent years. The facts that a Marconi message has been sent lately 6,000 miles oversea, from the Irish Coast to Argentina, and that the ship service of the Marconi wireless now amounts to 3,000,000 words yearly, imparting information, carrying greeting and condolence, from the land to the midocean and vice versa, indicate the importance of this invention to mankind. That an attempt should have been made to besmirch its fame with scandal is deplorable, especially as it was made largely, as is now seen, with purely malicious intent.

CLASS GOVERNMENT.

If the President really has obligated himself so that he cannot use his official discretion regarding the enactment of privilege for labor it might be just as well to hurry up and do it without giving any more reasons why he should not be blamed for an act so unpardonable. The situation at the moment appears to be that the President has the same bad opinion of the law exempting unions and farmers' combinations from prosecution as everybody has, except unionists and farmers who want and mean to break the law everybody else must obey. But the President must sign the law, we are told, because he committed himself to do so before he understood the odious thing to which he committed himself unawares.

A worse excuse could not be given. The President is not so simple as he would seem, and the American law-abiding class is not so simple as he may think. The President's personal opinion of the reprehensible acts of some unionists is on record. The President's official opinion is in agreement with his personal opinion. The President's official oath is in conflict with his personal engagement, and he gives priority to that engagement.

It would be agreeable to have all these pettifogging excuses for the inexcusable repudiated by the veto of the bill. If the signature is to be assumed it is necessary for the President plainly to understand that what business is becoming afraid of is himself. In his annunciation of the new freedom he has said that it is necessary to provide safeguards more against wrong purposes than wrong acts. It is the purpose which is wrong in this case, and he is—or will be—accomplice before the fact to the enactment of privilege so wrong that it was sneaked through the Senate as a "rider," and without a roll call. The President cannot evade the roll call. His signature will stand as proof that he is the President of a class, not of all the people. In his own words "Some of the biggest men in "the United States, in the field of "commerce and manufacture, are "afraid of somebody, are afraid of "something." They are afraid of their lawmakers, who enact governmental favoritism for the profit of one class, and for privilege in law-breaking to another class.

If the President is in this bondage, what is the limit of it? And what hope is there that the full pound of flesh will not be taken if the first cut is allowed? The President has allowed this bill to come to him, and his course regarding it will show whether he is a bondman or free. He must choose between the favor of the law-abiding class or of lawbreakers, for there can be no compromise or concealment.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Grand Central Ticket Regulations.

Judging from the number of TIMES readers who are sending to it letters on the subject of ticket showing and the exclusion of all except passengers from the train platforms at the Grand Central Station, it is one that rather deeply moves the emotions of a good many people.

The communications received are all more or less hotly antagonistic to the regulations as established, and there is no doubt of the annoyance and resentment created every time the rule prevents anybody from rendering to another the often helpful and sometimes really needed service of carrying hand baggage to and into the train. It is probable, however, that the number of people thus grieved or angered is small in comparison with that of the travelers who would be inconvenienced if all who chose to do so were allowed to pass the gates and to congest the platforms and the aisles of the cars. Most of the invaders would be there on no more important errand than that of exchanging farewells with relatives or friends from whom they are about to be parted, and every regular frequenter of railway stations and steamship wharves knows with what curious indifference to the interruption of traffic this is commonly done.

It is, on the whole, desirable that the kissing and the good-byeing of these rarely tragic separations should be done in the waiting rooms, and not on the platforms or in the cars. In cases when help with baggage is really needed the porters are at hand to render it for a trifling fee—or even for nothing, at least in official theory. The protesting minority, however, have a strong argument in the fact that the exclusion policy is far from general; many big stations getting along, seemingly well enough, without it, and they can well ask wherein lies the peculiarity of conditions at the Grand Central Station.

As for the compulsory showing of tickets at the gates, that is all right for the long-distance travelers, but every commuter regards it as a nuisance, the more fretting in this station because for some mysterious reason the officials make a mysterious discrimination, enforcing the rule on the lower level and allowing the gatemen to use their discretion on the upper. As the commuters are or think themselves competent to take care of themselves in the matter of taking the right train, it does seem as if they might be allowed to pass through unshepherded.

Hopeless War on Tobacco.

Smoking in public places where non-smokers are by what amounts to compulsion in close proximity is a practice not easily defended, and perhaps it is not wholly to be excused. There is, nevertheless, something queer about the pleas of those who just now are so vehemently demanding the abolition of smoking cars—a something that their woeful tales of personal suffering wantonly inflicted do not wholly counteract.

They do protest too much. The world managed to get along without tobacco well enough for so many centuries that nobody can claim respect or toleration for it as a necessity. If it were really such a dreadful thing, however, and if it were really as offensive to as many people as its foes assert, it would hardly have made so wide and prompt a welcome for itself as it did in every country.

In many lands its joys and satisfactions are as much appreciated by women as by men, and as in all the smoking habit seems to be growing steadily more inclusive, there can be little basis for the assertion that women, as women, suffer a special annoyance from its use. Where most of them abstain from tobacco they do not show a special immunity even from the maladies which it is accused of causing. They are at least as nervous as men, and they have cancers far oftener.

The doctors do a good deal of writing and talking against tobacco, but their practice contradicts their preaching, so no wonder it goes for nothing. The smoking car will not "go" to-morrow, or next week, and the general, the effective, opinion probably long will be that tobacco is, on the whole, a "good creature."

FOR A FARM IN CENTRAL PARK

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is proposed to establish in Central Park a tiny model farm for the pleasure of our city children and the instruction of our tenement population.

The city spends annually many thousands of dollars in collecting and maintaining strange wild animals from the uttermost parts of the earth; in the meantime the great majority of our tenement population never have an opportunity to see a cow, a hen, or a pig. The wonderful botanical gardens spend thousands of dollars in collecting and exhibiting the rarest of orchids from the Amazon and specimens of strange plants from the five continents; meanwhile, our city children know peas and beans only as pushcart products, and have no idea how apples differ from potatoes in their manner of growth.

For several years the public school teachers, with the co-operation of the Public Education Association, have held each year in different schools three "nature exhibits" representing Winter, Spring, and Autumn. For these exhibits country friends have been urged to send in cornstalks, showing both ear and roots; strawberry plants, showing both blossom and fruit; branches of fruit trees bearing fruit, &c., that the children might have an opportunity to see the manner of growth of the various fruits and vegetables. To these rather pathetic and necessarily faded exhibits thousands of our public school children, from widely scattered schools, have been brought by their teachers.

Why should not our city maintain a living exhibit of farm life and garden products in the shape of a little farm in Central Park, to which the teachers might take their classes for nature study and where the children of the tenements could have the pleasure of seeing the milking of a cow and watching a mother hen with her brood of chicks?

On the west side of the park, just above Sixty-fifth Street, there is a small plot of land, about two acres, which, on account of its sheltered and inconspicuous location, has occasionally been used for heeling-in shrubs and trees and for temporary hot beds or cold frames. This plot seems admirably adapted for a tiny model farm, both on account of its southern slope and from the fact that the little farm buildings would there be an added attraction and would not interfere in any way with the landscape beauty of the park.

E. Burnett, the well-known architect and specialist in the planning of both model and practical farms, has drawn up a tentative set of plans for this site, and money has been promised for the necessary buildings. The plan provides for a tiny farmer's cottage with a dairy, a vegetable garden, borders of old-fashioned flowers and an orchard of dwarf fruit trees, and accommodations are provided for two cows, about twenty chickens, and a family of pigs. The buildings are so planned that the milking and the making of butter, &c., may be watched through large "observation windows" on the north side of the buildings. The whole plan has been so arranged that it is hoped it may form, in the minds of our tenement people, an ideal picture of country life.

Crowded Brooklyn Cars.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

While the general use in Brooklyn of the old-fashioned open cars with their painfully high running boards—one of the causes of growing antipathy to their continued use—offers a wide scope for adverse comment owing to the trying conditions to which riders therein are so frequently subjected, the writer invites attention to a most reprehensible practice for which the traction company is primarily responsible. When all the seats of these cars are filled, five persons of even less than ordinary build taxing each bench to its utmost seating capacity, men and women standees are not only permitted, but encouraged by the traction company to board these already uncomfortably crowded cars and get into the narrow spaces between the seated passengers and the backs of the seats. Thus, they not only more or less cut off air, light, and view, but subject the seated passengers before and against whom they stand to such other offensive features as such situations may entail. Then, when the men or women, perhaps those passengers who have been seated at the inner ends of the benches, rise to get out, other vexations arise owing to the reluctance manifested by the lines of standees to step out of the car in order to permit the exit therefrom of said riders.

SUPPORTS GOV. SULZER.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Charles E. Hughes, a Republican Governor, recognized that, whatever the theoretical claims that if the people were sufficiently devoted to politics they could work their will through a delegate system for the choice of candidates, as a fact the securing of continued and concerted popular action was so difficult that the bosses could scarcely be dislodged for long without direct primaries. The people supported him. While the Legislature, controlled by bi-partisan bosses equally hostile to a measure jeopardizing their control, repeatedly balked him, the parties were forced to make platform declarations for direct primaries. The Democratic platform declares for State-wide direct primaries; the Progressive for a direct primary law applicable to every elective office. Gov. Sulzer took up the fight for the people boldly, preparatory to the present special session of the Legislature.

Gov. Sulzer very properly vetoed the Blauvelt bill, which made relatively unimportant changes in the existing law and hence tends to bring direct primaries into discredit. The bill advocated by Gov. Sulzer has two main features:

First—It secures the choice of State candidates and of candidates for United States Senator by direct primaries. While conditions would be better if the principle of the short ballot had been applied in this State so that the Governor should have much of the power of a President in choosing his Cabinet, State conventions have proved too large for real deliberative action and have fallen a ready prey to the boss. A condition, not a theory, confronts us. Senator Murtaugh fears that the cities will control the choice in direct primaries. It is certain that they control such choice now. It is very easy for Mr. Murphy to vote New York City solidly in a convention; it is absolutely impossible for him to deliver more than a small fraction of the voters of that city for a machine candidate against a proposed Governor or United States Senator who is a real advocate of the people's rights. Assemblyman Elsner shows that in many States where direct primaries are in force no city monopoly of offices results, but that in the past frequently New York, Brooklyn, Buffalo and a few of the large cities have divided the State slate. Geographical considerations are of slight weight, in any event, if we can get men who will fight the battle for the people.

Second—Designation by party committees and use of party funds and party emblem on primary ballots have worked badly and are done away with. The party designation has made inevitable the complete solidification of the machine vote. Independent candidacy has approximated to party treason. This, with the advantage of the party emblem and the use of party funds for the organization candidate, has reduced the present statute almost to a farce.

The ordinary voter can scarcely know what the most respectable and honest delegate will do in the choice of party candidates; his individual action without a compact and State-wide organization is futile. To cement such an organization with principle and a desire for the public welfare instead of position and selfish advantage requires united and prolonged expenditure of time and money. The new freedom demands the adoption of machinery enabling the people to control the bosses and the invisible Government whose creatures they frequently are. Those who believe in the rule of the people should rally to the support of Gov. Sulzer in this energetic fight.

SHAVING AND BALDNESS.

Does Iconography Establish a Causal Connection?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Whether Mr. J. Gardner's theory about baldness is true I have no idea. At any rate, it seems logical. But is he not wrong about his iconography? Or am I wrong in thinking that the ringletted beards, which we can see in the reliefs of Assur-bani-pal and his court hunting the wild ass, were false beards worn over shaven faces?

At all events, judging from his bust, Julius Caesar must have shaved. And was he bald? And were not the Antonines, who wore beards, furnished with fine "suits" of hair? In this the iconography supports Mr. Gardner. If he is right, we shall have the choice of hair all over our heads or no hair on them. First, however, let us discover whether the Germans that keep their pates clipped have less than a normal growth of beard.

LOUIS HOW.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the matter of baldness, Mr. J. Gardner's theory is ingenious, but how does he account for the fact that many old men who have shaved every day since their youth have fine crops of hair? I know a conductor on a New Haven local train who has a most luxuriant crop of whiskers, which would make Santa Claus turn green with envy. Alas! his pate is as bald as a billiard ball.

Farmers have such thick and strong hair that when they drift into the village to have it cut two or three times a year the country barber goes at his work his heart filled with despair. Yet these farmers shave, too. Perhaps their out-of-door life, in contrast with the life of the average city man, has something to do with the matter of baldness.

Not Dr. MacDonald.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a recent editorial article in THE TIMES anent the case of Porter Charlton, who murdered his wife and sank her body in Lake Como, Italy, in June, 1910, and fled to this country pleading "brain storm" as his defense, it was stated that "Dr. Carlos MacDonald, who interested himself in Charlton's case, has since supported this plea." This is a case of mistaken identity as I have never been connected either directly or indirectly with Charlton's case or expressed any opinion thereon. Moreover, I have never subscribed to or supported that absurd "brain storm" theory in any case. So-called "brain storm" is an ancient and groundless term in psychiatry which unfortunately has been revived in recent years and accepted by the laity as a reality. This term will doubtless soon find its proper place in the scrap heap of psychiatry together with those of "emotional insanity," "mania transitoria," "moral insanity," id genus omne—terms which were invented by speculative experts and utilized by a certain class of lawyers to shield criminals from the consequences of their acts.

CARLOS F. MACDONALD, M. D.

New York, June 19, 1913.

We deeply regret our inadvertent ascription to Dr. MacDonald. It was Dr. Allan McLane Hamilton, whose letter on this subject appeared in THE TIMES of Dec. 29 last, who supported the theory of "emotional insanity" in Charlton's case.—Editor.

Crotona Park's Mosquito Pond.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The subject of my letter is a small pond, much better termed a mud hole, situated in the centre of Crotona Park. Its stagnating rain water and leaves, held from year to year, supply the vicinity with a variety of odors and all Bronx with a nursery for her overabundant supply of mosquitos. Were it private property it would long since have been supplied with a proper outlet and with flowing water, or filled in, or, at least, covered with oil. But as public property it has a privileged existence, and we can hardly hope that it will be otherwise.

JURIST INVITES PRESS AID.

McPherson Pleads for Closer Relation of Bench and Sanctum.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., June 19.—"No Judge has ever yet maintained his dignity and never will by bringing an editor before the court and punishing him because of animadversions made through the columns of the newspaper.

"It would be helpful to the courts if editors of learning and character would in a dignified and intelligent manner discuss the rulings of the courts, whether by commendation or whether by advance criticisms."

These statements were made by Judge Smith McPherson of the United States Court of the Southern District of Iowa, in a paper which was read before the National Press Association to-day. Judge McPherson did not attend the meeting of the association. In his paper, which was entitled "Liberty of the Press," he discussed the relations that should exist between the courts and newspapers.

"Intelligent criticism is invited," said Judge McPherson. "Slang and vituperation are despised by the Judge. Substantial, honest, and matured criticism is of great aid to the courts. Criticism at random tends to make a Judge careless. Criticism of newspapers should be of a kind that the editor would use in conversation with the Judge. Then there would be no bitterness, but a useful exchange of views. Let editors and writers be gentlemanly toward the Judges. And let Judges have a due regard to the freedom of the press. The public will then be the beneficiaries.

"The freedom of the press will ever exist, and rightly so. No one believes in this more than do the courts. When a court in Washington City, backed by strong pressure and great power, sought to drag a New York City and an Indianapolis editor to Washington City, because of editorials with reference to the Panama Canal, it was the courts that stamped it as an outrage, and decreed that such oppression could not exist in a free country. The literature found in the published reports of the courts show that the newspapers, their editors and publishers, will not plead in vain for protection by the courts.

"I have but little to say about the scandal mongers and the so-called 'yellow journals.' They are outlaws, and are entirely beyond the pale of respect by the courts and decent citizens generally. We Judges have no remedy as against them. It is idle to talk about bringing actions, either civil or criminal, for libel, because such actions are expensive, and usually ludicrous if not farcical. Most newspapers, like most men, are sincere as to their utterances. Their unfair criticisms come from lack of information. They are too impatient to strike.

"A great many Judges seemingly believe that because they wear the robes of office they are and should be beyond criticism. That is fallacy. I believe as much as does any one in maintaining the dignity of the courts, and that the people should have respect for the courts. But a Judge must command respect in some other way than by making this argument. He cannot command respect by becoming a recluse, nor by wearing a silk hat or a morning frock coat, or a white tie, or by speaking in guttural tones of voice.

"It is the duty of all, including newspapers, to be respectful to the courts and of aid to the courts in a decorous administration of public justice. But it is idle to talk to the effect that courts in their procedure are not subject to criticism. We talk about the science of law. It is a science, but an inexact science. For instance, the Supreme Court of the United States, with reference to the monopoly created by patents and the sale of patented articles under such monopoly, has within one year handed down two decisions, the results being opposite holdings, owing to the different make-up of the courts.

"The one weakness of the newspapers lies in the fact that too many newspapers predetermine a fixed policy of such papers, and determine in advance whether the holding of the courts, if one way or the other, shall be commended or disapproved, and then the matter is taken up by some editorial writer whose name is not known to the public."

DECREE IN A TITANIC CASE.

Judge Holt Dismisses Limitation Petition Affecting Two Claims.

Judge Holt signed, in the Federal District Court, yesterday, the final decree in the petition of the Oceanic Steam Navigation Company, Limited, (the White Star Line,) for limitation of liability for damages arising from the loss of the Titanic, in so far as it affects William J. Mellor and Harry Anderson, the two claimants who filed exceptions. These exceptions were taken as a test of the law, and though the decision of the court dismissing the petition for liability technically affects only them, practically it will, it is believed, affect the great mass of claimants.

In its opinion handed down some weeks ago on the Mellor and Anderson exceptions the court held that the American law of liability, which would have limited the damages to be paid by the White Star Line to about $96,000, did not apply, but suggested that the British law, which would put the damages at about $3,000,000, might be held to apply, if the White Star Line set up the claim that it did. The White Star Line did not do so, and so the decree was signed dismissing, as far as Mellor and Anderson are concerned, all the limitation proceedings.

This means that any other claimant may now file similar exceptions to the limitation proceedings, relying on Judge Holt's decision. If the claimants have begun suits for damages in other courts than the Federal court they will, it is believed, at once file exceptions. On the other hand, if they have not begun those suits and now by excepting have the limitation proceedings dismissed as far as they are affected, they will find that they have lost their rights to sue for damages on account of death claims. The year in which they are entitled, under Lord Campbell's act, to start a death claim suit is expired, and they would have no recourse left open to them.

The only hope of this class of persons, it was explained yesterday, is to permit the limitation of liability proceedings, as far as they affect them, to continue, in the hope that the court may be willing in adjudicating the amount of the company's liability also to direct what share the claimants are to receive under it.

In dismissing the petition of the White Star Line as far as Mellor and Anderson are concerned the court gave the line twenty days in which to appeal and ordered the injunction against the prosecution of the suits for damages to hold good till twenty days after the decision of the appeal. It was also ordered that the White Star Line, in making an appeal, must stipulate that any evidence taken in the proceeding may be used by either side in other similar suits.

Moreover, if the White Star Line appeals it must give a bond for the payment to the exceptants of any damages they may incur through being enjoined against pressing their suits until the appeal has been finally decided.

NO PURE FOOD GUARANTEE.

Label Gives No Real Assurance of Purity, Says Dr. Alsberg.

MOBILE, June 19.—The words "Guaranteed under the food and drugs act" on a label are no assurance that the contents of a package are pure, according to Dr. Carl L. Alsberg, chief of the Bureau of Chemistry, who addressed the Association of American Food, Dairy, and Drug Officials. Dr. Alsberg made an appeal for closer co-operation between Federal and State authorities for the enforcement of uniform pure food laws.

Dr. Alsberg explained that the word "guaranteed" on a can of soup or on a bottle of nerve tonic did not mean that the Bureau of Chemistry had seen and analyzed it, but that the manufacturers put it on with the idea of protecting the jobber or retailer. "All that the guarantee legend does," he said, "is to make it possible to prosecute the manufacturer if the goods are found to be in violation of the food and drugs act."

LIGHT INSISTED UPON IN NEW COURTHOUSE

Justices Say That Old Tweed Building Is Better Than Circular Plan.

LOWELL CITES THE FRENCH

And the Justices Refuse to Pay Attention to the Way Schoolhouses There Are Built.

The chief objection of the Supreme Court Justices to the circular design for a Court House, it was learned yesterday, lies in the impossibility of providing a building of such a shape with rooms with windows on more than one side. Guy Lowell, the architect, quoted to the Justices authorities of the highest standing from both the professional and the scientific point of view in favor of his design, but the Justices also consulted experts and say they came to their decision from their personal experience of courtrooms and their necessities.

The Court House Board quoted as its authorities for the approval of the Lowell design three architects of eminence not connected with this city. R. S. Peabody is at the head of his profession in Boston. A former student of the Ecole des Beaux Arts in Paris, he has been President of the American Institute of Architects and of the Boston Society of Architects. He also is a member of the National Institute of Arts and Letters. J. L. Mauran is an architect equally well known in St. Louis, and Frank Miles Day is a fellow and past President of the American Institute of Architects and has been Acting President of the American Academy in Rome and a lecturer on architectural design at Harvard.

Walter S. Cook, the consulting architect of the Court House Board, who also approved Mr. Lowell's design, is a graduate of the Ecole des Beaux Arts. He is President of the American Institute of Architects, an associate of the National Academy of Design, and also has served as President of the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, and of the Society des Beaux Arts, and has been on the Municipal Art Commission.

In relation to the ventilation of the Court House by means of the much-criticised annular court, the Court House Board had the opinion of eminent engineering authorities, who said that under all conditions there would be no lack of air in the courtroom.

The Justices also consulted authorities, but they are not prepared to make public their names. Some of them, it is understood, took part in the competition for the Court House design, but whatever bias their rivalry with Mr. Lowell may have imparted to their advice was allowed for in considering it, it was said yesterday. The Justices, in fact, were quite ready to object to Mr. Lowell's circular plan in the light of their own experience.

Bad as the old Tweed Court House is, it still possesses a few good rooms. In the wing which was built as an addition, immediately facing the back door of the City Hall, in particular, it has been possible to provide courtrooms with windows on three sides, and so light and airy is one of the rooms that, with its arched roof, it suggests a Summer garden rather than a courtroom. There are also in the old Court House a number of courtrooms on the corners with windows on two sides.

It is reckoned that only about half the courtrooms are lighted from one side only, and the Justices know that every one of them prefers to get a room with the light coming in from more than one side. Mr. Lowell quoted to them the law for the construction of schoolhouses as laid down in France, in which, as a result of scientific study, it is provided that as long as the windows are large enough and bear a certain proportion to the area of the rooms, no classroom is to be lighted from more than one side.

But the Justices held that they were not in any way concerned with what the French legislators might say. Their daily experience was, in their opinion, of more importance than the theories of scientists, and they complained that here was a monumental building to be erected without any possibility of its containing a single room with two sides provided with windows. So from the first they were opposed to the circular idea.

How far the modifications now suggested by Mr. Lowell will meet this objection, no one was able to say yesterday. It is probable that when the Court House Board meets on next Tuesday some arrangements will be made by whiich the Justices and the Court House Board can get together and discuss these objections. Mr. Lowell believes that he can provide light on the inner sides of his courtrooms by comparatively small windows opening out near the ceiling on the interior court, and he may be able to show the Justices that this will meet all their desires.

The Justices recognize that there are many great merits in Mr. Lowell's plan, but they also have some criticisms which they did not embody in their report. This was drawn up by the Committee of Justices after a discussion with Mr. Lowell, Mr. Cook, Borough President McAneny, and their own experts, after the Justices had gone as fully as they could into the plan submitted to them. One of them said yesterday that it was a somewhat remarkable thing that when the roll of the Justices was called, independent as they are always supposed to be in their thought and action, every one of the twenty-four present refused to indorse the Court House Board's plan.

THEY WAR ON USURY.

Federation of Remedial Loan Associations Convenes Here.

The fifth annual convention of the National Federation of Remedial Loan Associations brought together at the Hotel McAlpin yesterday about twenty-five delegates from different parts of the country. The purpose of the federation is to combat the loan shark evil, and the delegates who assembled yesterday were mostly Presidents or Managers of remedial loan associations in various cities. These represent thirty-three societies, with a combined capital of $11,000,000. The New York members of the federation are the Provident Loan Society, St. Bartholomew's Loan Association, and the Chattel Loan Society.

W. N. Finley of Baltimore, Chairman of the federation, told that in the City of Baltimore, during the last year, not one case of usury by pawnbrokers had been called to the attention of the Legal Aid Society of that city. The report of A. H. Ham, Director of the Russell Sage Foundation and Chairman of the Executive Committee, dealt at some length with the bill which was rushed through the New York Legislature in the last week of its regular session and which repealed the imprisonment penalty for usury and created a State Supervisor of small loan societies. Mr. Ham said that an attempt would be made to have this law repealed during the present special session of the Legislature.

"The past year," reported Mr. Ham, "has been marked by an unusual amount of activity as regards legislation. About sixty bills affecting the business of small loans were introduced in twenty-four States. The problem has been to secure the passage of laws under which remedial loan societies may be organized, which permit honest capital to embark in the business on a fair profit-making basis, under regulation and control, and which provide adequate penalties for all who attempt to operate in defiance of the law.

"Of the bills introduced seventeen contained a majority of the provisions which we deemed essential to adequate legislation, and in seven States, namely, in Oregon, Colorado, Missouri, Minnesota, Indiana, and Pennsylvania, measurably satisfactory laws were enacted. Many usurious lenders have been convicted, and the courts have shown a disposition to deal out heavy fines and substantial prison sentences. Unfortunately, the persons convicted have in many cases been the agents and not the real proprietors."

Papers were read by R. M. Rutherford of Louisville, Ky.; Charles H. Brown of Buffalo, N. Y.; R. R. Stevens of New York City, and A. L. Whitmer of Sioux City, Iowa. The convention will be continued to-day and to-morrow.

IMPERATOR MINDS HELM LIKE A YACHT

Cheered by Thousands Afloat and Ashore, She Gracefully Swims Into Her Berth.

FITTED UP LIKE A PALACE

Carried 4,280 Persons on Her Maiden Voyage and Avoided Icebergs by a Southerly Course.

The largest ship afloat, the 50,000-ton Imperator, steamed majestically up the harbor from Quarantine yesterday forenoon to her pier in Hoboken and docked with the aid of eleven tugs and her own powerful propellers in forty-five minutes.

From the time she hove anchor at 9:20 A. M. until her pier was reached at 11:12 the Imperator's progress was marked by volleys of cheers from passengers on ferryboats and sight-seeing yachts and by a succession of shrill blasts from every kind of craft in New York Harbor. She answered these salutes by blasts from her fore, main, and mizzen foghorns—respectively, base, baritone, and tenor. These re-echoed from the green-clad shores of Staten Island with musical cadence across the bay.

On the Battery sea wall between two to three thousand persons were waiting to wave their hats and cheer the new liner, and the crowd, with the tall skyscrapers in the background, formed a picturesque scene for the Imperator's passengers, who stood ninety feet above the water line with cameras and field glasses leveled at the shore.

Welcomers Line Jersey Shore.

Proceeding up the North River, the Imperator received salutes from the North German Lloyd steamship Berlin, then leaving for Bremen, and from the French Line steamship Touraine, on her way to Havre. Abreast of the Hamburg-American Line piers she met the Amerika, just starting for Hamburg. The bands on these two sister steamships played "America" and the "Wacht am Rhine" as the ensigns were dipped. The bright morning sun lit up the towering white superstructure of the Imperator, and also shone on the gold lace of Capt. Hans Ruser and his staff of four junior captains on the bridge. From the boat deck the passengers had a fine view of housetops crowded with sightseers in Hoboken. There were crowds as well on the piers along the Jersey water front and the ends of the streets abutting on the river.

It seemed as if every man, woman, and child in Hoboken had turned out to welcome the Imperator, and after she docked the congested state of the main dining saloon, which seats over 600 persons, suggested that most of them had come on board for luncheon.

Both in turning at Quarantine and at the pier head the Imperator moved very smoothly for such a massive ship, and she slipped into her dock, where the pier had been lengthened for her, without the slightest difficulty. The weather and river conditions were in her favor, as there was very little wind and the tide was slack high. She was light, too, and drew only 32 feet 6 inches forward, and 34 feet aft.

Carried 4,280 Persons.

The Imperator's total complement of passengers was 3,100 of all classes, with a crew of 1,180 officers and men. It was reported that the chief engineer had engaged fifty men from the steerage to work as coal trimmers on the way out, as the coal bunkers were so far away from the furnaces. This could not be confirmed, however, because the chief engineer was suffering from a mild attack of deafness when it was put to him, and neither the Commodore nor any of the four Captains apparently had any knowledge of the matter.

The Imperator covered the 3,153 miles from Cherbourg breakwater to the Ambrose Channel Lightship in six days, five hours and fourteen minutes, at an average speed of 21.13 knots an hour. Capt. Ruser said the weather had been either rough or foggy for practically the entire trip. The only day's run on which he could keep her at full speed was from Saturday noon to Sunday noon, when she made 556 miles. That was with only 40 of her 46 boilers making steam, he said, and added that he expected she would do much better later on.

"In the North Sea," said Capt. Ruser, "the Imperator did more than twenty-three knots an hour, and in turning at full speed, when I put the helm over twenty-five degrees, she came around in a circle of 2,275 feet in 7 minutes and 10 seconds. On Friday, Saturday, and Tuesday last we had fog and had to reduce speed for four hours each day. On Monday we had a southwest gale and a heavy sea. The ship behaved splendidly and did not show any appreciable motion."

Easy to Handle, Says Pilot.

Capt. J. F. Hopkins, the Sandy Hook pilot, who picked the Imperator up west of Fire Island on Wednesday night, said that the giant liner was so easy to handle that every movement could easily be anticipated by those in command on the bridge. "She docked so easily," he said, "that she could have almost docked herself."

Alexander M. Carlisle, former head of Harland & Wolff's, at Belfast, who designed the Olympic, the Adriatic, the Amerika, the Oceanic, and many other famous liners, was a passenger on the Imperator. In an interview he said:

"The ship surpasses any other I have seen on three points: The Ritz-Carlton restaurant, with its palm garden on the deck; the wonderful swimming bath, which is modeled after that of the Royal Automobile Club in London, and the ballroom, which is 150 feet by 60, and has a ceiling 18 feet high, and dome carried up by three external girders, a new departure in ship building."

Rear Admiral Herbert Winslow, U. S. N., retired, said that it had been a fine trip in a splendid ship. The opinions of the other passengers were of the same general nature. Apart from the programme of balls, games, and concerts interrupted by solos from the three foghorns at intervals, the voyage was without incident.

The Imperator did not encounter any ice, but a message was received on board from Capt. Haddock of the Olympic, who reported that he had sighter two small bergs. Capt. Ruser went thirty miles to the southward of his course in order not to take any risks.

Fitted Up Like a Palace.

The Ritz-Carlton restaurant and palm garden, which is managed by August Keller, formerly of the Carlton Hotels in London and New York, is a magnificent apartment furnished in Louis XV. period, with a high ceiling supported by green marble columns and lit by large bay windows opening on the promenade deck, so that guests can sit at a table and look out over the ocean as if they were at a seaside hotel. At the far end, in the palm garden, there is a fine painting of the palace and garden of King Frederick the Great at Sans Souci.

The ballroom is furnished in Louis XVI. period, with old rose color predominating and the walls decorated with four valuable pieces of Gobelin tapestry.

In all the public rooms the Imperator gives the idea of great height between the decks and enormous beam. Her exterior is imposing, but somewhat too stocky, perhaps, to the eye of the mariner. Her figurehead, a bronze eagle perched on a gilded globe, overhangs the prow nearly twenty feet.

The four Junior Captains of the Imperator are A. Hoefer, the navigating officer, who has charge of the watches; K. Heyer and K. Schetelig, who take turns at bridge duty, and H. von Meibom, who looks after the general efficiency and cleanliness of the ship and does not keep a watch on the bridge but stays on deck all day.

Among the Government and city officials who went down the bay yesterday morning to meet the Imperator in Quarantine and travel on her to the Hamburg-American Line pier, in Hoboken, were John Purroy Mitchel, the Collector of the Port, who went on the United States revenue cutter Calumet, accompanied by Special Deputy Collector H. C. Stuart and Deputy Collector John Castray Williams, and Dock Commissioner R. A. C. Smith, who went on one of the department tugs, accompanied by Col. William C. Black and Col. William T. Rossell of the New York Harbor Board of United States Army Engineers. Vincent Astor in his yacht Noma, with a party of friends, went alongside the Imperator while she was lying at anchor off the Quarantine station.

Dr. Karl Buenz, General Representative of the Hamburg-American Line in America, gave a dinner to fifteen covers last night at the Plaza Hotel to Capt. Ruser of the Imperator, who is the Commodore of the company's fleet. Among those present were Julius P. Meyer, General Passenger Manager; W. G. Sickel, also a manager of the Hamburg-American Company; Capts. K. Scheteling and M. Maibohm of the Imperator, and others. There were no speeches.

MISS KIERAN A BRIDE.

She Is Married to Paul Reilly by the Rev. F. X. Kelly.

Miss Helen Margaret Kieran, eldest daughter of Prof. James M. Kieran of the Normal College, was married yesterday at St. John's Church, Kingsbridge, by the Rev. Francis X. Kelly to Paul Reilly, son of the late Eugene Reilly of Pittsburgh. Only the immediate relatives of the bride and bridegroom were present.

The only bridesmaid was Miss Katherine Kieran, sister of the bride, and the best man was John F. Kieran, the bride's brother. After the ceremony there was an informal reception at Prof. Kieran's house in Kingsbridge Terrace.

Mr. and Mrs. Reilly will spend their honeymoon in Bermuda, while Prof. and Mrs. Kieran will sail shortly for a year's tour in Europe.

She Becomes the Bride of George Hunter Clay at Setauket.

The wedding of Miss Amelia Shepard Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Floyd Jones, to George Hunter Clay of this city took place at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon in Caroline Church, Setauket, L. I., and was followed by a reception at The Maples, the country home of the bride's parents. The Rev. John H. Greene officiated.

The bride was attended by her cousin, Mrs. Harvey Klapp Lines, who acted as matron of honor. Mrs. Lines's little twin daughters, the Misses Eleanor Milnor Lines and Anna Evans Lines, were the flower girls. Edward Merrill was best man for Mr. Clay, and the ushers were Edward Gornam, Henry Patterson, Lester Jayne, and Dr. Webster.

After a short trip Mr. Clay and his bride will spend the Summer at Setauket, L. I.

MISS DRUMMOND WEDS.

She Marries William J. Pedrick, Jr., and Goes South on a Trip.

The marriage of William J. Pedrick, Jr., and Miss Loretta Drummond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Drummond of 102 West Seventy-fifth Street, took place on Wednesday evening in the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, Seventy-second Street and Broadway. The Rev. Father Daniel Fant, a fellow-student of Mr. Pedrick, officiated.

Miss Helen Loretta Ward was the bride's only attendant. A dinner and informal reception for a few friends was held at the St. Regis. Owing to the illness of the bride's mother the wedding was a quiet one.

Mr. and Mrs. Pedrick have gone South, and will spend their honeymoon at Virginia Beach.

Kinemacolor views of the Imperator were taken yesterday morning when the liner arrived and were exhibited last night in the Proctor Theatres.

MISS HANNAH WEDS J. NORRISH THORNE

The Ceremony Is Performed at the Church of the Heavenly Rest by Rev. Dr. Shipman.

FLOWERS ADORN CHANCEL

Peonies Used Freely in the Decorations—Miles Carrington Hannah Gives Away the Bride.

The wedding of J. Norrish Thorne, a son of Gilbert G. Thorne, and Miss Zoë Hannah, the daughter of Mrs. John Hannah, was celebrated yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Fifth Avenue and Forty-fifth Street, the Rev. Herbert Shipman officiating.

The church was decorated with peonies, palms, and oak leaves. Tall palms and garlands of oak leaves, suspended from the chandeliers and pillars, screened the wings of the church from the main aisles, and at every sixth pew along the nave were tall standards wound with smilax, at the top of which flowered immense clusters of white peonies and feathery white flowers. The altar was banked with peonies and foliage.

The bride, who walked with her brother, Miles Carrington Hannah, who gave her in marriage, wore a white satin gown with a draped skirt, revealing an under dress of white chiffon and satin held with chains of pearls and orange blossoms. The bodice had its top entirely of white tulle laid flat, the long tulle sleeves coming to the hands. There was a wide hip girdle of satin, and the train, suspended midway between the shoulders and the waist line, was of white crêpe de chine. Miss Hannah's tulle veil was held with orange blossoms. She carried a prayer book, from which trailed long sprays of orange blossoms on white ribbons.

The maid of honor and only attendant was Miss Elizabeth Duryee, a daughter of Dr. Joseph R. Duryee, and a niece of Benson Sloan, who married Miss Mary Sloane in Munich a few days since. Miss Duryee wore an orchid costume. The foundation was of orchid pink charmeuse, and was veiled with the thinnest of mauve and pale blue chiffon and tulle.

Mr. Thorne's best man was William G. Holloway, and the ushers were Alden S. Blodget, who married Miss Frances Thorne in May; Henry B. Stimson, and Henry S. Knoblauch, all of New York; Clarence Stetson and Louis Weselhoeft of Boston, and Deutro Plumb of St. Louis.

The ceremony was followed by a small reception at the residence of the bride's mother, 471 Park Avenue.

Among those invited to the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Delafield, Gilbert G. Thorne, Miss Thorne, Mrs. Alden S. Blodget, Miss Alice Thorne, Miss Norrish, Mrs. Henry S. Knoblauch, Mrs. James H. Thorne, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Hopkins, W. T. Carrington, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Arkley King, the Princess Lwoff Parlaghy, Mr. and Mrs. Harold de Raasloff, S. Montgomery Roosevelt, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Van Amringe, Mrs. Henry B. Stimson, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Black, the Misses Frances Burr, Emily Coe, Mildred Dodge, Florence and Agnes Gayley, Margery Hamilton Clinton, Emmet, Wardwell, Weir, Allen, Key, Chapin, Arnold, Scoville, Nancy Brown, Porter, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ryerson and Mr. and Mrs. Gates W. McGarrah.

BOSKEY—LAUTERSTEIN.

The Bridegroom Was National Secretary of Delta Sigma Phi.

The marriage of Miss Janet Lauterstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lauterstein, to Meyer Boskey was celebrated yesterday at noon at the home of the bride's parents, 3,675 Broadway, the Rev. Dr. Margolies officiating.

The bride, who wore a gown of white satin, draped with point lace, and a lace veil, was attended by her sister, Miss Ted Lauterstein, who was in white lace over pink. Dr. Sidney Cohn was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Boskey will make a tour of the Great Lakes and Canada and will go to Far Rockaway on their return.

Mr. Boskey is a graduate of the College of the City of New York and of the Law School of St. Lawrence University and has been the National Secretary of the Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity for a number of years. His father was formerly Mayor of Northumberland, Penn.

MISS VERLAGE MARRIES.

She Weds Dr. M. L. Hamlin, Son of Prof. A. D. F. Hamlin of Columbia.

The marriage of Miss Charlotte Cecile Marie Verlage, daughter of Mrs. Josephine Verlage, to Dr. Marston Lovell Hamlin, a son of Prof. A. D. F. Hamlin of Columbia University, took place yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's mother, 201 West Seventy-ninth Street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles Anderson, D. D., of Robert College, Constantinople, Turkey.

The bride wore a gown of white satin trimmed with antique lace and carried a bouquet of whie roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor was Miss Natalie Stewart, and Talbot F. Hamlin, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man. The ushers were Charles Niles and William Haller. The bridesmaids were the Misses Louise and Genevieve Hamlin, sisters of the bridegroom; Miss Watson of New York, and Miss Pilliard of Toledo, Ohio.

Dr. and Mrs. Hamlin will live at 316 Woodworth Avenue, Yonkers.

At the St. Regis She Marries Dr. Lee S. Shoninger.

The marriage of Miss Edythe M. Stern, daughter of Mrs. Mathilde Stern, of 59 West Ninety-first Street, to Dr. Lee S. Shoninger took place last evening at the St. Regis at 7 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. F. Schumann in the Louis XVI. reception room under a bridal canopy of palms, white daisies, and American Beauty roses.

The bride wore a white satin gown, trimmed with pearls and old point lace. Her tulle veil was caught up with a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and orchids. She was attended by Mrs. Albert Johnson as matron of honor and Miss Florence Stern, her sister, as maid of honor. They wore white satin with a lace bodice and emerald green shoes and stockings, and carried American Beauty roses. Benjamin Stear of New Haven, Conn., acted as best man.

After the ceremony a dinner for eighty-five guests was served in the marble banquet room.

Miss Horwitz Will Wed on June 29.

The marriage of Miss Hulda Horwitz of 145 West Eighty-second Street to Willard Lawrence Myers is to take place on Sunday evening, June 29, at the Hotel Marseilles. Dr. Musey of the Ethical Culture Society will officiate. The couple expect to spend their honeymoon in Europe.

Miss Letcher Marries H. J. Ward.

The marriage is announced of Miss Marion H. Letcher, daughter of Mrs. George Brown Letcher of Lexington, Ky., to Horatio J. Ward of this city, formerly of Louisville, Ky., which took place on June 13 in St. Bartholomew's Church, the Rev. Sidney Ussher officiating. Miss Elizabeth Letcher was maid of honor for her sister, and Marshall E. Ward best man for his brother. The couple spent their honeymoon in the Adirondacks, and returned to the city yesterday. They will reside at 104 East Fortieth Street, but will go to Europe late in the season.

MRS. PORTER TO WED AGAIN

Twice a Widow, She Will Now Marry Warren C. Van Slyke.

The engagement has just been announced of Mrs. Ruth Alice Halliwell Porter to Warren Clark Van Slyke, a well-known lawyer of this city, who lives at 223 East Seventeenth Street. Mrs. Porter has made her home at the Hotel Gotham since the death of her husband, William Porter, a Stock Exchange broker, as the result of an automobile accident in May, 1911.

This is the third romance in Mrs. Porter's life. In 1906, as Miss Ruth Alice Cole, a trained nurse, she was summoned to the bedside of Charles E. Halliwell, First Vice President of the American Tobacco Company, who had just undergone a serious operation at his apartments in the Hotel Majestic. Under her skillful care he recovered, and later he saw much of her at the New Rochelle home of his married daughter, Mrs. Holland Duell, with whom Miss Cole became very friendly.

Mr. Halliwell and Miss Cole were married on Oct. 4, 1906, in All Angels' Church, and went to live at the Holland House, where, in May, 1907, Mr. Halliwell was stricken with apoplexy while entertaining a party of friends at dinner. He died shortly afterward, and when his will was read it was found that he had left nearly $5,000,000. Of this his widow received one-quarter in trust, one-half was bequeathed outright to his daughter, Mrs. Duell, and the other quarter, in trust, was left to his only son, Walter S. Halliwell, of New Canaan, Conn.

Mr. Porter, one of Mr. Halliwell's most intimate friends, married his widow two years later, in February, 1909, at the Plaza Hotel. He was general manager of the sales department of the American Tobacco Company and later became a member of the Stock Exchange firm of Perkins, Erickson & Co.

On May 25, 1911, while Mrs. Porter was on her way home from Europe, he was returning to the Plaza from his country place in the Ramapo Hills with three Wall Street friends, when the chauffeur of his machine, in trying to avoid a collision on the road, turned the machine from the roadway into the grass. It overturned, pinning Mr. Porter beneath it. He was removed to the General Hospital at Paterson, N. J., where he died from his injuries.

ABRAHAM L. ENGLISH DEAD.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 19.—Abraham L. English, former Director of Public Safety of the city and a well-known politician, died to-day in St. Mary's Hospital of heart failure after an operation for appendicitis.

Born in 1864, Mr. English became an assistant in the office of William H. Ashbridge, then a Coroner. When Mr. Ashbridge became Mayor he made Mr. English Director of Public Safety at $10,000 a year. Mr. English in 1900 married Miss Maria Beggs of New York, who divorced him two years later. In 1908 he married Miss Louise Locke, who survives him.

Mr. English was a yachting enthusiast and was well known in boating circles of the East.

Dr. Frank Hartley.

Frank Hartley, a physician, died yesterday at his home, 61 West Forty-ninth Street, aged 56. He was born in Washington, D. C., June 10, 1857, and was graduated from Princeton University in 1877. He was married to Emma Allyce Parker. He was a visiting physician to several Manahattan hospitals and wrote on medical subjects. He was a member of the County Medical and Southern Societies and the University and New York Athletic Clubs.

Townsend Daniel Cock.

Townsend Daniel Cock, a former State Senator and for many years President of the Oyster Bay Bank, of which he was one of the founders, died yesterday in Locust Valley, L. I. Mr. Cock's ancesters settled in Locust Valley in 1682, and he was born there in 1838. In 1858 he married Miss Jane Deal Latting of Lattingtown, L. I., a descendant of the early settlers. In addition to his political and business duties, Mr. Cock found time to engage in editorial work. His wife survives him.

Mrs. Regina Bierman.

Mrs. Regina Bierman, 86 years old, widow of Isaac Bierman, died on Wednesday night at the home of William E. Wolff at Elberon, N. J. Both Mr. and Mrs. Bierman were closely identified with the Hebrew Charities of this city, and Mrs. Bierman was especially interested in the Beth-El Sisterhood and the Home for Aged and Infirm Hebrews.

Mrs. Dora Miller.

Mrs. Dora Miller, who died on Wednesday, after a protracted illness, at her home, 35 Mount Morris Park West, was the widow of Nathan Miller. She was in her seventy-fifth year, and is survived by two daughters, Miss Caroline Frances Miller and Mrs. Isidor Haldenstein.

Obituary Notes.

GIANTS MAKE IT FOUR STRAIGHT

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 19.—Mathewson proved a stone wall against the local in the pinches and New York cleaned up on the series by taking to-day's game from the Reds by the score of 8 to 7. The locals out-hit their opponents, 12 to 8. Mathewson, however, kept them scattered, except in the eighth, when the Reds got to him for four hits, which, coupled with an error, gave them four runs.

New York scored their runs in two innings. Opportune hitting in both the second and eighth gave them four runs in each session and the game. When Benton had been relieved by Suggs in the eighth, New York had scored half of their hits and runs, and the relief allowed the remainder.

Snodgrass got one of the eighth hits, and, coming when it did, with the bases full, did a lot of damage. With Doyle down in the second, Merkle uncorked a single into right. Murray could not get out of the way of a real fast one and strolled down to first. Meyers waited for four wide balls and filled the bases. Without waiting to see what Benton had on the ball, Snodgrass strolled to the plate, and smashed the first one pitched for a triple over Devore's head in centre, Merkle, Murray, and Meyers scampering across with the first tallies of the game. Mathewson grounded out, the Giant left fielder scoring on the play. Burns retired the side by flying out to Devore.

Honors were about even in the sessions that followed until the fifth, each side getting an occasional hit. In the fifth the locals broke into the run column when they managed to get to Mathewson for two hits and a base on balls, which netted them two runs. Right back in the seventh they came for another tally, when two more hits netted them the lone score.

The Giants faced Suggs in the eighth, and before they had been retired they had piled up another quartet of runs, which enabled them to carry off the day's honors. Matty, first man up, greeted Suggs's offering with a single to right. Burns did the same trick. with a view to advancing the runners a base each, Shafer laid down a bunt and beat it out. With the bases full Fletcher hit past Dodge at third for a single, on which Matty and Burns scored. Shafer was caught off second. Doyle stole second, after forcing Fletcher. Merkle walked. Successive wild throws let in both Merkle and Doyle. Groh threw out Murray.

The eighth proved the worst inning for Big Six. Four hits, two of them by substitute batters, and an error giving the locals four runs. With one out and a man on first, a fast double play, when Clarke hit to Shafer, wound things up for the locals, and incidentally ended the scoring for the day. The score:

Phillies Take Final Game.

CHICAGO, June 19.—Philadelphia won the final game of the series from Chicago to-day, 2 to 1, and pulled the locals down into fourth place, as the Brooklyn team defeated St. Louis and moved up a notch. Grover Alexander was opposed by Lavender, and both gave an excellent exhibition of control. Chicago was saved a shutout when Manager Evers sent Wilbur Good, utility outfielder, to bat for Lavender, and he clouted the ball to the left field fence for a home run. Heine Zimmerman, third baseman for Chicago, to whom was handed one-half of a $100 bill from a "fan" who has promised the other half of the bill if the player can be good while playing, performed very calmly. He said he was determined to get the rest of the money. Outfielder Becker got into an argument with Umpire Orth when he was running down to second and was chased to the clubhouse. The score:

BROOKLYN WINS AGAIN.

Superbas Pound St. Louis Pitchers Hard and Win, 11 to 5.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 19.—Brooklyn, by pounding two St. Louis pitchers hard and timely to-day, won the final game and made a clean sweep of the series. The score was 11 to 5. Marbet, a recruit, started pitching for St. Louis and lasted one and a third innings, in which time the visitors made eight hits count for five runs. Bunched hits in the third, fourth, and fifth innings gave the home team its runs. Manager Huggins was banished for disputing a decision by Umpire Byron. The score:

YANKEES WIN BY HEAVY BATTING

Get Fifteen Hits Off Two St. Louis Pitchers—Five for Ed Sweeney.

The Yankees had a batting carnival at the expense of the St. Louis Browns at the Polo Grounds yesterday, and the final game of the first New York invasion by the Western clubs resulted in an easy victory for the Chance men by the score of 10 to 4. Another belated rally in the last two innings, such as was uncovered in Wednesday's game against the Missourians, again ended all doubts about the outcome, seven Yankees being chased home in their last two turns with the stick.

Hits began to fly from the Yankee bats in the opening inning after two were out. Cree, Sweeney, and Hartzell landed on Mitchell in succession, but the trio of safeties failed to net a run because Hartzell's slam bounded against Sweeney's knee while the latter was on his way to second base. The hitting was continued almost without interruption down to the closing inning, the fifth being the lone chapter in which the Yanks failed to get at least one hit.

Sweeney led in the hitting with a safety for each of his five trips to the plate, one of the lot being a triple to the right-field gate which chased home the first two Yankee runs after the visitors had got away to a two-run lead. Sweeney's hit in the sixth started the run which put the Yanks in front for the first time, and his clouts in the seventh and eighth innings drove in a runner each time. Cree, whose poor work with the stick resulted in his being benched last week, the first time since he joined the team, gave Sweeney a close battle for the honors. He got a pair of clean singles and a double, which cleared the bases of three runners, in the eighth inning. In the fifth inning Austin robbed Cree of another hit with a spectacular stop of his grounder along the third-base line.

The heavy stick work carried McConnell to the first victory which the lanky flinger has enjoyed at home this year, but McConnell well deserved a victory yesterday. He held the Missourians to seven hits, which were sprinkled over six innings, and it was not until victory had been made secure that the Browns earned a run. That was in the ninth inning, when McConnell and the other Yankees took things easy and presented the visitors with their last two markers. Johnston, who scored the first St. Louis run in the ninth inning, was allowed to steal second without a throw being made for him, and Pratt, who scored the other run, finished the trip from third base while Borton was taking an easy grounder for an out at first base and paying no attention to the run. The first two runs chalked up by the visitors were the result of Yankee misplays, three successive errors pushing over the run which arrived in the third inning.

Williams's triple and Hartzell's failure to stop Peckinpaugh's throw allowed Williams to score in the second inning. In the third Peckinpaugh allowed Shotten to reach first on his fumble and then he threw the ball against the grand stand, giving Shotten an extra base. After Brief had sacrificed Shotten to third Borton made his first error in fifteen games as a Yankee, allowing Shotten to score.

The Yanks tied the game up in the third inning on McConnell's clean single to right, a pass to Wolter, and Sweeney's triple to deep right field. They went ahead in the sixth on Sweeney's single to right, a wild pitch, Hartzell's sacrifice, and Peckinpaugh's hard hit over second base. In the seventh Daniels's drive to centre, Wolter's infield out, Cree's single to left, and Sweeney's tobasco grounder, which bounded off Jimmy Austin's glove, added two more runs.

Hamilton succeeded Mitchell on the St. Louis mound in the eighth inning after Pete Compton had batted for Mitchell. The Yanks went the full length of the batting order against Hamilton, getting five runs on singles by Sweeney and Peckinpaugh, Cree's double, a pass, and two errors by the Browns. The score:

Early Lead Gives Boston Game.

BOSTON, June 19.—Boston batted in five runs in the first four innings to-day, which proved to be sufficient to win the last game of the series with Detroit. The visitors were threatening in the ninth inning, when Rondeau drew a base on balls and High, who ran for him, was brought home by Dubuc's double. At this stage Bedient took O'Brien's place and passed Bush, but Vitt forced Bush out at second, while Crawford flied out to Janvrin and Cobb closed the game with a grounder to Bedient. The score:

Senators Land Odd Game.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Washington won the odd game of the series from Cleveland to-day, 6 to 3. Falkenberg proved easy for the locals and was batted out of the box. Blanding, who relieved him, pitched winning ball, but the lead was too great to overcome. Boehling pitched his first full Major League game, and except for the fifth inning, when Cleveland bunched three hits, was always master. Shanks starred at bat for Washington, his hitting figuring largely in the victory. The score:

Pitchers' Battle at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, June 19.—Philadelphia took the final game of the present series from Chicago to-day by 2 to 0. The game was a pitcher's battle between Brown and Russell, in which the former triumphed. The Sox made four hits off Brown, but these were so widely scattered that they never had a chance to score. Russell held the Athletics to three hits, two of which figured in their run getting. In the second inning Baker tripled over Mattick's head and scored on McInnis's long sacrifice fly to Mattick. In the sixth Murphy singled to centre, took third on a wild pitch, and scored on Oldring's long sacrifice drive to Bodie. Wonderful catches by Mattick and Walsh, robbing Brown and Bodie of extra base hits, were the features. The score:

UNUSUAL FINISH IN RACE.

Jockey Tuckerman Wins Challenge Cup in Sensational Manner.

BOSTON, June 19.—Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., of Boston, won the twenty-second annual running of the Challenge Cup at the Brookline Country Club to-day, after a sensational and unusual finish, in which his big bay steeplechaser, Jim Hanson, flashed across the finish line two lengths ahead of Maxim's Pride, owned by C. P. Robbins and ridden by Fred Alpers of New York.

Coming into the half-mile home stretch of the two-and-a-half-mile course, Tuckerman lost his stirrups. Alpers, who had been neck and neck with him all the way, forged slighlty ahead. With a desperate effort, Tuckerman clung to his plunging horse Indian fashion, and urged him down the stretch, gaining with every bound. The horse was beyond control as it crossed the line in 5:09 2-5, and Tuckerman was so exhausted that as the horse swerved he toppled off, striking his head against the wire fence. He recovered sufficiently to ride in a later race.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., June 19.—The Williamstown golf team has chosen Paul H. Hyde, 1914, of Wichita, Kan., Captain for the 1914 season, and Conrad F. Cutler, 1915, of Mount Hermon, has been elected to lead the tennis team for next year.

Taber and Drew Stars.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 19.—Norman S. Taber of this city, and Howard Drew of Springfield, both Olympic runners, were the stars in the annual field day games of the New England Association of Moose at a near-by shore resort to-day. Taber was easily winner in the mile run and Drew captured the 100 yards dash with little more difficulty. The summary:

Special Open Mile Run, Handicap.—Won by Norman S. Taber, Providence, (scratch;) R. W. Atwater, Tufts, (26 yards,) second; W. R. Waterman, Brown, (50 yards,) third. Time—4:28 2-5.

100-Yard Dash, Handicap.—Won by Howard Drew, Springfield, (scratch;) William Barrett, Worcester, 6½ yards,) second; A. Doyle, Worcester Academy, (6½ yards,) third. Time—0:10.

HARVARD EXPECTS VICTORY ON RIVER

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 19.—That portion of the State of Massachusetts which has crowded into this old whaling town to-night is already flying Harvard flags and crowing for another Crimson victory, just as they have done for the past five years. The day started auspiciously for Harvard, the freshman four and the 'Varsity substitute four beating Yale in the two preliminary skirmishes which were held this afternoon. Harvard also won the toss of the coin in all three events to-morrow, so that the Crimson will have the advantage of the west lane of the Thames course.

Jubilant Harvard undergraduates, together with numerous Boston citizens who were once Harvard undergraduates, believe that Harvard's luck to-day means that the Cambridge oarsmen will again show the Elis the way in to-morrow's races. There is, however, just as much Yale enthusiasm here to-night as there is Harvard. Although it is against the ethics of church and State to bet, there is a good deal of it going on, and while Harvard rules a 10 to 8 favorite, Yale men are doing some lively running around to see that no Harvard currency is lying idle without working.

The Yale navy has undergone a complete change since Averill Harriman, the youngest 'Varsity coach Yale ever had, imported a flock of English coaches and ideas. Everything is quite English around Gales Ferry this year. Even to the 5 o'clock tea. The Elis have English shells, English oars, and Coaches Gold and Kirby have been trying for weeks to develop a crew which will row something like the eights which have so often carried the dark blue of Oxford to the front. Yale men believe that the Blue oarsmen have a better chance to-morrow than they have had since the good old days of Bob Cook, when Harvard used to finish city blocks behind the Blues.

The loss of Gore has somewhat upset the Yale eight, for Denegree, who takes his place, is a much heavier man, but his brawn was needed to help out in the four-mile test of stamina. Capt. Snowden announced to-night that Lippincott was in good shape and would pull No. 7 oar.

The Yale 'Varsity was on the river only a short time this evening and practiced racing starts for a while and took a short spin. There was more activity at Harvard's headquarters, for both the 'Varsity and freshmen were out and had a fast brush for about half a mile. Coach Jim Wray looked over the two eights and smiled a smile of satisfaction. He never makes predictions, but he has a strong little idea about whose going to win.

The harbor and river are filling up with yachts and well-known grads of both universities are hobnobbing about town. Up at Gales Ferry George St. John Sheffield, Julian Curtiss, Fritz Olmstead and Harry Payne Whitney await the event. Over at Red Top Percy Haughton, W. H. Garcelon, Paul and Lathrop Withington, and scores of others were on hand to cheer up the oarsmen on the eve of strife. Three revenue cutters will do patrol duty on the course to-morrow. They are the Onondaga, Gresham, and Acushnet.

The preliminary races this afternoon were easy for the Crimson. The Harvard substitute four beat Yale by nearly five lengths. Harvard's time was 5:25 and Yale's 5:42.

The Harvard freshmen four showed Yale the way over the mile course in 5:30, the Blue finishing three lengths behind in 5:42. The Yale freshmen four's time was a second better than the time of the Yale substitute quartet.

Before the fours raced a graduate eight from Harvard rowed a half mile alone for the R. F. Herrick cup. Yale was unable to muster a crew. The time was 2:55. The crew was made up as follows: Stroke, E. Cutler; 7, R. Cutler; 6, P. Withington; 5, L. Withington; 4, P. Farley; 3, P. Metcalf; 2. G. Wiggin; bow, L. Whitney; coxswain, Meredith Blagden.

The weather to-night is unsettled and a sprinkling of rain was followed by a rise in the temperature. It promises to be fair and warmer to-morrow. The 'Varsity four-oared race will be rowed at 9:15 to-morrow morning, starting at the draw bridge and finishing at the two-mile mark opposite the navy yard. Immediately following this race the freshmen eights will start from the two-mile mark and will race up stream.

The 'Varsity is scheduled for 3:30 and if a postponement is necessary it will be rowed at 6 o'clock. It will be impossible to hold that race between 3:30 and 6 o'clock because the water will be absolutely dead. The 'Varsity race, if it begins on scheduled time, will be rowed down stream, but if postponed until 6 o'clock it will be rowed up the river. W. E. Meikleham, Columbia, will referee the race for the seventeenth time, with A. W. Putnam of Columbia as assistant.

The record for the course is held by Yale, the crew of 1888 covering the four miles in 20:10. No one expects that this mark will be threatened to-morrow.

The confidence of Yale men in this year's crew does not come from actual performance, because Coach Harriman really has an untried eight. Many of the men have been through the grueling four-mile row before, and the crew has shown surprising improvement since the English coaches took a hand, several weeks ago.

Yale made a time row several days ago which was so encouraging that overanxious enthusiasts of the crew heralded the news far and wide that Yale had an exceptionally fast crew. This judgment has since seemed a trifle hasty, but nevertheless a quiet feeling pervades Gales Ferry to-night that this crew is going to give a great account of itself.

BOHSTEDT TO STROKE CREW.

Coach Vail Makes an Eleventh-Hour Decision in Badger Boat.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 19.—At the eleventh hour, Coach Vail has decided to keep Bohstedt at stroke of the 'Varsity eight after giving him a two days' test. Evert was stroke of the Badger eight last year when they rowed as freshmen, and held the position until during the Spring training. Last year he was relegated to No. 2, and Bohstedt came forward. The change satisfied Coach Vail that there was more life and ginger in the shell under the new pacemaker.

The first mishap at the Columbia quarters occurred this afternoon when W. G. Fogg, the coxswain of the freshman eight, stepped on an axe and cut his foot badly. The youngster was brought to Poughkeepsie and several stitches had to be taken in his foot. The injury, while painful, will not keep Fogg from steering the shell over the course in the race on Saturday. This morning the Columbia crews took a short spin down stream unaccompanied by Coach Rice, and the work required was even lighter in the evening.

A stiff wind blew up the course, kicking up white caps in midstream, compeling the crews to hug the west shore. Pennsylvania's 'Varsity did not take to the water at all in the evening, following the example set by the University of Washington crew. Cornell's crews took a short paddle down toward Milton.

Judge Frank Irvine and Morton G. Bogue, two of the stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association, arrived in town to-day and immediately went to the river to look over the crews.

Police Commissioner McCabe and Mayor Frank, who have come out with ultimatums against any betting or gambling on the races, have nevertheless failed to keep down the appearance of a sheet of odds at one of the local hotels. This shows Cornell a red-hot favorite for all of the races, and more loyal of the backers of the Red and White are not failing in placing a few wagers that their crews will sweep the Hudson. Cornell is named as the favorite at even money against the field.

It was reported that Police Commissioner Waldo of New York had delegated a force of detectives to Highland, across the river from Poughkeepsie, to look after the crowds as they gather there to get on the observation train. Each year there is trouble with pickpockets, but this is the first time that New York detectives have been put on the job. It will be up to these men also to cooperate with the orders issued by the local police against any gambling.

The cars making up the observation train pulled into the Highland station this morning. There are forty cars in the train this year. The present demand for tickets makes it possible that two more cars will be added for the occasion.

THREE VICTORIES FOR PELL.

Metropolitan Tennis Singles Championship Reaches Final Round.

Theodore R. Pell was kept busy on the courts of the West Side Tennis Club yesterday, when he figured in three matches in the metropolitan singles and doubles championships. In the singles he defeated George M. Church, the Princeton player, in the last set of the unfinished match. This victory put him in the semi-final round against F. C. Inman, Jr., from whom he won after four hard sets by the score of 6—4, 4—6, 6—2, 6—1. With only a few minutes' rest Pell, with Gustave F. Touchard as a partner, gained an easy victory over George S. Groesbeck and E. H. Pfeiffer in straight sets. W. M. Washburn reached the final round through a well-earned victory over C. F. Watson, Jr., in three sets, and will play Pell in the final round to-morrow.

Three matches were played in the semi-final round of the championship doubles. Voshell and Baggs scored over F. H. and W. M. Gates after losing the second set. Bull and Washburn triumphed over Dr. Rosenbaum and Lovibond, the first set of the match going to vantage for a decision, and Leonard and Watson were extended to their limit to win from Cunningham and Tobey, 8—6, 5—7, 7—5.

Little and Hall did not complete their match with Shafer and Mahan. Each pair won one set Wednesday, and it was expected they would finish the contest, but it was postponed until to-day. The winning team will play Voshell and Baggs in the third round. Two matches will be played in the semi-final round, and the finals in doubles will be decided Saturday after the singles. Summary:

Men's Singles, Metropolitan Championship.—Fourth Round—Theodore R. Pell defeated George M. Church, 7—9, 6—3, 6—1.

Semi-Final Round—W. M. Washburn defeated C. F. Watson, Jr., 6—2, 7—5, 6—2; Theodore R. Pell defeated F. C. Inman, 6—4, 4—6, 6—2, 6—1.

Men's Doubles, Metropolitan Championship.—Second Round—Gustave F. Touchard and Theodore R. Pell defeated George S. Groesbeck and E. H. Pfeiffer, 6—2, 6—3; C. Leonard and C. F. Watson, Jr., defeated A. M. Kidder and F. P. Fuller by default.

Semi-Final Round—S. Howard Voshell and F. C. Baggs defeated F. H. Gates and W. M. Gates, 6—3, 2—6, 6—3; C. M. Bull, Jr., and W. Washburn defeated Dr. William Rosenbaum and Arthur M. Lovibond, 8—6, 6—1; C. Leonard and C. F. Watson defeated W. D. Cunningham and A. Tobey, 8—6, 5—7, 7—5.

Johnson Beats German Crack.

LONDON, June 19.—Wallace F. Johnson of Philadelphia to-day beat the German crack, F. W. Rahe, by three sets to two in the fourth round of the open singles in the London lawn tennis championship tournament. The score was 2—6, 6—3, 3—6, 6—2, 6—2.

Close Win for Cooperstown.

Special to The New York Times.

GREAT NECK, L. I., June 19.—Cooperstown vanquished Great Neck in a hard-fought battle in the Great Neck polo tournament to-day. The score was 12 to 11. Great Neck was allowed 5 goals handicap, but, even with these points in favor, was unable to hold out against the onslaught of two five-goal and one seven-goal men.

Malcolm Stevenson, at one time seriously considered for play on the international defending polo team, backed Cooperstown with all the force and resourcefulness of an experienced player. In the first half of the match Russell Grace lost his mount in a sharp encounter between opposing sides. A curious feature of the match was that no penalties were incurred on either side.

Great Neck—W. R. Grace, 3; J. W. Webb, 5; H. Hadden, 4; John G. Milburn, Jr., 4. Total—16.

Cooperstown—F. H. Prince, 4; C. C. Rumsey, 5; C. P. Beadleston, 5; M. Stevenson, 7. Total—21.

Cooperstown, by earned goals, 12; Great Neck, by earned goals, 6; by allowed handicap, 5. Final score, 12 to 11 in favor of Cooperstown. Referee—J. C. Cooley.

Chapple and Davis in Match Races.

After much wrangling as to the distances the articles for the series of match races between Arthur Chapple, the 1912 champion, and Charlie Davis of Brooklyn, winner of the elimination contests, were signed yesterday, and forfeits posted by the two men to bind the match. The first race will be run Sunday night, and the next two will be run on the succeeding Sundays. Saturday's [illegible] will be the Brooklyn Handicap, [illegible] a field [illegible]

GAINER CAPTURES GREAT AMERICAN

The Great American Stakes for two-year-olds yesterday at the Belmont Park track was easily the feature event of the card, and witnessed the spilling over of Punch Bowl, the Ornament colt which is conceded to be the best of his age in these parts, and which was favorite for the stake in which he failed to finish better than sixth.

J. L. Holland's chestnut colt Gainer led the field home in convincing fashion, with his nearest opponents at the end being Mater and Golden Chimes, which got under the wire in that order in second and third positions. It was conceded that there was some excuse for Punch Bowl, which was packing the heavy impost of 125 pounds, and which weight was not lessened any by the rather lengthy wait at the post prior to the start, the delay being caused by some of the "babies" to which the favorite was giving from ten to nearly twenty pounds.

The distance was five-eighths of a mile, and, although Punch Bowl got off in third place with the field very well aligned, the lightweights set a clipping pace and gradually forced the Ornament horse back into the second division. Just when it appeared that he was ready his rider, McCahey, let go of his head, and he began to swerve from the middle of the track to the outside rail, losing a yard at every jump.

The others in the field, racing true throughout the final quarter, furnished a stirring contest, with the result that J. Wilson, who handled his mount, Gainer, in clever fashion and beat Ral Parr's Mater, which had never been worse than second, by two lengths, the latter being a head to the good of Dick Carman's Golden Chimes, which was in command at the beginning of the last eighth. Punch Bowl staggered home in sixth place on the outer rail.

For what was considered an off day, there was a really remarkable attendance, as fully 7,000 persons witnessed the sport, which was replete with capital racing from end to end. The last event provided the hottest finish of the day, when Robert Oliver and Water Lady "hooked up" in the final eighth of the two-year-old race at five and a half furlongs over the straight course.

As the result of considerable disturbance at the post in the first race, most of which was caused by The Turkess, Phil Ford, the rider of John O. Talbott's Henpeck, was painfully injured through having two toes of his left foot broken when The Turkess launched her heels in his direction. Despite his mishap, the lad brought his mount from almost nowhere at the top of the stretch to third place at the finish, Cadeau and Lady Lightning, second choice and favorite, respectively, beating him to the wire. Ford had to be carried to the jockeys' room, where his injuries were dressed.

Sam Jackson, which had been a strong tip in his recent races, made amends for previous defeats in the one-mile handicap, but he had to be far and away the best horse in the race to get home in front in the second race.

Donald Macdonald, another Holland entry, led the distancers a merry chase in the mile and a quarter race, in which he was a 3 to 10 choice. R. T. Wilson uncovered a nice chaser in Owanux, which had had his initial outing at Pimlico a month ago. From the last jump home, however, he died away under pressure, and had to be ridden out to win by a length and a half from Rock Abbey, which came very fast at the end. The summary:

FIRST RACE.—For mares three years old and upward; selling; six furlongs, main course. Won by J. G. Oxnard's br. f. Cadeau, (McTaggart,) 107 pounds, 3 to 1, even, and 1 to 2; H. C. Hallenbeck's ch. f. CANADA WINS AND LOSES.

South Africa Breaks Even in Davis Cup Elimination Round.

LONDON, June 19.—Canada to-day won the first singles match from South Africa in the elimination round for the selection of a challenger for the Dwight F. Davis Lawn Tennis Trophy. R. B. Powell represented the Dominion and R. F. Le Sueur South Africa. Powell won the match by three sets to two. The score was 6—3, 6—4, 4—6, 8—6, 7—5. The match was played at Queen's Club.

South Africa equalized by winning the second singles match, in which V. R. Gauntlett of Johannesburg defeated the Canadian champion, B. P. Schwengers of British Columbia, in brilliant style by three straight sets, 11—9, 6—3, 6—0.

BEST AUTO ROUTES TO THE BOAT RACES

Roads on the East Shore of the Hudson in Good Condition to Poughkeepsie.

Many autoists are planning to go to Poughkeepsie to-day and to-morrow, for the boat races there. Those who desire to motor to the regatta will find the best going on the east shore of the Hudson, for road conditions on the main trunk lines across the river are far from satisfactory. The best route, according to the touring department of the Automobile Club of America, is by way of Broadway through Yonkers, to Dobbs Ferry. There is a short stretch of bad going near Dobbs Ferry, in Warburton Avenue.

Macadam and brick roads are in good condition to a point some five miles beyond Peekskill. A new road begins at a small town called Anneville 43.1 miles out from New York. At 46.6 miles a right turn should be made. From this point to Fishkill Village, 60.8 miles, there is good going. It is a toss-up whether to use this new road between Peekskill and Fishkill which has one poor stretch of half a mile, or go by way of Garrisons and Cold Spring. This route is in poor condition in several places and the new road, most of which is good, seems preferable. From Fishkill the route is to Wapinger's Falls, 65.7 miles, and from there to Poughkeepsie, 73 miles. Motorists from the Oranges, Paterson and other New Jersey towns can run to Suffern and thence to Newburgh, crossing the river there to Fishkill Landing.

Autoists who use the Queensboro Bridge fear that when the subway trains begin to run over the bridge the road will be too narrow to accomodate automobile traffic. Now, notwithstanding the fact that the whole roadway is available, the bridge is frequently congested with motor cars. This was shown in the course of the international polo games at Hempstead.

The postponement of the Chicago-Boston no-stop run which was to have started on June 25 and included New York in its course, does not mean it is said that the run has been abandoned. It will probably be held in September, and a stock car division may be added, in which case additional entries may be counted on. Nine entries had been made up to the time of the decision to put off the event, but it is thought by the Chicago Automobile Club, which is promoting the run, that twenty-five or thirty cars can be obtained for the later date.

The anti-smoke ordinance in Chicago has been suspended until July 1 to give motorists time to suggest amendments to the law. The city prosecutor has suggested that a time limit of three, four or five minutes shall be fixed in which to start a car before enforcing the ordinance

"Automobile Row" heard yesterday of changes in the staff of the International Motor Company. John Calder has been elected President in place of C. P. Coleman resigned. Robert E. Fulton has been elected vice President and F. R. Phillips has been made assistant to the President.

TAX ON $3,000 INCOMES.

Committee Makes Single People Liable—Exemptions to the Married.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The Democratic majority of the Senate Finance Committee late to-night determined to change the basic exemption of the income tax from $4,000, as in the House bill, to $3,000. This, however, would apply only to single men or women. An additional provision would give to the married man, with a dependent wife, or to the married woman with a dependent husband, $1,000 more exemption, or a total of $4,000. Further exemption is provided for the family at the rate of $500 for each minor child, but in no case would this apply to more than two children. This would make the exemption for the family with two or more children $5,000.

The Underwood bill treated the man an dthe woman of the family as a unit in fixing the exemption of $4,000, but the Senate Committee has added another amendment which would make taxable the income of both husband and wife if each had separate taxable incomes.

The committee has not completed the income tax schedule, and probably will be several days working out the various features to comply with these changes.

For the first time that any one can remember, a call ws sent out to-day for a caucus of Democratic Senators to consider the Tariff bill. Similar legislation in the past has been considered by Democratic conferences which bound no one. But in view of the small majority by which the party now controls the Senate, unusual efforts are being put forth to weld the party as solidly as possible to the support of the bill as indorsed by President Wilson. The Senators will meet to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock, and the first motion will be to make the action of the caucus binding on every Senator present.

In addition to the House provision permitting the President to offer reductions of duty as inducements to other nations for reciprocal reductions, the Senators decided to-day to authorize the President to raise duties on certain specified articles, at rates also specified, when it was found that American goods were being subjected to discrimination abroad.

At the last moment the committee found that a provision already in the law practically prevents "dumping" of surplus manufactures in this country at less than their prices abroad. To prevent all complications, the committee therefore struck out bodily the House anti-dumping clause. The provision in the law, it was explained, does not affect the free list.

One of the most important modifications of the House bill adopted by the Finance Committee's majority this afternoon dropped all the inquisitorial provisions, against which so many nations have protested. The registration of commissionaires and the inquisitorial powers of customs agents abroad to inspect the books of foreign manufacturers when import valuations were in dispute were also eliminated.

WON'T PAVE AT ASHOKAN.

New Water Supply May Be Delayed by Estimate Board Action.

The Board of Estimate refused yesterday to appropriate $1,300,000 for paving the roads around the Ashokan Reservoir. President Charles Strauss of the Board of Water Supply said that because of this action use of the reservoir by the people of New York would be delayed a year longer than was planned.

"Unless the contracts for these roads are let at once," said Mr. Strauss, "it will be too late, and the matter will go over for another year. Do you realize what this means? The people of New York City, who have been paying the enormous cost of the reservoir, will be unable to use the Catskill water for another year. The city is obligated by law to build these roads, and until they are built we cannot flood the reservoir."

Controller Prendergast said he was not willing to grant the request of Mr. Strauss until he was sure that the city would be released from the order of the court of 1909, since revised, to the effect that after the city had built the roads it would have to maintain them forever.

"You need have no fear of that," replied Mr. Strauss. "The city will not have to maintain these roads forever. We have the opinion of the Corporation Counsel to that effect."

"That is all very nice," replied the Controller, "but every man, woman, and child in the vicinity of the reservoir has profited financially by the city's presence up there. They have won every point that has come up thus far and their damage claims have pretty nearly put the city out of commission. As a business proposition, I am not in favor of passing this resolution. It would simply be putting our head in the noose, and then the good people in the vicinity of the reservoir would swoop down on us with several more damage claims for millions."

It was finally decided to lay the matter over for a week, and in the meantime a committee will see if the people around Ashokan will waive their claims for damages if the city should have the court order vacated.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Himmell & Isaacs, dealers in leather goods, now at 561 Broadway, have leased the entire seventh floor of the building now in construction at 33 East Thirty-third Street. About 12,500 square feet of floor space will be occupied.

The annual closing period of the New England jewelry factories will begin on June 28 this year, and will extend to Aug 12. The closing is made to give employes a vacation and to make necessary repairs.

James H. Dunham & Co. will hold a semi-annual clearance sale on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

Columbia to Give a Gem Course.

Business men and others interested in gems will have an opportunity to study them in a scientific way this Summer. Columbia University will give a special course of instruction for this purpose. It will begin on July 7 and end on Aug. 15. The course will be under the direction of Prof. A. I. Moses of the department of mineralogy. There will be thirty lectures and sixty hours of laboratory work. No preliminary training will be necessary for enrollment, but it is said that some knowledge of chemistry will prove helpful. A tuition fee of $30 will be charged for the course, with a five-dollar registration fee for those who have never before enrolled at Columbia. No laboratory fee will be charged. Registration will begin on July 3. It is expected that many persons identified with the jewelry trade will enroll for the course.

Business Men Want Tariff Commission.

Through the various trade organizations making up the Chamber of Commerce of the United States the business men of the country have shown themselves strongly in favor of the creation of a permanent tariff commission. A multiple system of votes was used in determining the matter. Each organization had from one to ten votes, according to its size. The final vote was 715 to 9 in favor of the creation of the commission, according to the June bulletin of the National Chamber. By an association vote of 669 to 9 the business men opposed the proposal to exempt labor and farm organizations from prosecution under the anti-trust law.

Another Credit Problem.

J. H. Tregoe, Secretary of the National Association of Credit Men, gives the following account of the experience of one credit man: A certain wholesale firm, having received an order from a customer who already owed the house a good sum, replied that it could not accept the order until the first account had been paid. To this the buying firm answered, "Cancel the order. We are unable to wait that long for the goods."

Fabric Tendencies Extravagant.

"I have never before seen such extravagance in fabrics," said a prominent member of the silk and velvet trade yesterday. He had just returned from abroad. "There is an uptown jobber who ordered a thirty-one-inch silk made up in France at $24 a yard. Business is booming in Paris. I left that city three weeks ago and deliveries were then promised not earlier than Oct. 1, which is really too late for this market. Consequently I do not see how the shortage of silks here can be alleviated by importations. Plushes on voile grounds are among the fabrics featured at Lyons. It looks like a good season for all kinds of plush, as it is being used even for the facing and trimming of women's hats. Business is good in England also, the looms in Manchester being expecially well employed."

Free Taxi Rides for Buyers.

A millinery wholesaler, whose showrooms are out of the district where most of this trade is situated, who has been trying to devise a way of getting buyers to his place, has finally solved the problem. He has brought out a series of tickets which entitle buyers to whom they are sent to free taxi rides from any part of the city to his showrooms. The tickets are accepted by one of the local transportation companies on presentation to the chauffeur in place of the usual fare. The scheme is said to be working very well.

Raw Silk Buying Improves.

Buying has shown material improvement in the local raw silk market in the last week, as tension has lessened at strike centres. Both spot and advance orders were placed at prices that were firm and advancing. Yokohama reports the new silk crop about equal to last year's, according to H. L. Walter & Co. That market is very firm. The Canton and Shanghai markets are quiet, but firm. Cocoons are advancing steadily at Milan.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

THE KENDALL NAIL AND SUPPLY COMPANY, wholesale dealer in wire nails at 949 Broadway, in the Flatiron Building, whose President, George A. Enell, died on June 10, was petitioned into bankruptcy yesterday by three creditors, with claims aggregating $176,680, and Judge Hand appointed Samuel D. Elmore and Cortlandt Betts receivers under a bond of $15,000, and authorized them to continue business thirty days.

JAMES MURRAY MITCHELL.—James Murray Mitchell of Mitchell & Co. and of Alexander & Co., stockholders of 43 Exchange Place, field schedules in bankruptcy yesterday showing liabilities of $80,652, of which $12,040 are personal debts and $68,612 debts of the above firms. The assets are $10,123, consisting of a loan of $10,000 to Jesse Livermore, the "boy plunger," and $123, surrender value of life insurance. He carried $47,000 life insurance. Among his creditors are the City of New York, $378; personal taxes, 1910, Royce & Co., $5,100; losses on cotton, Sidney G. Dekay, $1,900; judgment for stock losses, H. B. Hollins & Co., $542; loan, Lothrop Randolph, $1,500; loan, Rockford Realty Company, $1,624; judgment for rent, and the Atlantic Yacht Club, $100, dues and supplies.

JOHN H. THOMPSON.—John H. Thompson, a police officer, living at 217 West 105th Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $2,819 and no assets. The debts are mainly for merchandise of various kinds, and $283 is for borrowed money. There are forty-five creditors, among whom are J. S. Bauman & Co., $270; Simpson-Crawford Co., $100; Park & Tilford, $57; Borden Co., $32; Sheffield Farms, $19; Knickerbocker Ice Company, $15; Fairbanks Baking Company, $12; United Electric Light and Power Company, $21; Samuel Abeloff, $316; Harry Weisberger, $379; Charles E. Davis, $233, and Max Brayer, $204. The debts were contracted between 1910 and 1913.

FRANCIS H. AUDLEY, manager of a manufacturing business at 8 Centre Market Place, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $2,332 and nominal assets of $365 in uncollectable loans. Mr. Audley has for the last ten years been engaged in the manufacture of holsters for policemen's clubs and in 1908 incorporated the Audley Safety Holster Company, with capital stock of $5,000, which has since carried on the business, with Mr. Audley as President. Mr. Audley filed his petition to get rid of old personal debts.

SAMUEL BERGMAN & CO.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Samuel Bergman & Co., a corporation, manufacturers of cloaks and suits at 6 West Eighteenth Street, by these creditors: Charles A. Heaton, $500; Archibald G. McBride, $90, and H. Baum, $100, all on assigned claims. It was alleged that the corporation was insolvent and made preferential payments. Judge Hand appointed Cornelius W. Wickersham receiver, bond $7,500, with authority to continue business twenty days and to issue receivers' certificates up to $750. Liabilities are $20,000 and assets $15,000. The corporation was incorporated on March 8, 1910, with capital stock of $30,000, and Samuel Bergman President. He had been in business for eighteen years.

BERKMAN & MILLER.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Morris Berkman and Isidor Miller, who compose the firm of Berkman & Miller, wholesale dealers in cotton goods at 350 Canal Street, by these creditors: A. G. Hyde & Sons, $818; Samuel Gordon, $325, and J. W. Goddard & Sons, $521. It was alleged that they were insolvent and made preferential payments to the People's Bank, $481; B. Ginsberg, $50, and I. Berkman, $100. They began business on July 1, 1911. Both reside in Brooklyn, where they filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy yesterday, with liabilities of $10,563 and assets of $4,875.

LUCERNE WAIST COMPANY.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the Lucerne Waist Company, manufacturer of waists at 251 Seventh Avenue, by these creditors: William Galland, $113; Joseph Milstein, $147, and Austin McNeal, $250. Liabilities are said to be $9,000 and assets $6,000. The company was incorporated two years ago with capital stock of $10,000. Liabilities are said to be $9,000 and assets $6,000.

WALDEMAR WELGE.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Waldemar Welge, dealer in sponges, of 1,956 Parkway, Bronx, by these creditors: Harry M. Mills, $775; Theodore L. Lutkins, $33, and Remington Typewriter Company, $65. It was alleged that he was insolvent and transferred sponges worth $15,000 to the Rock Island Sponge Company without any consideration.

SHAPIRO & BECKER.—Schedules in bankruptcy of Shapiro & Becker, dealers in clothing and men's furnishing goods at 578 Ninth Avenue and 637 Tenth Avenue, show liabilities of $8,515 and assets of $3,019, consisting of stock $3,000 and cash $19.

BOSTON, Mass., June 19.—In the United States District Court to-day Judge Morton appointed Henry W. True receiver for the Rex Motor Company under a bond of $5,000. The company was petitioned into involuntary bankruptcy at the instance of creditors recently. A factory is maintained at East Boston.

Ben Gomberg and Louis Ashman, both of Lynn in business as Gomberg & Ashman, builders, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy to-day. They owe $53,587.41 and have assets of $30,500.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

Wheat final prices were 1⅛c. to 1¼c. net lower. Corn prices declined sharply and closed at a net loss of ⅝c. Cotton closed steady at a net loss of 1 to 5 points. Oats closed net unchanged to ¼c. lower.

WHEAT.

Continuous showers during the past five days in North Dakota and Minnesota, as well as reports of favorable yields in the Southwest, where harvesting of the Winter wheat crop is in operation, appear to have taken the snap out of the bull side of the wheat market, and prices during yesterday's operations were easier, closing at a net decline of 1⅛ to 1¼c. Advices from the Southwest indicated favorable progress with harvesting, and a wire from Kansas City said it was the general belief that Missouri would yield 40,000,000 bushels, against 22,000,000 last year. New Winter wheat is being offered in increasing volume in most of the leading markets and is beginning to have considerable weight on values, especially as the movement of old wheat continues heavy at interior points. Foreign crop advices were again favorable, and prices abroad were influenced by continued liberal offerings of both native and foreign wheat. There was said to have been a good cash demand in the West, with sales of about 240,000 bushels to mills and to Eastern exporters on speculation. In the local market No. 1 Northern Spring wheat was quoted at $1.02, free on board, afloat.

CORN.

Sentiment in the corn market was very nervous, and after an early advance of ⅝ to ⅞c values declined sharply and closed at a net loss of ⅝c. The weather was still dry over a large part of the belt, but during the day private reports indicated showers in portions of Kansas, as well as in the Ohio Valley, and this appeared to result in quite general liquidation. In the local market export corn was quoted at 70c nominal, free on board, afloat.

OATS.

The oats market was strong and excited during the early operations, prices showing gains of ¾c to 1⅛c on active buying, but late in the session prices eased off under profit taking, closing net unchanged to ¼c lower. The local cash market was quiet. Standard white was quoted at 47c to 47½c; No. 2, 48c; No. 3, 46½c to 47c; No. 4, 45½c to 46c; ordinary clipped white, 46½c to 47½c; fancy clipped white, 48½c to 49½c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The provision list was generally firm and fairly active throughout the day. Commission houses were fair buyers on the strength of live hogs and there was also some covering of shorts. Chicago receipts were 19,000; estimated for Friday, 16,000. Kansas City had 5,000 and Omaha 8,000.

COTTON.

The cotton market was rather unsettled again yesterday. Enough support was in evidence to check declines and cause rallies, however, with the market closing steady at a net loss of only 1 to 5 points. Houses with foreign connection were credited with selling heavily in the local market again during the early trading, while there were scattered Southern offerings, as well as more or less realizing by small local longs.

The market opened steady at a decline of 3 to 8 points in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables. Prices sold off to a net loss of 9 to 10 points later in the morning, but a good demand was encountered around 11.50 for October and an early afternoon rally carried prices up to practically Wednesday's closing level.

Private cables reported continued continental realizing in the English market, but there was a good demand for spot cotton in Liverpool, and the sales there amounted to 10,000 bales. Southern spot markets as officially reported yesterday, were unchanged to 1-8c. lower, generally lower.

The local market for spot cotton was quiet and 5 points lower at 12.35 for middling upland. Sales, 39 bales.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The cottonseed oil market was again active and strong with good general buying. There is an active demand for the crop positions and shorts have been forced to cover. The late months were comparatively quiet at the close, and final prices were 2 to 6 points higher, while the old crop months were 13 to 19 points higher.

COFFEE.

Prices developed an easier tone, closing at a net loss of 9 to 13 points on total sales of 44,750 bags. Havre declined ¾ to 1 franc, while Hamburg was ¾ to 1¼ pfennigs lower. Rio was steady at 200 reis up, while Santos was 50 reis higher. This represented Wednesday's market, and cost and freight offers were somewhat lower.

Spot coffee, ⅛c lower; Rio 7's, 10 cents. Contract prices follow:

MISCELLANEOUS MARKETS.

BEEF.—There were no changes yesterday in the wholesale prices quoted here on Western beef cuts.

SUGAR.—The refined sugar market was still firm on the basis of $4.20 to $4.30 for fine granulated. Business was fairly active. Spot prices were unchanged in the raw sugar market at $3.33 for centrifugal, $2.88 for Muscovado, and $2.58 for molasses sugar. London beet sugar was quoted on the curb at 9s 4d for June, 9s 4¾d for July, and 9s 6½d for August.

MOLASSES AND SYRUPS.—There was only a seasonable demand in evidence in this market yesterday. Prices were unchanged.

RICE.—Buyers were after immediate delivery stock only yesterday. New crop conditions continue to be reported satisfactory. Prices showed no change.

FLOUR AND MEAL.—There was little business transacted in the flour market, but the mills held firmly to previous quotations.

OILS.—This market was generally featureless and unchanged.

NAVAL STORES.—Spirits turpentine were off slightly at 39½ cents, in sympathy with an easier feeling in the South. Resin and tar continued to show no price changes.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

Among the recent jewelry novelties brought out are thin model photo frames. They are made in sterling silver and morocco, with or without an easel back. They range in size from 1⅝ inches by 2¼ inches to 6½ inches by 9.

The call for cotton ratines is said to be falling off sharply in the Middle West. Crepe weaves, on the other hand, are reported to be gaining favor steadily.

A local firm specializing in the manufacture of lockets has brought out a novelty in the shape of an "inner-group" scapular locket. Both sides of the locket contain rims for the insertion of photo portraits.

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

The Hongkong General Chamber of Commerce has taken up with the Hongkong Government the slow and irregular dispatch of mails by way of Siberia, apparently due to lack of discrimination by postal authorities in Europe as to mail trains from Moscow across Siberia. This is of great importance to Hongkong business men in correspondence with Europe and Eastern United States.

Philippine exports in the nine months ended March 31 increased in value by $7,064,392, largely because of the great advance in price of manila hemp. Manila capitalists have organized a company for manufacturing manila hats, rope, and cordage from abaca and other Philippine fibers.

Canada's water power is estimated at 16,600,000 horse power, equal to an annual production of 367,000,000 tons of coal. Only 1,016,521 horse power has been developed, however.

E. L. SMITHERS, Assistant Treasurer.

DETROIT, TOLEDO & IRONTON RAILWAY COMPANY.

To the Holders of Certificates of Deposit of the New York Trust Company representing General Lien and Divisional First Mortgage Bonds of the above Railway Company;
To the Holders of Said Bonds:

The undersigned, the Committee appointed and acting under a Bondholders' Protective Agreement dated December 1, 1909, as amended February 24, 1911, and March 28, 1913, HEREBY GIVES NOTICE that it has prepared and adopted a Plan and Agreement, dated June 3, 1913, for the reorganization of the properties upon which the mortgage securing the above bonds is a first lien, to wit, the Northern and Southern Divisions of the above Railway Company, and has filed said Plan and Agreement with THE NEW YORK TRUST COMPANY as Depositary thereunder.

Holders of outstanding Certificates of Deposit of The New York Trust Company issued upon deposit of the above bonds under said Protective Agreement, who do not file with the Committee their written dissent from said Plan and Agreement and notice of their desire to withdraw from said Protective Agreement, and who do not surrender their Certificates of Deposit and withdraw the amount of bonds represented thereby and pay to the Depositary, for the account of the Committee, the sum of $125.00 for each bond (which amount has been fixed by the Committee as a fair proportion of the compensation, expenses, and obligations of the Committee), ON OR BEFORE JUNE 25, 1913, shall be conclusively and finally deemed to have asserted to and ratified said Plan and Agreement of Reorganization and to be irrevocably bound and concluded by the same.

Holders of said bonds and holders of Certificates of Deposit therefor will be permitted to share in the reorganization only upon subscribing and paying to THE NEW YORK TRUST COMPANY, the Depositary, at its office, Number 26 Broad Street, New York, for the purposes of the Reorganization, $350 in New York funds for each bond of the face value of $1,000, with June 1, 1910, and all subsequent coupons attached, deposited by them, the first instalment of the amount so payable, viz.: the sum of $100 for each such bond being payable ON OR BEFORE JUNE 25, 1913, and the balance in one or more instalments, as called for by the Reorganization Committee, on not less than two weeks' published notice given as provided in the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization.

For such payments to be made by the Depositors under said Plan and Agreement, and in exchange for the bonds deposited by them, the Depositors will be entitled to receive, upon the completion of the Reorganization under said Plan, in case said Plan shall have been declared operative, for each $350 in cash, paid by them, as provided in said Plan and Agreement of Reorganization.

Two-Year Six Per Cent. (6%) Gold Notes (at 96)..........$364.58
Voting Trust Certificates for Capital Stock..........$1,000.00

Certificates of Deposit must be presented to the Depositary at the time of the payment of the instalments payable in respect thereof for the appropriate notation thereon of such payment.

Holders of bonds, who have not already deposited the same under the said Protective Agreement, may become parties to said Plan and Agreement of Reorganization by depositing their bonds in negotiable form with June 1, 1910, and all subsequent coupons attached, with the Depositary under said Protective Agreement ON OR BEFORE JUNE 25, 1913, receiving Certificates of Deposit therefor issued under said Protective Agreement, with appropriate notation showing that the holders of such certificates have assented to said Plan and Agreement of Reorganization, and by paying to the Depositary the amounts payable under said Plan and Agreement as hereinbefore stated within the times limited for such payment.

Copies of the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization may be obtained from the Depositary or from the Secretary of the Committee.

YIELDING
The return on high grade bonds of active market has in times past ranged from 3½% to 4%. To-day this normal yield has become increased to the abnormal return of 4½% to 5%. More than this: where investors, like most private investors, do not need the element of active market, so long as their investments possess a reasonably broad market, a yield ranging from 5¼% to 6% is now to be had from issues of high standard.

Stocks Decline a Little in Very Dull Session—Discussion of Currency Plan.

Trading on the Stock Exchange drifted yesterday into extreme dullness, for the reason that current news supplied no new line of departure and the influence of previously prevailing factors had been reduced to a state of practical equilibrium. The inference which many drew from yesterday's record was that the market had felt the full effect of the rebound from the extreme price depression which culminated eight days ago and that new incentives were now needed to swell the volume of trading or to give definite direction to the movement of prices. Quotations were lower at the close yesterday than on Wednesday, but the net change was small compared with those recorded on recent days.

Under the circumstances, it was natural enough that the stock market received but a minor share of the attention of the financial community, which gave much more time to a discussion of the currency reform proposals and of the probable revelations through the Senate's inquiry into the efforts which have been made to interfere with the Union Pacific plans by persons who claimed power to exert influence for or against the company's proposals. Wall Street is much interested in this matter, as possibly affording an opportunity to put in their true light machinations of a sort with which financial interests have to contend on more occasions than come to the attention of the public. It is naturally assumed that the charges made by the Union Pacific management were made on the basis of facts which convinced the officers of the company of the true nature of the attempt at interference with the company's plans. These facts, it is widely felt, should be presented with all necessary detail.

Expressions of opinion heard in the financial district regarding the currency plan were, on the whole, favorable, so far as the broad outline of the plan was concerned, but there was a disposition to reserve definite judgment until it was learned how far the plan is likely to be modified before being definitely submitted to the consideration of the two branches of Congress. The undue preponderance of Federal appointees on the Federal Reserve Board over the representatives of the banks came in for criticism, which was regarded as applying to a feature of the plan which would affect the operation of the whole system. The change in this feature of the bill announced last night will serve to give still more point to this criticism.

The New York banks have disliked the possibility of a large loss of deposits through the proposed changes in the national bank reserve scheme, but banking opinion was not clearly formed regarding the extent to which such a loss of deposits would be entailed by the proposals contained in the plan published yesterday. Many banks would find it necessary to keep large balances in New York even if there was no provision in the present Bank act for depositing part of a bank's reserve with reserve agents. The provisions in the proposed plan for transferring funds from one bank to another, or from one section to another, might, however, do away with the need of banks throughout the country maintaining large balances here. In the broadest discussion of the subject, however, it was recognized that in the long run no plan which would work good to the country as a whole would work harm to the banks of this city. Some of the least reserved expressions of approval regarding the new currency proposals came yesterday from bankers whose institutions might be expected to be most affected by any large shifting of deposits from New York, and in those quarters the view was expressed that New York, even from a selfish standpoint, could rest satisfied with any plan which would in fact promote the best interests of the country as a whole.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Little Interest in Stocks.

Every little while yesterday the tickers began to whirr, preliminary to printing a quotation for a bond, or perhaps a hundred shares of stock. As the day advanced these alarms became more infrequent. The total for the day was under 175,000 shares, the smallest turnover since May 23. The record for dullness this year is held so far by May 16, when only 147,000 shares were reported.

Putting Montana on Weather Map.

Not so long ago Montana was hardly considered worthy of mention in the weekly weather reports—it produced so little surplus grain. But that has been rapidly changing and the conditions prevailing in that State are now worthy of being followed as helping to affect the final result of the year's harvest. It has been a rapid growth. Out of the 1910 crop the Great Northern hauled out of Montana 400,000 bushels of wheat. Out of the next crop it carried 2,000,000 bushels out of that State, and out of last year's crops it is carrying a total which is estimated at between twelve and thirteen million bushels. And it means a good deal more to the railroads to carry wheat from Montana than it does to carry Minnesota wheat. The haul is so much longer.

Rates Not Confiscatory.

In the recent decision of the Supreme Court in the Minnesota rate case the Great Northern was held not to have made out a case against the lower rates ordered by the Minnesota Commission. That finding is not being disputed by the officers of the road, who have before them the weekly and monthly statements of earnings. If the last days of June average up to the results of the first two weeks the Great Northern will end this fiscal year with an increase in gross in the neighborhood of $12,500,000. A good while back the company had already earned enough to cover the full year's dividend and it is estimated that the real surplus over dividend requirements will foot up to something in the neighborhood of $11,000,000, although that may be reduced in the final accounting by charges for betterment in one form or another. And this large surplus is being shown after charging to operating expenses several million dollars for extraordinary expenditures for improvements.

Southern Pacific Control.

The control which the Union Pacific exercises over the Southern Pacific through ownership of $126,000,000 of stock, which cost the Union Pacific an average of about 75, could once have been bought for $40,000,000. It was offered at that price to one of the great international banking houses, which did not profit by the opportunity partly because it did not receive encouragement from its closest railroad associates. That encouragement was not lacking because of lock of confidence in the property, but because of considerations of railroad policy. This deal, which might have been, would have put an altogether different complexion on the banking relationships which the Southern Pacific has at one time or another maintained. The house in question never took any part in Southern Pacific financing, although it was lately rumored that it soon would do so.

Bucket Shops Take Warning.

The disclosures made in the newspapers a few weeks ago of the activities of bucket shops throughout this State had an instant effect in frightening some of the boldest operators, it was said yesterday by one of the members of the Stock Exchange, who made an independent investigation. Whereas up to that time the branch offices of one of the largest bucket shops were running as openly as legitimate brokerage offices they have since taken great pains to tell their customers that all orders placed with them were for actual execution on one of the Exchanges. If the customers choose to believe otherwise, that is not the fault of the office manager. If a visitor is skeptical, a real telegraph instrument in operation can be shown him.

"Welcome" Sign Goes Back.

After the panic of 1907 there were stories afloat that black handers, or fanatics, were planning to visit the Stock Exchange in the guise of visitors for the purpose of hurling bombs down from the gallery. Up to that time all any one had to do in order to watch the brokers at work was to ask some member of the Exchange for a card, which admitted any number of persons to the gallery. Whether there was a good basis for the scare or not, the Governors thought it worth heeding, and it was ordered that visitors should only be admitted to the gallery when accompanied by a member. Also, admission was denied to the "Seeing New Yorkers." The exclusion rule has been allowed to lapse lately, and passes are again being issued to those who carry no suspicious-looking packages. There have been very few visitors to the Exchange lately, but they flock to the gallery at the first sign of a particularly active day.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

London and Paris Markets Quiet—Prices Close Slightly Higher in Berlin.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Friday, June 20.—The Times in its City article will say to-day:

"There was little inquiry for money. Rates for daily loans and short fixtures were unaltered. A few holders of July maturities sold them to the Bank. Discount rates remained at Wednesday's level, bills being fairly plentiful. The Bank returns show an increase of £801,000 ($4,005,000) in the reserve.

"The stock markets were in a lifeless condition. The tone, on the whole, was rather easier. Weaker advices came to hand from Brussels and Berlin, which was the chief reason for the dullness here, and in several departments there appeared to be a considerable amount of selling in small quantities. Business was quieter than for some time past. The markets are already beginning to show signs of the approach of settlement. Canadian Pacific shares and Harriman stocks suffered from the effects of Continental sales, which also adversely affected the mining markets and such securities as Brazil Railway common and Peruvian Corporation preference."

PARIS, June 19.—Prices were easy on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent rentes 83 francs 95 centimes for the account.

BERLIN, June 19.—Prices moved irregularly on the Boerse to-day, but most of the list closed slightly higher.

LOAN ISSUES POSTPONED.

Only Mexico Likely to Obtain Money in the French Market.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 19.—Contrary to rumors in circulation here in the last few days that the Mexican loan had been postponed, it is to-day announced that it is imminent.

At the same time the Figaro says that all the large issues on the French market for which investors have been waiting, meanwhile fighting shy of current securities, have now been postponed till next Winter. These include the Turkish, Bulgarian, and Servian loans, which would, it was expected, come out this Summer.

Bank of Bengal's Rate Reduced.

CALCUTTA, June 19. — The rate of discount of the Bank of Bengal was reduced from 5 to 4 per cent. to-day.

BANK OF FRANCE.

PARIS, June 19.—The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows the folowing changes:

	Francs.
Gold in hand increased	2,594,000
Silver in hand increased	2,644,000
Notes in circulation decreased	43,425,000
Treasury deposits increased	155,325,000
General deposits decreased	44,625,000
Bills discounted increased	58,075,000
Advances increased	9,075,000

BANK OF ENGLAND.

LONDON, June 19.—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes:

Total reserve increased	£801,000
Circulation decreased	156,000
Bullion increased	644,509
Other securities increased	1,335,000
Other deposits increased	816,000
Public deposits increased	1,264,000
Notes reserve increased	819,000
Government securities decreased	44,000

The proportion of the bank's reserve to liability this week is 51.22 per cent.; last week it was 51.70 per cent.

BANKERS SILENT ON CURRENCY BILL

Ready with Their Answers to 33 Senate Questions, but Won't Discuss Proposed Law.

SECRET SESSIONS OVER IT

Chairman Hepburn, Starting Home, Doesn't Expect a Statement Will Be Forthcoming.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 19.—After being in secret conclave again all day and until late at night, with intermissions only for meals, the members of the Currency Commission of the American Bankers' Association declined to make any comment whatever on the banking and currency bill published in THE TIMES this morning.

If it had not been for that publication the session would have come to an end this afternoon with the completion of answers to the thirty-three questions propounded by the Senate Banking and Currency Committee. These answers have been formulated, but will not be made public until they have been sent to the Senate Committe, which invited them.

The sub-committee that was appointed yesterday to draft the replies worked on them until after midnight and continued at 9 o'clock this morning. At noon its report was made to the full commission, which continued the discussion until about 3 o'clock, when the recommendations, with some modifications, were adopted.

Then the commission took up the banking and currency reform bill and began analyzing it. It was read line by line and section by section, and on each clause there was a full discussion, so that by dinner time only about half of it had been read. After dinner this process was resumed.

During the recess for dinner it developed that the members had agreed not to discuss the bill or any of its provisions for publication even as individuals. The reason for this was that they expect that when consideration of the measure is finished they will be in accord on all its features and will present a united front on the subject. Furthermore, they feel that this opinion will be officially representative of the entire American Bankers' Association, and any haphazard discussion by individual members, especially in advance of a thorough examination of the bill, would be unfortunate. They also feel that it might be confusing to the public mind, as a hasty survey of the measure this morning resulted in some differences of interpretation and of the effects of certain provisions. Such comment as was made at that time was favorable to the bill, but as the day wore on and it was more closely studied, the reticence of the members increased, giving rise to the impression that latent objections had been brought to the surface.

Before the night session began, Chairman Hepburn said that he doubted whether any statement concerning the bill would be forthcoming even by to-morrow.

"The answers to the thirty-three questions," he said, "will constitute a fairly complete commentary on the bill, although not addressed specifically to its provisions. They will state the position of the commission on the questions which are the subject matter of the bill. I don't think further statement concerning it will be necessary at this time, and I don't think any member of the commission ought to discuss it individually."

Mr. Hepburn will return to New York early in the morning, but there is a possibility that further meetings will be held by the other members to-morrow, depending somewhat upon the news from Washington.

ASKS FINANCIERS' ADVICE.

Governor to Meet Them to Talk Over Financial Legislation.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 19.—Gov. Sulzer will meet a number of financiers, together with representatives of the Controller's office and the State Banking Department, to-morrow afternoon, for the purpose of getting advice with reference to the financial legislation which will be necessary at the extraordinary session. The discussion will embody the question of whether a direct State tax should be imposed and whether there exists justification for withdrawing from the State sinking funds and applying to current State expenditures something like $12,000,000, as proposed by the Governor during the regular session.

His contention at that time was that this amount was in the sinking funds above what was needed to meet the bonded indebtedness of the State, principal and interest. But this assertion was seriously contested by financiers, and the opposition grew so strong that the Legislature defeated the bill embodying the Governor's plan.

The Governor would not say whom he had invited to the conference, but said that he would be guided by the advice of the men of affairs whom he was to meet.

Committee to Aid Union Bag.

August Heckscher, John A. Sleicher, and James B. Marsh have been appointed a committee of stockholders of the Union Bag & Paper Company to coöperate with the management of the company in plans to increase its earnings. This committee was named in keeping with the understanding arrived at at the annual meeting of the company's stockholders last April.

THE MAYOR ON LAND TAXES.

Agrees That Property Benefited by Subways Should Pay for Them.

In response to a letter from the Business Men's Association to Relieve and Encourage Industry by Taxing Land Improvements, in which it was suggested that the cost of the subways should be assessed on the land benefited thereby, Mayor Gaynor has written this letter:

City of New York,
Office of the Mayor, June 17, 1913.

Sirs: Your letter of June 16 is at hand. The land along the subway zones will no doubt be greatly enhanced in value, and that value will appear on the assessment rolls. In that way it will bear the largest relative part of the cost of subway construction. Your suggestion that all of the cost of such construction should be borne by these commends itself to the judgment of most people. We did not provide for the building of subways by such district assessment for the simple reason that we could not raise the money except on the credit of the whole city.

Bonds issued against such assessments would probably have been salable at all. I need not go at large into this, for you, no doubt, understand it as well as I do. But it is not too late to have legislation for the casting of the expense on the districts benefited. It could not be done without legislation—namely, legislation allowing the city to reimburse itself by levying the cost on these benefited districts.

No one can read the views of those who wish to take all taxes off land improvements and levy the same on the bare land alone without sympathy. But, having adopted a different way at the beginning, it is very hard to make a change. I suppose a change will come some time. Sincerely yours,

W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.

JOHN T. McROY, Esq., and seventeen others, 320 Broadway, New York City.

Those signing the letter to Mayor Gaynor were Charles Hartman, John J. Hopper, John Moody, Amos R. E. Pinchot, Charles T. Root, Fred R. Seeman, E. Vail Stebbins of Manhattan, Edward Polak, and M. F. Westergren of the Bronx, W. O. Badger, Frederick L. Cranford, A. H. Eastmond, and Byron W. Holt of Brooklyn, C. A. Willey of Queens and Russell Bleecker and E. J. Shriver of Richmond.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Considering the general market dullness that prevailed elsewhere in Wall Street, the trading on the Consolidated Stock Exchange was on a fair scale of activity. Odd lots of American Smelting changed hands at 63 and 63⅛, the latter being its closing price, while a transaction in Missouri, Kansas & Texas at 21½ represented the only market for that stock reported in Wall Street during the day. Weakness marked the opening at 9:30 o'clock, when general declines were registered compared with Wednesday's closing quotations, and the market sagged further in the later dealings.

NO RATES FIXED FOR ORE.

Steel Trust Said to Follow Independents—No Coke Monopoly.

The vessels operated on the Great Lakes by the United States Steel Corporation through its subsidiary, the Pittsburgh Steamship Company, cannot carry more than 60 per cent. of the iron ore required by the corporation, according to the testimony given yesterday by Harry Coulby, President of the steamship company, in the Government's suit to dissolve the Steel Corporation. Instead of fixing rates for the lake carriage of ore, the witness testified, the Steel Corporation accepted the rates fixed by the independents. Those were not fixed by agreement, he said on cross-examination, but were brought about by one or two of the big carriers naming a rate which other carriers eventually followed.

Thomas Lynch, President of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, followed Mr. Coulby on the stand. Questioned on direct examination, Mr. Lynch outlined the position which the Frick Coke Company held in the coke fields. In the Connelsville district of Pennsylvania the Frick Company increased its holding since 1901 from 60,000 to 72,000 acres. The balance of the 600,000 acres in the district were owned, he said, by independents. In that district, in 1901, the Steel Corporation, Mr. Lynch testified, had twenty-seven competitors. To-day, he said, the corporation had eighty-six competitors.

In 1912 the Connelsville and Lower Connelsville regions, the witness said, produced 47.4 per cent. of the coke produced in the United States, and the Frick Company's share amounted to 26 per cent. From 1903 to 1911 the Frick Company did not sell to any one outside of the Steel Corporation, but had sold some to outsiders since 1911.

Up to that year the Frick Company's output was not sufficient to fill the needs of the Steel Corporation, and the coke company had to buy coke in the open market. In 1906 its purchases amounted to about 1,000,000 tons. The Carnegie Company, the witness thought, paid as much for the coke it bought from the Frick Company as other customers paid.

The Steel Corporation's supply of coking coal, Mr. Lynch estimated, on the basis of the coal mined during the last few years, was sufficient to last fifty years. Its coke output in 1906 amounted to more than 12,000,000 tons. At that rate the supply would last about forty-two years.

URGE CURRENCY ACT NOW.

Legislation at Present Session Favored by Credit Men.

CINCINNATI, June 19.—The National Credit Men's Association, in annual convention here, to-day adopted a resolution calling upon President Wilson and legislative leaders at Washington to press banking and currency legislation at the present session of Congress.

A resolution expressing regret that Carter Glass of Virginia, Chairman of the Banking and Currency Committee of the House, was not able to be present also was adopted.

Ontario & Western Dividend.

The Directors of the New York, Ontario & Western Railroad declared yesterday a dividend of 2 per cent., payable Aug. 4. This is the first dividend which has been paid by the road since August, 1911. It is the same rate which was paid annually from 1906 to 1911. The New York, New Haven & Hartford in 1904 acquired $29,160,000 New York, Ontario & Western stock. The dividend declared yesterday will yield the New Haven $583,200.

TENNESSEE TO SAVE CREDIT

Legislature Accepts Plan to Sell Short Term Notes.

Special to The New York Times.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 19.—The Tennessee General Assembly took steps at to-night's session to provide for the protection of the State debt that matures on July 1, the bonds of which are held by financiers in New York.

The first step was to authorize the funding board to prepare short-term paper to be sold for the purpose of redeeming the $10,000,000 of settlement bonds, and this was followed by the introduction of a bill in each house which gives authority for the sale of the paper at a rate of interest not greater than 6 per cent.

In adopting this plan the New York idea was embodied in the arrangement to save the credit of the State, and a second bill by the Democrats provides for the sale of the regular issue of bonds at any time during the life of the short-term securities that run for two years.

Representatives of the State will leave for New York to-morrow to arrange for the sale of the short-term securities. The enabling act will pass within the next three days.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Pressure continues high off the Atlantic Coast and over the South, and is relatively low over the Middle West and the Rocky Mountain region. No well defined disturbance appears within the field of observations.

High temperatures are again reported from the Ohio, the Mississippi and the lower Missouri Valleys and hte interior of the South Atlantic and East Gulf States, while moderate temperatures continue in the Middle Atlantic States, and New England, along the Northern border and in far Western districts.

There were scattered rains during the last 24 hours in the Northern States from the Great Lakes to the Pacific Coast, and in the Plains States, in other parts of the country the weather remained fair.

The temperature will rise somewhat Friday and Saturday in the Middle Atlantic States and New England, and it will be somewhat lower Friday night and Saturday over the Upper Mississippi and the Missouri Valleys. Temperature changes elsewhere will be unimportant.

Showery weather will continue Friday and Saturday over the north States, east of the Rockies and over the Plains States, while in the Middle Atlantic States, the Ohio and Middle Mississippi Valleys, the weather will be generally fair, except that widely scattered thunderstorms are probable. Elsewhere the weather will be fair Friday and Saturday.

Winds along the New England and Middle Atlantic Coast will be light to moderate variable, mostly south; South Atlantic Coast, light variable.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND SATURDAY.

Eastern New York and Southern New England—Local showers and warmer Friday, Saturday, cloudy, probably showers, light to moderate south winds.

New Jersey—Fair and warmer Friday, probably followed by thunder showers Friday night or Saturday, light to moderate south winds.

Western New York—Local thunder showers Friday and probably Saturday, light to moderate variable winds.

Eastern Pennsylvania—Cloudy and warmer, probably local showers Friday or Friday night; Saturday, unsettled; light south winds.

Northern New England—Local showers Friday and probably Saturday, somewhat higher temperature; light variable winds.

3 A. M.	61	60	4 P. M.	69	67
6 A. M.	58	62	6 P. M.	68	64
9 A. M.	61	66	9 P. M.	63	65
12 M.	66	69	11 P. M.	62	64

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 64; for the corresponding date last year it was 64; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 70.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 65; at 8 P. M. it was 64. Maximum temperature, 69 degrees at 2:40 P. M.; minimum, 59 degrees at 4 A. M. Humidity, 60 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 66 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.22 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.08 inches.

Time Reduced Nearly ONE WEEK

10 Days Now Takes You to Japan—15 Days to China

On New Canadian Pacific Empresses

These new ships are the finest vessels ever brought into Western waters—providing every possible luxury of equipment and service.

Time saving gives TWO EXTRA WEEKS on the round trip to spend in sight-seeing or transacting business.

Empress of Russia—Empress of Asia

Japan and Return Now $300

If tourists knew how restful, refreshing and invigorating is this 10-day voyage on the cool, blue Pacific; how sumptuous the accommodations offered, and how delightful the typically Oriental service—and then how amusing and interesting is little Japan and her people—everyone with six weeks to spend in touring would make it their vacation trip. Costs no more than a European visit.

With additional interests en route to the Pacific coast—the marvelous Canadian Rockies, America's "50 Switzerlands in One"—the beautiful cities of Vancouver and Victoria, and all the wonders of the fascinating Puget Sound country.

All described graphically by our new folder, just off the press, which tells of ships, voyage and countries you may visit.

and enjoy the trip to the Panama Canal at greatly reduced rates.

There is just the right amount of shore-going to lend interest to the entire cruise. These shore visits are entirely comfortable with the temperature ranging from 74° to 84°.

For three weeks you live a life of luxurious ease, as though on board your own yacht. You are sure to be comfortable, because our steamers are built especially for service in the tropics. Huge blowers on deck force fresh, cool, sea air to every room. All staterooms are "outside," many with private baths.

Summer rates in effect until October 1.

EDUCATION NOTES.

The next meeting of the Board of Education will be held on June 25. It will make a large number of appointments and transfers of teachers.

Dr. John P. Conroy, District Superintendent of the Department of Education, recently requested the Municipal Civil Service Commission to accept the application of Hugh C. Pearson for the position of bookkeeper. It is said that Pearson has not yet received his certificate of citizenship. The commission has decided not to grant Dr. Conroy's request.

The reassignment to duty by the Board of Education of Thomas Owens, janitor, has been approved by the Municipal Civil Service Commission.

Mayor Gaynor is expected to attend the public school graduation exercises in the districts of which Miss Grace C. Strachan has charge. The band of Public School 43, Boerum Street, near Manhattan Avenue, Brooklyn, will furnish the music.

The Board of Superintendents, at its meeting yesterday, nominated William A. Boylan, Principal of Public School 46, Manhattan; John S. Roberts, Principal of Public School 62, Manhattan, and Arthur C. Perry, Jr., Principal of Public School 85, Brooklyn, as District Superintendents. It also nominated about 290 women and fifteen men for teachers in the elementary schools, and thirty women as kindergarten teachers. THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Private Dwellings Figure in Several Important Transactions—Two Big Estates in Westchester County Purchased by New Yorkers for Summer Homes—Brooklyn and Suburban Sales.

Private dwellings were an important factor in yesterday's real estate market. On the upper west side the four-story and basement dwelling at 7 West Eighty-first Street was sold by Maud Brevoort Prentice to an investor.

The structure, which has been held by the Prentice family for the past twenty years, occupies a plot 26.3 by 102.2, facing Manhattan Square and the Museum of Natural History. It is assessed by the city for taxation purposes at $75,000, and is reported to have been held at about $100,000.

In West Fifty-eighth Street the old private dwelling at 32 was leased by the Alliance Realty Company, of which William H. Chesebrough is President, to Mitchell Kennerly, a publisher, for a term of fifteen years, at a net aggregate rental of $200,000.

The lease covers the building, remodeled from the present four-story and basement residence into a six-story store and apartment building, equipped with an elevator.

Moore, Schutte & Co. sold for Sadie Klein 548 West 150th Street, a three-story and basement private dwelling, on lot 17 by 99.11, to a client for occupancy.

Another deal on Washington Heights involved the three-story dwelling at 783 St. Nicholas Avenue, occupying a plot 20 by 85, adjoining the corner of 149th Street. Hedwig Glass is the owner of record.

R. C. Black Buys at Pelham Manor.

R. Clifford Black, a member of the firm of Black, Starr & Frost, Forty-eighth Street and Fifth Avenue, has purchased from Payson Merrill, receiver for Martin J. Condon, Mr. Condon's residence at Pelham Manor, N. Y.

The buildings on the property, which consists of about five and a half acres, on the corner of the Esplande and Boston Post Road, cost about $250,000. Kenneth Mygatt was the broker.

M. Schinasi Buys Summer Home.

The estate of J. L. Neilson at Larchmont Manor has been sold to M. Schinasi as a Summer home. The property, which consists of about four acres of parked land with a villa and numerous outhouses, has been held at about $200,000. Mrs. Edmund W. Bodine negotiated the transaction.

Tenement Property Sold.

Leonard Neill has purchased from the Rauchfuss estate, 310 West Sixteenth Street, a five-story tenement, on a lot 25 by 103.3, located about 125 feet west of Eighth Avenue. Pepe & Brothers were the brokers.

Brooklyn.

The two-story and basement brownstone private residence at 542 Decatur Street, on a lot 18 by 100 feet, was sold by Ketcham Brothers for the T. & B. Leslie Company to a client for occupancy. The same brokers also sold to a client, the two-story and basement, two-family, brownstone dwelling, on a lot 18 by 100 feet, at 950 Putnam Avenue, for Dr. W. Dillon.

Howard C. Pyle & Co. report the sale of 477 Lafayette Avenue, between Franklin and Bedford Avenues, a three-story and basement, private dwelling, for the Herman Company, to a client for occupancy.

The Jerome Property Corporation sold 152 Lincoln Place, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues, a three-story and basement, brownstone, private residence, on a lot 20 by 100, for Mrs. Margaret Reid to a client for investment. Henry Pierson & Co. represented the seller.

Long Island.

Howard Pyle & Co. sold 108-116 Classon Avenue, between Flushing and Park Avenues, a two-story brick factory building, on a plot 155 by 100, for the Classon Avenue Company to a manufacturer for occupancy.

The Windsor Land & Improvement Company sold at Floral Park to J. S. Considine and M. Locher each a plot 40 by 100 on Iris Avenue; to E. A. Kolb a plot 60 by 100 on Tulip Avenue; to F. V. Luckens a plot 40 by 100 on Carnation Avenue; to C. A. Burghund a plot 25 by 153 on Plainfield Avenue; to J. Pantazi a plot 60 by 100 on Pansy Avenue, and to W. A. Hardin a plot 40 by 100 on Verbena Avenue. The same company sold at Rockville Centre to J. Donohue, a plot 40 by 100 on Chestnut Street, and to D. [illegible] a plot 20 by 104 on Lake View Avenue.

Westchester County.

The Westman Realty Company has sold for the Huntington estate at New Rochelle eight lots to the Thanhauser Film Corporation for purposes of enlarging their studio. The property has three frontages, 100 feet on Main Street, 250 feet on Evans Street, and 100 feet on Huntington Place.

A. K. Shipman has sold at Yonkers for John Lewis the frame and stucco dwelling at 78 Grassy Lane to John Priesach, and for John Tansy, Jr., the adjoining plot, 77 Grassy Lane, to the same purchaser.

Recent Buyers.

Weymer H. Waitt is the buyer of 309 and 311 West Eighty-sixth Street, which will be reimproved with a twelve-story apartment house.

Nathan Wilson is the buyer of the vacant plot on the south side of 160th Street, 475 feet west of Broadway, running through to Riverside Drive, sold Monday by Henry Corn. The plot, which is considered one of the finest apartment house sites on Washington Heights, has a frontage of about 100 feet on both Riverside Drive and 160th Street and a depth of about 250 feet. The site will be improved with apartment houses.

Lease in Sixth Ave. Retail Section.

Ogden & Clarkson have leased the four-story and basement building 336 Sixth Avenue, between Twenty and Twenty-first Streets, for the Bradish Johnson Estate, Inc., for a term of years, to Harry Goldman, an importer of art goods, who will occupy the building for his own use. The property was held at a rental of $10,000 per annum.

$100,000 Church for Fordham.

A one-story stone church to cost $100,000 will be erected on the Fordham University grounds in the Bronx. Plans for the new edifice were filed yesterday by Architect William H. Gompert. It will occupy a site 48 by 138.5.

Leases.

The Cross & Brown Company has leased, for a term of years to E. B. Meyrowitz, Inc., for the George Kemp Real Estate Company, the store and basement 615 Fifth Avenue. The store has ben held at $20,000.

James E. Barry & Co. have leased for the Hoguet estate the store at the southwest corner of 165th Street and Broadway to Thomas Murray for a term of years, to be occupied as a café.

Isidor Kempner has leased for the Wine Growers' Association the double store at 1,804 Amsterdam Avenue to the Washington Market Company for a long term of years. Also for L. Vogel the store at 1,801 Amsterdam Avenue to S. Mele.

WATERFRONT PROPERTY
for residence purposes near New York is a rarity, for practically every tract is incorporated in one or another of the larger private estates.

Grenwolde
at Great Neck, Long Island

offers the man in comfortable circumstances the only opportunity to secure real waterfront without purchasing an extensive estate. The rolling ground, splendid old trees and varied outlook provide a variety of sites for attractive homes, and the property restrictions and conditions of purchase insure a community of refined and congenial people.

The half-timbered houses now building at GRENWOLDE are notable for comfort and convenience in interior arrangement and for the charm of their design. Booklet B, fully describing GRENWOLDE, with floor plans, and full directions for reaching the property sent on request.

FORECLOSURE SALES.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR the Southern District of New York.—THE EQUITABLE LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES, Complainant, against IMPROVED PROPERTY HOLDING COMPANY OF NEW YORK et al., Defendants.—In equity.

Notice is hereby given that, in pursuance of a decree of foreclosure, dated March 24th, 1913, made and entered in the above cause by the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York on the 27th day of March, 1913, I, Payson Merrill, Special Master, duly appointed by said court to make this sale, will sell on the 28th day of May, 1913, at eleven o'clock A. M., at the north main entrance of the County Court House, in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, at public auction, as directed by said court, the following described property, to wit:

All that certain lot, piece, or parcel of land, with the buildings thereon erected, situated in the City and County of New York, bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a point formed by the intersection of the westerly side of Broadway and the southerly side of Walker Street; and running thence southerly along said westerly side of Broadway fifty feet ten and one-quarter inches, (50 feet 10¼ inches,) more or less, to the northerly wall of the building commonly known as No. 393 Broadway; thence running westerly and parallel or nearly so with Walker Street and along the said northerly wall of said premises, known as No. 393 Broadway, one hundred feet three and one-half inches, (100 feet 3½ inches,) more or less, to the corner of a wall; thence again southerly and parallel or nearly so with Broadway, and along the rear walls of the premises known as Nos. 391 and 393 Broadway, fifty feet and eleven inches, (50 feet 11 inches,) more or less, to the centre of a stone wall; thence again westerly and parallel or nearly so with Walker Street and through the centre of said stone wall in the rear of premises known as No. 61 Walker Street, twenty-four feet three and one-quarter inches, (24 feet 3¼ inches,) more or less, to the easterly wall of the premises known as No. 59 Walker Street; thence northerly and parallel or nearly so with Broadway and along the easterly wall of premises known as No. 59 Walker Street, one hundred feet and eight inches, (100 feet 8 inches,) more or less, to the southerly side of Walker Street, and thence easterly along the southerly side of Walker Street one hundred twenty-seven feet seven and three-quarter inches, (127 feet 7¾ inches,) more or less, to the point or place of beginning. It being therein declared to be the intent of the said mortgagors to convey thereby the premises known as Nos. 395, 397, and 399 Broadway, and Nos. 61, 63, 65 and 67 Walker Street, as the same were then in possession.

The Special Master will receive no bid from any one, except the complainant, who shall not first deposit with the Special Master the sum of Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000,) either in cash or in check certified by a National or State Bank, or a Trust Company, situated in the City of New York. The cash or checks so deposited, except those deposited by any bidder whose bid shall be provisionally accepted, will be returned by the Special Master at the conclusion of the sale to the bidder or bidders from whom they were received. The cash or checks so deposited by any bidder whose bid shall be provisionally accepted will be returned by the Special Master to the bidder or bidders from whom they were received if such provisional acceptance shall not thereafter be confirmed by the court. The cash or check deposited by any successful bidder in order to qualify him to bid will be forfeited and applied to the expense of the sale and of the receivership in the event that said bidder shall not make good his bid. In the event that any successful bidder shall fail to make good his bid upon confirmation to him of such sale, a resale may be ordered and the said bidder shall be liable for all the expense thereof and for any deficiency of price realized thereon.

In addition to the cash deposit upon any bid at the time of said sale as hereinbefore required, which shall be received as a part of the purchase price, there shall also be paid by the purchaser within thirty days after the confirmation of said sale the remainder of the purchase price.

The court reserves the right to reject any bid and to resell the property upon the failure of any purchaser to comply with the terms of the sale, or with any order of the court in connection with the sale within thirty days after service upon the purchaser of a certified copy of such order.

The property will be sold subject to all taxes, assessments, and water rates, and existing leases.

For a more particular description of the property to be sold and the terms and conditions of the sale, reference is hereby made to the decree of foreclosure, dated March 24th, 1913, entered by the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York in the above-entitled cause on March 27th, 1913. LOST HEARST CASH ON BELMONT RACES

Burns Detective Could Win with His Own, but Not with That of His Employer.

GOT PROOF OF GAMBLING

Editor Brisbane Says It Was Sought So State Could Act if County Authorities Did Not.

Arthur Brisbane, editor of The Evening Journal, and three Burns operatives employed by the Hearst newspapers to obtain evidence of public gambling at the Belmont and Piping Rock race tracks appeared as witnesses yesterday morning before County Judge James P. Niemann in Mineola at a hearing on charges made in the Hearst papers. The proceeding was to ascertain whether sufficient evidence of a legal nature could be adduced to justify the issuing of warrants for the arrest of alleged bookmakers.

James Evinger Hawks of Thirty-sixth Street and Sixth Avenue, Manhattan, a Burns operative, testified that he had attended every day of the Belmont track meeting and was at the Piping Rock track on June 5 and 7. He was accompanied by an operative named Boissonault. On May 30, the opening day at Belmont, he admitted he had been unable to place a bet, although he say groups gathered here and there about men whom he supposed to be bookmakers.

Next day he met a man named Mahoney at the bar under the grandstand in the $1 inclosure and placed a bet of $20 with him, which he lost. The witness could not remember the name of the horse. The next Monday he made a bet with the same man on Unfurl in the second race, and attempted to place bets with other bookmakers, but was unable to get them to take his money.

On succeeding days he laid wagers with Ed Wilson, Ed Price, and Maxie Meyers. He explained that he was introduced to these men by acquaintances. The witness admited that during his visits to the race tracks he did not see any one publicly displaying odds or soliciting bets.

John Gill, another Burns operative, testified that on Decoration Day he placed bets with a bookmaker named Laude, who had a partner named Brooks. Brooks explained to his clients that in case they won they would be paid off the following morning in a café at 108 Fulton Street, Brooklyn. Gill also placed bets on various days with Maxie Meyers, S. Ellis, Brooks, Jack Carroll, and a man named Fessenden.

Ellis displayed a Deputy Sheriff's shield of New York County as proof that he was all right and responsible, the witness stated. He met Fessenden through a negro called "Yellow," who told the operative that a was a "clocker" for the bookmaker. The witness added that he had heard strangers ask Fessenden the odds and make verbal bets with him.

Saw Winning Bets Paid.

A memorandum of each bet was recorded by Fessenden's partner, Gill asserted. On one occasion, he added, he had heard Fessenden say to his partner: "Go down to the end of the bar, where the 5-cent beer is served, and give each of these men $50."

Gaston Boissonault, the third Burns operative, had practically the same experience as his comrades, except that he cashed one $5 bet during his investigation. On June 17, however, he returned to the track on his own hook and handed a bookmaker named Ed Price $30 inclosed in a programme. He told him that he would later indicate his choice in the various races. He was lucky enough to win $12 on Montressor in the first race, a similar amount on Sandy Hill for place in the second race, and $5 on the third race. He did not bet on the fourth race, but in the fifth event he won $10 on Malaga at even money, making his net winnings $39 for the day. He met Price later near the gate of the field and was paid off with $69 in bills.

Couldn't Win with Hearst Money.

"You mean to say that although you lost consistently when you were playing with Hearst money, you won every bet as soon as you began gambling with your own?" demanded the District Attorney.

The witness admitted that this was so.

Arthur Brisbane testified that he had given instructions to the city editor of The Evening Journal to engage the Burns Agency and to have at least two operatives working together so that in case violations of the law were discovered the necessary corroboration would not be lacking. He admitted having written an editorial denouncing gambling at the race tracks which appeared in The Evening Journal last Tuesday.

In reply to the inquiry of District Attorney Wysong Mr. Brisbane admitted that he did not know from personal experience that there was any gambling going on in violation of law at Belmont or Piping Rock, but said that he had been "generally aware of conditions at the track for some time." He admitted that in writing his editorial he had been guided by the reports of the Burns detectives and also by statements made to him by personal friends who were members of The Jockey Club.

"Was it your intention in undertaking this investigation, Mr. Brisbane, to assist the authorities in enforcing the law?" the District Attorney asked.

"Frankly," the editor replied, "I was convinced that the county authorities were not attempting to enforce the law, and I wanted to get the State authorities interested."

Gov. Sulzer's Militia Threat.

"What gave you the right to assume that the county authorities would not proceed against violators of the law?" asked Mr. Wysong.

"Well, I have been a newspaper man for twenty-nine years, and I know that the wealthy men who control the race tracks can make it very difficult for the local authorities to obtain evidence against gambling which can be easily obtained by a third party," was the retort.

In reply to other questions Mr. Brisbane admitted that he had been in communication with Gov. Sulzer, and that the Governor had promised to call out the militia and forcibly close the tracks, if necessary, in order to prevent gambling. This promise, he explained, was contingent upon conclusive evidence being laid before the Governor that the law was being violated without any interference on the part of the county officials.

The hearing will be continued to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

CHUBODA'S MYSTERY HOUSE

Cupfuls of Gems and Cellars of Wine for Man Accused of Theft.

It was learned yesterday that Adolph Chuboda, the cashier of The Police Gazette, held recently in $7,500 bail on three indictments charging larceny from his employer, Richard K. Fox, and who is still in the Tombs, was a connoisseur of wines and had a collection of rare old vintages in a sub-basement of his house, 412 East Fifth Street, Flatbush, which he himself is said to have valued at $30,000.

For a long time Chuboda had been a puzzle to his neighbors, who referred to his modest white frame dwelling as "the house of mystery." It was said that all the shades of the house were drawn both by day and night. But the curiosity of the neighborhood gossips was still further whetted some two years ago when Chuboda made extensive excavations under his house and had an extra chimney built.

Some of the people of the neighborhood became so wrought up that one of them is said to have written an anonymouse letter to the Police Department asking that Chuboda be investigated. This was almost two years before he was indicted for embezzlement as a result of revelations of alleged frauds in the books of The Police Gazette, extending over a period of seven years, which came to light when Lewis Lubin, an expert accountant, examined the firm's books.

As a result of this anonymous letter to the Police Department, it was said yesterday, detectives had been sent to Flatbush to investigate the "house of mystery" and its mysterious owner, the result being that the detectives found nothing wrong and in their report gave Chuboda a clean bill of health. The detectives are said to have reported that Chuboda had bought the house heavily mortgaged and that he was paying off the mortgage at the rate of $25 a month.

Whether the detectives who reported everything O. K. had learned about the alleged $30,000 collection of rare wines in the sub-subcellar is not known, but one of the neighbors gave yesterday a vivid and circumstantial account of how he had been permitted to view it.

Appraisal of Banker's Estate Filed in This City.

John Howard McEldowney, one of the Vice Presidents of the National City Bank, who died in Ospedalitti, Italy, on May 7, 1911, left a net estate of $224,267, according to the appraisal filed in this city yesterday. Most of the securities, amounting to more than $200,000, were holdings in Chicago banks and trust companies with which Mr. McEldowney was associated before he was brought to New York by Frank A. Vanderlip, President of the National City Bank.

From the total assets of $302,026 deductions of $70,270 were made, which included debts owing to Frank A. Vanderlip of $50,791. The close relations between the two bankers were shown by affidavits concerning the loans. From July 1, 1909, to Jan. 2, 1911, Mr. McEldowney borrowed from his associate $68,252, without giving any security. The only evidence of the loans were the private books of the creditor and debtor.

The stock in the National City Bank held by Mr. McEldowney upon his death consisted of 67.40 shares, valued at $26,757. In the Bank of Chicago Heights, with which he was connected previous to his coming to New York, he held 122.75 shares, valued at $21,481.25. Under his will he gave 1-3 of his estate, or $74,755, to his wife, Mrs. Bertha J. McEldowney, and divided the rest in equal shares among his children, Grace C., Anna C., and Howard V. McEldowney.

Capt. Hiertdahl Entertains.

A number of steamship men and personal friends of the agents of the newly organized Norwega-America Line were invited yesterday to inspect the new steamship Kristianiafjord, which was built to inaugurate the service between New York and Bergen, Stavanger and Christiania. Capt. Hiertdahl, who was in the Russo-Japanese war, entertained the guests at luncheon, and in a brief speech said he hoped the new service would help to stimulate trade between the United States and Norwegian ports.

Defeats Anti-Semite for Reichstag.

BERLIN, June 19.—Joseph Friedrich Naumann, one of the ablest Radical ex-members of the Reichstag, who was defeated in the general election in January, 1912, was elected to-day over the anti-Semitic candidate in a bye-election in the Waldeck-Pyrmont District. The district was formerly anti-Semite. Herr Naumann's election gives the United Left 200 votes in the Reichstag.

HIRE SAFEBREAKERS TO HELP RUN CITY

Jersey City Commission Government Fights Its Way to City Funds.

DEPOSITS ARE TIED UP

All but One of the Banks Holding Actual Cash Question Legality of New Regime.

Jersey City's newly elected Executives, the five men who have been chosen by a majority of the voters to inaugurate the commission form of administration of municipal affairs, were in control last night of all the offices and machinery of the City Government, but it was necessary to precede the political victory by calling on the police for assistance in ousting one of the old officials and to get the services of safebreakers to gain actual possession of the city bonds and securities.

Old Treasurer Holds On.

All the old city officials formally protested against being deposed from office when the Commissioners met on Tuesday and formally organized, but all surrendered without opposition after voicing their protest except Carl G. A. Schumann, the City Treasurer, who held on to his offices in the City Hall and defied all attempts to get him out. He neglected to sit up with a guard on Wednesday night, and a few minutes after he locked the office doors and went home at 6 P. M. George H. Brensinger, Commissioner of Finance and Revenue, with the assistance of the police, broke open one of the doors, took possession, put on new locks at every door and left a police detail on guard.

Treasurer Schumann, with an escort of his friends and political followers, appeared at the City Hall a few minutes before noon yesterday and was barred from his office by the policeman on guard at the door. Brensinger barred Schumann as an official, but admitted him to the office as a citizen. Schumann took away some of his personal effects.

The Sinking Fund Commissioners would not agree among themselves to surrender the funds in their possession. All of the city's bonds and securities, amounting to $5,900,000, were locked up in the big safe in the office of the sinking fund, on the second floor of the City Hall, one flight above that of the Commissioner of Finance.

Call in the Safe Breakers.

Sinking Fund Commissioner James Hasking of the Union Trust Company was willing to aid, and did so, by openning the outer door of the safe, for which he had the combination, but the combination of the second or inner door was known only to Walter J. Connelly of the Commercial Trust Company, and he refused to give it up, and Morris Burkhardt, the third Commissioner of the Sinking Fund, was at his office in Manhattan and decided to remain neutral.

Then experts were called in from the company that had put the safe into the City Hall, and the inner door was forced open and the securities were removed to the office of the Commissioner of Finance. Before that, all city departments had been notified by the new official that funds collected must be withheld from Schumann and turned over to the Commissioner of Finance.

The deposits of city funds in five banks and trust companies were with one exception tied up by the conflict of official authority. The one exception was that of the Union Trust Company, where $604,000 was held to the credit of the city the bank officials promptly agreeing to honor the city's drafts without question, believing that the new form of city Government was legal beyond dispute. The other banks, the First National, with $520,000 of city funds; Hudson County National Bank, $610,000; Third National, $517,000, and the Mercantile Trust Company, were seeking legal advice.

"There can be no danger to the banks in the matter," said John J. Milton, personal counsel of Commissioner Brensinger. "The courts have ruled repeatedly that the acts of a de facto Government are binding and cannot be affected as against a third and innocent party in the event of illegality of the administration to continue in office."

Schumann Questions Election.

Ex-Treasurer Schumann says his opposition to the new administration is not due to his desire to retain the office for the sake of the job, but is based on his desire to protect himself and his bondsmen. His position is based on the opinion of Corporation Counsel Warren Dixon, that the special election in April did not conform to the legal requirements because the requisite number of votes were not cast for the new commission form of government. The ballots voted in the November election have been destroyed.

Commissioner Brensinger and Mayor Fagan say that the people are interested deeply in the new form of commission government and that legal technicalities should not be put in the way of their desire to give the new administration a fair and non-partisan trial.

MRS. CATT RE-ELECTED.

Again President of Suffrage Alliance—White Slavery Discussed.

BUDAPEST, June 19.—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt of New York was to-day re-elected President of the International Woman's Suffrage Alliance by acclamation without any balloting.

A crowded afternoon session was devoted to a discussion of the "white slave" traffic. Resolutions were unanimously adopted calling upon the congress to request all Governments to institute an international investigation into the extent and causes of commercialized vice.

Mrs. Catt, in moving the resolution, said that they wanted no whitewashing commission, but commissions with intelligent women members, appreciating the real conditions. It was useless, she said, longer to refrain from speaking for fear of being immodest. Prudery must be abandoned. The women must make a great noise until something was done.

Other members argued that it was hopeless to expect to abolish the traffic unless woman suffrage were first obtained. Mrs. Tupper Wilkes described what had been accomplished in California.

The congress will decide to-morrow on the place of meeting in 1915. San Francisco has sent the alliance an urgent invitation to come to the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

FIRST PEACE TREATY SOON.

Seventeen Nations Accept Bryan's Plan to Investigate Disputes.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Progress has been made in the negotiations concerning Secretary Bryan's peace plan to such an extent that within a short time Mr. Bryan expects to be able to have the first treaty with a foreign Government ready to send to the Senate. Interest in the plan continues to be shown by different nations, it was said at the State Department. Denmark and Hayti gave notice to-day of their desire to make such an agreement.

This brings the list of nations likely to make peace treaties with the United States up to seventeen. In the order of their approval of the idea they are Italy, Austria, Brazil, Sweden, Norway, Peru, Great Britain, Netherlands, Russia, France, Germany, Bolivia, Argentina, China, the Dominican Republic, Denmark, and Hayti.

FIND HELPLESS MAN A CITY DERELICT

Police Suspect That He Was Turned Adrift When Care Was irksome.

NO CLUE TO IDENTITY

Deaf and Dumb and Partly Paralyzed, He Puzzles Police and Physicians.

A human derelict, deaf and dumb, almost totally blind, and partly paralyzed, was found late yesterday afternoon by a policeman in 145th Street, near Riverside Drive. It is an utter mystery how the man, who is apparently incapable of traveling by himself half a block, came to be there. The only theory the police can form is that some one who has been taking care of him decided that he could not or would not do so any longer, and left him in the street to be picked up like a foundling. He is as helpless to face the problem of taking care of himself as any foundling ever was.

Policeman Hanover of the West 125th Street Station saw a crowd about the stoop of 500 West 145th Street late yesterday afternoon and, on investigating, found its centre of interest to be a shabby man about 65 years old. From people living in the neighborhood he learned that the man had been there for as much as three hours, but there was not a soul who could say when he had first appeared there or how.

The man was oblivious to all questioning. Now and then he gave vent to a half-smothered chuckle, but there was no trace of understanding in anything that he did. He was a weird figure.

The policeman telephoned to the J. Hood Wright Hospital for an ambulance, and Dr. Tippens responded. He found that besides being a mute, the man was almost totally blind. Indeed, it was thought then that he was stone blind. It was not until the ambulance had taken him to the West 125th Street station that it was discovered he could see a little with his right eye. They searched his pockets in the police station to try to find some clue to his identity, but there was not the slightest.

When Hanover tried to get the man to walk to the ambulance it was discovered that he was paralyzed on his right side. It was apparent that it would have been a miracle if he had walked alone half a block to the place where he was found. Yet a careful search of the neighborhood failed to disclose any one who had seen him come there.

In the police station a piece of paper was shown to the man in the hope that he would be able to communicate by it as some mutes do. When a pencil was put in his hand the man seized it eagerly, but his observers were disappointed to find that he only drew meaningless hieroglyphics on the paper.

Dr. Karpes of Bellevue Hospital had been sent for on the advice of Dr. Tippens. They had not observed the man five minutes before they came upon the next measure of his affliction. It was apparent that his mind was feeble.

It was decided by the physicians after a consultation to take him to the psychopathic ward at Bellevue. The two physicians and three policemen had all they could do to carry the man to the ambulance. At Bellevue it was said that he was insane.

The police description of the man is: Apparently 65 years old; height, 5 feet 10 inches; dark gray coat, dark brown, striped trousers; black laced shoes, gray stockings, gray hair and mustache, light blue eyes, straw hat white shirt with black stripes, clothing shabby but fairly neat, shows signs of care.

The Home of Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothes

Values and Extra Values

WHEN you buy a suit of clothes, how do you know that you have bought your money's worth?

Nine times out of ten you don't—you take the word of the merchant from whom you bought.

He says it's good value, you believe and buy; if you find it is good value, you tell your friends, and that merchant's business grows.

We sell Hart, Schaffner & Marx clothes because they offer such remarkable values—and our business has grown and grown because men who buy here always get more than they expect in the way of value in the good looks, the fit, the service of our clothes.

When most shops 'round town are practically out of pencil stripes, chalk lines, and hair lines, we have lots of them at $25, $28, $30 and $35—and at every price these suits are far better value than you generally find elsewhere.

Hart, Schaffner & Marx Summer Suits at $16.50 and $21.50

Those at $16.50 would regularly be priced up to $30 and those at $21.50 up to $45.

OUR Mohair Coats and Trousers were made to our especial order this season by Hart, Schaffner & Marx—no mohairs in New York can compare with them in style and fit. As to value—we price them all at $15.
